CHILDREN'S POPCORN PERMEATED WITH LYE

BURNS LAKE (CP) — Hospital officials in this northern British Columbia community said today 26 children were treated for chemical burns after eating popcorn permeated with household lye.

A spokesman said one of the children, Barbara Cowley, two, was in serious condition and nine others were in satisfactory condition. The rest were treated and released.

Red Cross To Begin Airlift

Aba Captured By Federalists

LAGOS (AP) — The Nigerian federal army today claimed the capture of Aba, the biggest town held by the Biafra secessionists.

Meanwhile the Red Cross prepared to begin an accelerated airlift of food and medicine into Nigeria's former Eastern region, where starvation is reported widespread.

The Nigerian government has agreed not to hamper such flights during the 10-day period starting Thursday.

"The Nigerian flag is proudly flying over Aba at 10 a.m.," said a government release following four days of reports of the city's fall from unofficial sources in Port Harcourt. "Care of the civilians in that area is already in progress."

Aba, an administrative and communications centre for the Biafrans since the fall of their capital, Enugu, last October, had a population of 131,000 before the war.

It was reported virtually deserted after the federal government started its final assault against the secessionists in mid-August.

The federal ministry of information announced the airlift agreement with the International Red Cross Committee Tuesday. Up to now, the federal government said it would shoot down any planes flying into secessionist Biafra, claiming the mercy flights were carrying arms into the breakaway former Eastern Region of Nigeria.

The Red Cross had announced Monday that it would begin daytime mercy flights despite the Nigerian blockade. The Red Cross and other private groups have been flying emergency supplies to two Biafran airstrips at night, but the amount of food they have been able to deliver is negligible compared with the needs of the millions threatened with starvation.

Following the meeting, Lindt left for the Spanish island of Fernando Poo, south of Nigeria, to organize and lead the first daytime mercy flight permitted by the federal government.

REFUSE LAND ROUTE

Nigerian officials said the Red Cross also agreed to try to get the Biafrans to open an emergency land and water relief corridor. The Biafrans have refused to accept supplies this way, claiming the federal government would use the route for military purposes and would poison any food passing through its territory.

The flights will be made by five planes—each carrying about 50 tons—supplied by the Red Cross in Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. The Dutch Red Cross is expected to provide a sixth plane later. Some 3,500 tons of food have been stockpiled on Fernando Poo.

Fighting has been reported around the town of Owerri, 50 miles northwest of Port Harcourt, with heavy casualties on both sides.

NEITHER Republicans nor Democrats can satisfy the North Vietnam delegation to the Paris peace talks insofar as their war policies are concerned. Xuan Thuy, chief of the North Vietnam delegation, told newsmen outside the International Conference centre that both Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon plan to push the war in Vietnam. Others in the delegation are Le Duc Tho, extreme left, and Nguyen Than Le, extreme right. (AP Wirephoto)

Vietnam Policies Rejected

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam today rejected the Vietnam policies of both the Democratic and Republican contenders for the U.S. presidency and charged Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon are planning to continue the war.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy delivered his blast at the 20th session of the Paris peace talks in the course of an analysis, as he saw it, of the way the two chief American parties are handling the issue of Vietnam in the U.S. election scheduled Nov. 5.

"Confronted with defeat that they are unable to conceal any longer and with the ever-increasing public protests, the present U.S. authorities as well as the majority in both the Republican and Democratic parties have been forced to talk about peace," Xuan Thuy argued.

"But the positions embodied in the two platforms recently passed show that they still refuse to draw practical lessons from their recent defeats and to move towards a correct solution of the Vietnam problem."

The attack of Hanoi's poet-diplomat drew an immediate retort from American Ambassador Averell Harriman who insisted both the Democrats and Republicans wanted peace.

"I suggested to them (the North Vietnamese) it was quite impossible for one who had lived in a controlled society without free speech and without free expression to understand that there was complete freedom of expression and the right to demonstrate (in America)," Harriman later told newspaper men.

For his part Xuan Thuy reported to journalists "no progress" had been made in the session.

Move to Combat Soviet Invasion

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The western allies announced today they are re-planning the strength and deployment of military forces in Europe because of the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The announcement was made by a North Atlantic Treaty Organization spokesman after a meeting of NATO's defence planning committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is willing to pledge along with its NATO allies to maintain current troop levels in Europe as one way to meet the Soviet move into Czechoslovakia, U.S. administration sources say.

The sources say the issuing of such a pledge probably would be done in a joint statement.

They said this was among alternatives before today's meeting of the National Security Council, major U.S. policy-making body, called to deal with the Soviet presence in Czechoslovakia, which points like a dagger at the heart of Western Europe.

President Johnson scheduled the meeting with his top military, defence and diplomatic aides for late afternoon. The president returned to Washington this morning from a long stay at his Texas ranch.

The council session parallels a similar review now going on at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters in Brussels.

U.S. officials are reluctant to predict what the council will decide, but they acknowledge the U.S. would be agreeable to issuing a joint statement with its allies pledging no further reductions of forces in Europe.

WILL SHELVE REQUESTS

Regarding U.S. forces in Europe it now is clear that U.S. congressional requests for troop reductions can be shelved, the officials said.

Under a 1967 agreement, 34,000 U.S. troops in Europe were to be redeployed and stationed in the U.S., though committed to NATO. They are back in the United States, but officials indicated that the defence department might soon announce when the men would be sent

Early Parley Slated

OTTAWA (CP) — NATO foreign and defence ministers may meet earlier than at their regularly-scheduled December conference in Brussels, informants said today.

A fall meeting is not ruled out.

Object of such a special meeting would be to review the implications for the NATO alliance of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Trudeau has opposed any massing of NATO troops on the Czechoslovakia border as a provocation to Russia.

Both he and Defence Minister Cadieux have said there will be no further reduction in Canada's military strength in Europe this year at least. Canada maintains a 5,000-man infantry brigade and six squadrons of jet bombers in West Germany.

PM Urges Provinces To Discuss Reforms

VANCOUVER — Prime Minister Trudeau used his first major speech since the election to appeal to all provinces to "engage fully" in the continuing debate on constitutional reform.

Unless they do, he said Tuesday, discussions will lack meaning. He made a special plea to provincial premiers to take part in sustained and joint action toward constitutional review.

On the possibility of Senate reform he posed this question:

"Could the Senate, by changes in its composition, method of selection or jurisdiction, be made a more effective protector of regional or linguistic interests?"

On the Supreme Court:

"Could the structure of the Supreme Court be strengthened as the keystone of Canadian federalism?"

He rebuked some provincial premiers for failing to take a stand on Quebec's bid for extension of provincial powers into international affairs.

"It has been reported that none of the heads of provincial delegations (to the continuing federal-provincial conference on constitutional affairs) would either endorse or reject the Quebec position," he said.

"One premier (the prime minister did not name him) is quoted as saying that he preferred to let the question be settled by the heads of the Quebec and federal governments.

"This puts the whole issue in a false perspective," Trudeau said.

"It is a difference of opinion about how our federal system should work and therefore about

Psychiatric Nurses Arbitrate Tuesday

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of British Columbia's psychiatric nurses and the provincial government will meet Tuesday in an attempt to solve a two-year-old dispute over working conditions.

A new three-man B.C. Mediation Commission—in its first test of its powers under Bill 33—is to act as arbitrator.

Dwight Wenham, executive secretary of the B.C. Psychiatric Nurses Association, said he was pessimistic about the outcome.

"There is no indication that the provisions of Bill 33 will have any improving effect," he said. "In fact there are a number of indications that Bill 33 will provide the government with a new toll with which to escape its responsibility for fair dealing."

RUSSIA BARES CENSORSHIP RULES

PRAGUE (AP) — Strict censorship rules were announced today as the Soviet Union tightened its grip on occupied Czechoslovakia.

Domestic censorship rules were delivered to newspaper offices, radio and television stations:

—No news reports or commentaries on the Soviet Union, Hungary, Bulgaria, Poland and East Germany that "could be considered as criticism" by these countries.

—No criticisms of the fundamental principles of socialism, of the Czechoslovak Communist party, of the other countries' parties, of the Czechoslovak army and police. Reprinting of critical commentaries from abroad is forbidden.

—No articles inciting Czechoslovaks to rebel against the occupation troops.

—The term "occupants" and "occupation" are forbidden.

—Foreign-policy commentaries must not popularize the idea of neutrality nor play up the activities of the United Nations Security Council. Only the official viewpoint of the Czechoslovak government may be published.

—Rules on economic and military secrets, laid down before the invasion, remain in effect.

TWO VIETNAM NEWSPAPERS SUSPENDED

SAIGON (AP) — Two Vietnamese-language newspapers have been temporarily suspended by the government for printing an Associated Press story dealing with Premier Tran Van Huong's moves against corruption. The papers are the Saigon Moi and the Jong Nai.

Earlier, the Saigon Post, published in English, was suspended.

Parts of the AP story were censored from other newspapers — the first time such censorship has been applied since Huong became premier four months ago. From time to time Saigon newspapers have been suspended on various charges of printing material the government disliked.

WIRE BRIEFS

Israelis in Clashes

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops exchanged fire with Arab forces across the Jordanian and Syrian borders last night and early today but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

Plane Missing

VANCOUVER (CP)—An air search was started today for a light plane with four men aboard, missing since Monday on a 140-mile flight in the Northwest Territories, search and rescue centre officials said here.

To Reduce Flights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Aviation Agency today proposed a sharp reduction in the number of flights into New York, Washington and Chicago in an effort to ease air traffic congestion.

Escaper Killed

Strikes Close Schools

NEW YORK (AP)—Strikes by teachers demanding better pay and working conditions delayed the reopening of school for tens of thousands of children across the U.S. today. There were empty classrooms in Michigan, Indiana, Rhode Island, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Utah and Connecticut.

Tel Aviv Bus Depot Bombed

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — One person was killed and 49 others wounded in three explosions today near Tel Aviv's central bus station, police sources said.

The three blasts were heard at intervals of a few seconds shortly before noon. Normally the station would be crowded with travellers at that time.

Preliminary reports said explosive charges, believed planted by Arab terrorists, went off at different places around the station's compound.

The explosions—only two weeks after a similar chain of blasts brought chaos to Jerusalem—touched off wild crowd scenes at the terminal.

Police fanned out, rounding up Arabs who ran a gauntlet of jostling, jeering Israelis. At least one Arab was bloodied after an apparent beating.

As the Arabs were hurried from the police station to special buses a mob of more than 300 surged against a thin cordon of police and troops.

Israel's biggest city has not experienced an attack of such intensity in at least 10 years.

Mail Service Profit Target of Task Force

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

(See story Page 7)

OTTAWA — Postmaster General Eric Kierans said today he hopes to have the post office paying its own way and returning a small profit in two years.

Two task forces are to undertake a "complete re-examination" of post office operations, Mr. Kierans said, and will consider such possibilities as transforming the department into a crown corporation and dropping Saturday mail deliveries.

A major dent in the current deficit, will be made by reducing but not abolishing the subsidies on second-class mail, mainly newspapers and periodicals.

The loss on second class mail accounts for $47 million of the deficit for the current fiscal year. Total deficit, without the effects of the three-week postal strike in July and August, would have been $95.5 million.

The $95.5 million figure includes cost of renting post office buildings and superannuation costs formerly carried by the public works and finance departments. With these costs excluded the deficit would have been $43.5 million.

Mr. Kierans said the department was recovering only about 22 per cent of the cost of distributing newspapers and magazines as second class mail. Although the new policy of the department is to make each class of mail pay its own way or its fair share of costs, he said it would be impossible to go in one jump from recovering 22 per cent to full recovery of costs.

Sik Out; Hajek Next to Go

By PETER REHAK

PRAGUE (AP) — The architect of Czechoslovakia's economic reform program has resigned and the foreign minister appears to be on the way out as a result of policies that angered the Kremlin.

Deputy Premier Ota Sik, whose policies envisioned trade and aid from the West and efforts to break free from dependence on the Soviet Union, resigned Tuesday night, Prague Radio reported. It said President Ludvik Svoboda accepted the resignation.

Reuters news agency quoted free radio broadcasts heard in Prague as saying Czechoslovakia will send a delegation to Moscow soon to discuss economic matters. Topics were expected to include Czechoslovak trade policy, the country's need for big credits to pep up its economy and a request for compensation for damage done by the Warsaw pact occupying forces.

The Soviet government made plain it also expects the ouster of Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek. The government newspaper Izvestia called him an "accomplice of the dark forces of reaction and counter-revolution" and accused him of seeking foreign policy changes which Moscow opposes, including closer ties with the West.

Hajek also angered the Soviets by seeking the support of Yugoslavia and Romania—both rebels against Kremlin domination.

Izvestia also attacked Sik along with Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak and State Control Minister Stefan Gasparik.

Vlasak and Gasparik returned to Prague from Yugoslavia Tuesday, but Sik remained in Belgrade and Hajek is in Switzerland. Sik and Hajek have been abroad since before Soviet, Bulgarian, Hungarian, Polish and East German troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 21.

Hajek came to New York for the UN Security Council debate on the invasion, but on orders from Prague asked the council to drop the matter after Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders reached an agreement in four days of negotiations in Moscow.

That agreement provided for gradual withdrawal of occupation troops as the situation "normalized," but Czechoslovak Communist party officials seem increasingly convinced that the Russians will stay for years, perhaps decades.

The invasion frayed the ideological ties that bound the Czechoslovak Army to its Warsaw pact allies and one Communist source said: "I just cannot see how they could risk leaving our country during the next 10 years."

Izvestia said occupation troops were ordered into the cities of Cheb and Karlovy Vary, near the West German border because "in recent days reactionary forces have succeeded in stirring up disorder" there. It did not describe the disorders.

'Canada Leading Plot' To Renew Crisis Talks

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, today accuses George Ignatieff, Canada's United Nations ambassador, of plotting to renew discussion of the Czechoslovak crisis at the UN.

Pravda's New York correspondent, B. Orekhov, writes that discussions now taking place between the Western Allies at the headquarters of the Canadian UN mission "resemble the conduct of plotters working out another gamble."

Orekhov said Ignatieff had acted as the "marksman" for the original Western resolution brought before the Security Council after the Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

"The Canadian representative has become active once again," the Soviet correspondent writes. The British delegate, Lord Caradon, "has joined him in the ranks of the plotters."

Ignatieff, 54, is president of the 15-nation Security Council for the month of September. He is the youngest of three sons of Count Paul Ignatieff, a minister of education in Russia under the czars, who fled with his family to England and later to Canada following the Bolshevik Revolution.

IGNATIEFF

The Canadian- and Oxford-educated ambassador has been in the Canadian diplomatic service since 1940.

Orekhov also criticizes what he calls the "inexplicable activity" of the chief Chilean delegate, Jose Pinera, who has been sounding out opinion on a possible discussion of Czechoslovakia in the UN General Assembly.

He writes that Pinera "is following the steps of one of his predecessors who in 1948 was one of the initiators of the presentation to the United Nations of the question 'about events in Czechoslovakia.'

"Everyone remembers how the attempt at a counter-revolutionary coup in Czechoslovakia 20 ears ago ended, and in what an uncomfortable position the then Chilean delegation put himself."

Orekhov adds:

"The representatives of the imperialist powers are continuing their attempts to exploit the international body for their selfish ends. Refusing to be guided by common sense, they continue bustling in the hope of scoring some propaganda success."

Que. School Protests Peaceful

MONTREAL (CP) — Protest demonstrations by parents and students at two different schools in suburban St. Leonard went on peacefully today while a handful of police watched.

About 300 students showed up at the Aime Renaud high school, occupied since Friday night by a group of some 80 French-language students protesting a school board decision to turn the school over to English students.

The demonstration today by French-speaking students — ordered transferred to what they call inferior schools because of the board's decision — was a symbolic gesture at registering.

Most schools in Quebec opened today, but the sit-in has forced a delay in the start of classes at Aime Renaud until next week.

At the high school, milling crowds of students signed registration forms at tables set up outside the building. Those inside registered through windows.

A few teachers appeared, but none went into the school.

Earlier in the day separatists Rene Levesque, Gilles Gregoire and Doris Lussier received a hostile reception when they visited Aime Renaud.

Cheetah Speeds Gunmen From $40,000 Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — Using a speedboat called Cheetah, three gunmen eluded a small armada of police boats and aircraft on Long Island Sound Tuesday after taking possibly as much as $70,000 from a City Island bank, police said.

The unusual getaway vehicle was found abandoned almost five hours later but police did capture a man they said had helped plan the spectacular robbery.

Police said that two armed men invaded the bank, about 1 p.m., and one forced bank personnel and customers to lie on the floor while the other cleaned from $40,000 to $70,000 from the tellers' drawers.

A spokesman for the Manufacturers' Hanover Trust Co. branch said the men disarmed a guard but a teller, seeing the rifle carried by one robber, activated the alarm system and movie cameras.

Bank officials put the amount taken at $30,000 pending an audit.

The two men, one wearing a ski mask and the other carrying the rifle, fled from the bank to the waiting outboard motorboat in a yellow panel truck which was reported stolen last month.

The gunmen transferred to the boat at a nearby mooring. Witnesses reported they saw the boat's name as it churned away from the pier. They incorrectly reported the boat was blue and white, police said.

A police helicopter, nine police launches, a coast guard launch and a coast guard cutter spent several hours stopping and searching blue and white pleasure boats in the area before the boat's description was corrected. It was red and white.

The boat was finally found moored in a creek.

The suspect arrested Tuesday night was described as an unemployed computer operator, Dennis Geaney, 25.

Police, who gave no details of the arrest, said Geaney was not present during the holdup. He is charged with conspiracy in connection with the robbery.

. . . DISCUSS REFORMS

what kind of country we want to live in.

"No Canadian can afford to wash his hands of a vital issue of Canadian unity which affects all of us in every province."

"Worse still, if some provinces do not take an active part in the very difficult constitutional negotiations ahead, if they disclaim responsibility for the compromises reached, a climate of suspicion and mistrust may be created, which will make it impossible to achieve our common goal of national unity."

Trudeau repeated his hope of meeting the provincial premiers again this year, possibly in December. At the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in February, it was decided that the heads of the federal and provincial governments would meet again periodically to undertake a comprehensive review of the constitution.

A permament secretariat was established to serve this continuing conference and a special committee, preparing for the next meeting of the prime minister and the premiers, has also been at work.

Trudeau reiterated his intention to introduce an official languages bill at the next session of Parliament, which begins Sept. 12.

But he dismissed as nonsense "wild charges that the federal government is trying to make it compulsory for Canadians in all parts of the country to speak two languages."

The purpose of the languages bill would be "to ensure that the citizen will be able to use the official language of his choice" in dealing with the federal government. He said several provinces are planning similar steps.

If both major language groups are to have the fullest measure of freedom, "it is essential to work towards a properly functioning bilingual state," he said.

"In such a state, it will be necessary to speak two languages in order to qualify for some positions, just as it is necessary to be a member of the bar to practise law, or to have a driver's licence to drive a taxi.

"But the vast majority of Canadians will probably continue to speak only one language, and they will suffer no penalty.

"On the contrary, whether they speak English or French, they will be able to deal with their governments, educate their children and exercise their full legal rights in their own language.

"This will be a major expansion of the freedom of the individual Canadian."

Trudeau said it may be difficult for an English-speaking Canadian to understand the fuss about language rights, because his right to express himself in his own language is not menaced or even questioned.

Yet, "there is no aspect of a person's life which so deeply and universally affects his feeling of personal freedom as his right to express himself in his own language," the prime minister asserted.

"Sometimes it is difficult for the members of an overwhelming and secure linguistic majority to realize the importance of this feeling.

"As English-speaking Canadians are in no danger of losing the right or the opportunity to use their language, they wonder why French-speaking Canadians are so concerned about such matters. Some of them come to believe that French-speaking Canadians are trying to impose their language on English-speaking Canadians, that they are trying to restrict the freedom of the members of the majority."

NO CHANGE IN DEMANDS

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP) — A spokesman for 10 strikebound Lakehead elevator companies said today negotiators so far have been unable to determine what must be paid to effect a settlement.

"It appears that the union is still holding out for its original demands," said W. S. Neal, counsel for the companies, "and consequently, for the present, there is no prospect for an early settlement."

The last-known demand of the striking grain handlers, who walked off their jobs July 18 and tied up shipments at the 23 terminal elevators, was for a $1.06-an-hour pay raise over two years.

Bulgarian Airliner Toll Heavy

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — A Bulgarian airliner crashed Tuesday night near Burgos in Bulgaria and the official Bulgarian news agency BTA said today 50 of the 89 persons aboard were killed.

Earlier, an official of the line, Bulair, said all 82 passengers and seven crew members were killed.

The plane was on a flight from Dresden, East Germany, to Burgos when it went down.

The official, reached by telephone from Vienna, said he did not known the nationalities of the crash victims. He added an official government announcement would be made later.

The official said the cause of the crash was not known.

back for manoeuvres in West Germany next year.

NATO also must take a new hard look at its accepted policy of detente with the Communist world, officials acknowledged.

In this connection they noted as significant that Soviet ambassadors in a number of West European capitals are making unconcealed efforts to explain that the invasion of Czechoslovakia was a domestic affair of the Communist bloc which should not hinder further efforts for detente and that, in Moscow's view, the West overreacted.

The Johnson administration might be willing to continue efforts to promote detente, but it must listen to the views of its allies in NATO, officials said.

The council meeting, they said, could produce some statement of recommitment, both of unchanged U.S. interest in defending Europe and in the idea of East-West relaxation.

CONSIDER BOTH ASPECTS

Parallel U.S. and NATO reviews of the situation in the wake of the invasion of Czechoslovakia have military and political aspects.

On the military side, U.S. analysts explain, there are three factors to be considered.

First, and most important, the invasion brought a yet unspecified but substantial number of first class Soviet combat troops to West Germany's border with Czechoslovakia, which up to now was regarded as a side effort on NATO's eastern frontier.

Second, there are now far more Warsaw pact troops outside Soviet territory in Central Europe than before. And third the general combat readiness of Warsaw pact forces has been raised substantially.

On the political side, the comforting thought that the Soviets will refrain from using force to achieve a political goal must be discarded and the eventual continuation of detente policy must be decided in the light of this alarming discovery.

V.I. BANK LOSSES MAY REACH $60,000

PORT McNEILL—Money orders and travellers' cheques taken in the armed holdup of a bank courier Friday could run the total loot as high as $60,000, RCMP said today.

A Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce spokesman here confirmed that this might be the total taken when the courier was robbed while making a paroll delivery to the Crown Zellerbach Co. Ltd. logging camp at Kokish.

Courier Gerry Underdown, 19, was making the regular 15-mile run when he was stopped by two men, one armed with a pistol.

Original estimates of the take were about $15,000, mostly cash. The estimate was revised upwards after the loss of money orders and cheques was reported.

These were blank and could be filled out by the robbers. The bank would not explain why the cheques and money orders were included in the payroll delivery.

Police said the courier had given a fair description of the holdup men. The investigation is continuing.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cloud and rain are associated with a Pacific disturbance which extends across the north coast, then southeastward toward the southern interior. A ridge of high pressure is protecting the southwestern portion of the province and except for low cloud and fog over the water skies were mostly sunny today. The ridge is expected to edge slowly down the coast and the cloud and rain which follows will reach northern Vancouver Island Thursday afternoon. Not much change in temperature is expected.

Introducing 1969 MOTOROLA® ALL TRANSISTOR "Quasar" COLOUR TV

10 Tubeless Plug-in Mini-circuits for Space Age Dependability! The "Works In The Drawer" are Modules that plug in and out. Each Module is a mini-circuit—a picture module—and sound module—a colour module and so on. These modules contain transistors and other Solid State devices. There are NO tubes on the modules! In the event that service may be required a module can be unplugged, its replacement plugged in IN your home—in minutes.

LEARN ABOUT FEATURES THAT MAKE MOTOROLA THE MOST ADVANCED COLOUR TELEVISION!

Space Age Reliability—Long Life of Peak Performance . . . Motorola Solid State Color TV is a product of space age technology. These Solid State TV receivers utilize Motorola-built transistors in place of conventional vacuum circuit tubes (except the high voltage rectifier tube and picture tube). Conventional vacuum tubes contain cathodes which must be heated for their operation. These heated cathodes have a tendency to deteriorate with age which ultimately causes a progressive degradition in the performance of the set. Unlike vacuum tubes. solid state transistors do not contain any cathodes and do not require heat for their operation. Therefore, the chassis in these receivers operates cooler than a tube-type chassis so there is (1) virtually no possibility of heat damage to the vital components in the set— and (2) the transistors should provide the set with longer life at peak performance and greater reliability than tube-type sets.

Integrated Circuitry . . . in addition to transistors, the section of the chassis contains the latest, most modern development in solid state technology . . . INTEGRATED CIRCUITRY. The tiny integrated circuit chip contains 15 resistors, 12 transistors and 12 diodes. Although extremely compact in size, this new, modern, electronic advancement performs all of its functions with efficiency and it is outstandingly reliable.

Automatic Fine Tuning with Visi-Trak Tuning System and AFC Electronic Picture Lock provides a visual means for precision fine tuning. When the set is accurately fine tuned, a tuning light will automatically turn off telling you that the set is accurately tuned to the station's transmitted signal. Then, by pushing in the control, AFC electronically locks in the station to the receiver. Just set it once—AFC keeps the picture fine tuned as you change from channel to channel. On models indicated.

Video Peaking Control . . . separate and variable control lets you adjust picture "peaking" circuitry to achieve picture sharpness you perfer to view. Also helps provide a pleasing picture in fringe areas.

Motorola Automatic Degausser . . . automatically removes impurities in the color picture caused by magnetic interference. Motorola's Automatic Degausser operates every time you turn on the set—after it has been off for a few minutes. Also removes unwanted color areas from the black-and-white picture.

Solid State Silicon Power Rectifiers . . . operate cooler and have a longer life expectancy than vacuum tube rectifiers. Help assure great Motorola reliability.

Motorola-Designed Automatic Color Synchronizer Circuit . . . this circuit synchronizes the receiver to the color signal being transmitted. Virtually eliminates color drift to help maintain the color picture quality that you have adjused to suit your viewing preference.

Motorola Circuit Guard

Solid State Custom-matic Pre-set VHF Colour Tuner

Solid State VHF Colour Tuner

"Slide-Action" Controls . . . newly designed control panel on front of set contains separate color hue, color intensity, contrast, brightness and volume controls which may be moved up or down (rather than rotated) to accomplish desired results. Panel is calibrated with numbers for easy repeat settings. Color Hue and Intensity levers allow viewer to customize the color picture to suit individual preference.

Compact, Solid State* Slide-Out Works in the Drawer Chassis with Modular Panel Construction . . . compact, "briefcase" type chassis and frame assembly slides forward on metal runways to make INDIVIDUAL MODULAR CIRCUIT PANEL BOARDS EASILY ACCESSIBLE for servicing if and when required. Each individual, permanently etched circuit panel board contains all the necessary component parts required for its particular function. Component identification is printed on both sides of panel board for easy location. Each panel plugs into position for electrical connection. Power transformer, Solid State* chassis delivers 24,000 volts of picture power (design average) at average viewing brightness.

Motorola-Developed Electronic Color Signal Extractor Dual Diode Direct Demodulator System . . . (patent applied for) . . . contains 3 separate channels for primary colors. Each channel directly extracts from the transmitted signal the specific color (red, blue or green) it was designed to handle. This color extraction is accomplished in an exact proportion so that an individual red, blue, and green signal is fed to the picture tube. No electronic signal mixing in the picture tube. The viewer sees pictures with remarkable color fidelity and faithfulness. In addition, the black-and-white picture information is also fed directly into each channel of the demodulator system so that when a color show is not being transmitted, the viewer sees crisp, clean black-and-white pictures.

Motorola-Engineered Convergence Circuitry (backed by 5 patents) . . . electronically provides accurate registration of the three electron beams in picture tube resulting in sharp color and black-and-white pictures.

Automatic Color to Black-and-White Switching System . . . electronic device automatically turns off color circuits in receiver when station transmits black-and-white program—helps keep out annoying color interference so that you watch a clean black-and-white picture.

The Anchor Men

THE REVOLUTIONARY RADICALism of Russia that rocked the world half a century ago has become what is probably the world's most reactionary force. The ideological sail, hoisted in 1917 to drive the ship of state to the promised land, has become an ideological sea-anchor dragging the ship to a stagnant stop.

The Russian revolution brought brutality and tyranny instead of the freedom that its founders sought. And today, when most of the world is speeding into an era of unprecedented social evolution, the leaders of the Soviet empire, faced with a small display of that evolution in Czechoslovakia, could only react with the tools to which they were trained — brutality and tyranny. The most significant symbol in Russia today is not the memory of Lenin but Lenin's tomb.

In a day when great men are needed, the men in charge of the Russian colossus are, tragically, little men, hoarding their patrimony of spiritual mediocrity — a treasure trove of genuine tinsel. Rigid in the same ideological Iron Maiden to which they have condemned others, they are fearful of their own principles, their own colleagues, their own people. Above all, they are terrified of humanity and of history; for humanity must in the end destroy them and history condemn them.

Their lives are spent in political rearguard actions against the inexorable march of a new century — battles which at any given moment may seem to be producing victories, but which must, from any standpoint, prove to be only the prelude to ultimate defeat.

Although Czechoslovakia proved that orthodox Stalinist doctrine still rules the Kremlin, it is apparent that the leaders of Russian Communism will soon have to take stock of the state of their ideology. For as surely as late 18th Century capitalism has disappeared, so is early 20th Century Communism passing. Marx has joined Adam Smith in the archives. Das Kapital and The Wealth of Nations together remain on the topmost dusty shelf. And the Russian leaders, running a giant space-age power behind the facade of an obsolete social theory, are faced with human problems beyond their terms of reference.

What this means for the world should soon become evident. The Soviet hierarchy cannot stand still: it must move forward to greater liberalism, or retrogress to the full-scale terror at which it has hinted in Czechoslovakia. The salient fact, which the Kremlin must realize, is that Czechoslovakia was not a mere aberration but another herald of a trend; not an isolated explosion but smoke from the same fuel which must be smouldering in various places behind the Iron Curtain — in Russia itself.

The great Kremlin questions today are: How long can tanks be the answer? How long will it take the people of Russia to realize that the Czechoslovakians were fighting the Russians' fight? How long can a Communist regime which has become a spiritual replica of Czarist rigidity continue to control a 20th Century population which is indoctrinated with the belief that the way to win reforms is to revolt?

Building Responsibility

MORE VOICES HAVE BEEN raised in the community calling for an end to the use of the strap in the school system. The issue was broached by Trustee John Porteous and will be considered by the Greater Victoria School Board at a meeting September 16. Mr. Porteous is especially concerned about the use of corporal punishment in the lower grades and his protest has been supported by many parents and educators.

There is not much that can be said in defence of using the strap on an eight-year-old child, and yet this old-fashioned disciplinary method still persists. What useful function can it perform for the school? Only in rare cases is the strap likely to convince an errant student that he should mend his ways. The woodshed style of punishment has vanished from most homes and it is time that it was abandoned in the schools too.

An exhaustive examination recently completed into the Ontario school system by a government-appointed committee came to this conclusion: "Punishment is demoralizing because it negates moral responsibility. It fosters cynicism and a belief that the thing to do is simply to avoid being caught by those who have authority to punish."

The Hall-Dennis report went even further. It urges an end to the "veritable parade of punitive practices (that) has marched through our classrooms of the past and into the present day . . . The Committee can find little to defend, solely as means of correction, such punishments as the writing of lines, isolation, detention after school, extra work, sarcasm, and ridicule."

Those who can remember writing a thousand "I must not talk in class" sentences may be taken aback by a proposal that seems so sweeping. How would teachers manage to keep order? It might be difficult at times but the Ontario committee urges that if a sense of individual responsibility is a major goal in education then this can best be developed "by assuming that children can and should learn to make their own decisions and to take responsibility for their actions in an atmosphere that is positive and encouraging." Getting rid of the strap would be a step in that direction.

With or Without Plan

WHEN PAROCHIAL CONcerns blocked amalgamation efforts in earlier days, the point was made to Greater Victoria municipalities that continuing urban evolution would eventually thrust unification on the area. That prospect was rejected in spite of the argument that it then lay within the power of the local councils to chart amalgamation along lines they favored rather than having it imposed from above.

Recent years have indicated the manner in which the area is moving toward a supra-municipal government. The regional board is being given jurisdiction in a growing number of fields. Keith Birch, who has served for the past two years as assistant planner for Saanich, believes that the major change will occur within the next 10 years—and by inference at least implies that a measure of choice still exists for the local governments.

In various fields—parkland acquisition, sewer improvement, hospital construction and others—regional control is coming into play to accomplish objectives beyond the resources of municipalities as independent entities. On the basis of current conditions and the expansion of the regional idea, Mr. Birch points out that "we're part of Greater Victoria and some of these areas are being planned to service a metro area without metro-wide studies."

This is a significant point. The unification idea is inevitably growing, but without adequate overall study its growth could be like Topsy's.

"... but I ... hic ... only use it for ... hic ... medicinal purposes ..."

National Interest

The Soviet Union and its allies have intervened in Czechoslovakia to try and ensure the establishment of a regime favourable to them. The United States is fighting in Vietnam to try and ensure the same result, as they did in the Dominican Republic in '65, and subversively, in Guatemala in '54. "In the national interest" is the overriding rule as national governments conduct their international affairs.

At the World Federalist conference in Toronto in June the Canadian External Affairs Minister, the Hon. Mitchell Sharp stated his belief that the development of a stable world system would be gradual with occasional breakthroughs like the founding of the United Nations. But the United Nations did not just happen. It required the vision, initiative, determination and the will of world statesmen. — D. J. M. Graham, Stanstead College, Quebec.

AN EXPERT LOOKS AT THE KREMLIN

The Russian Dinosaur Is Stuck in the Swamp and Dying

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE higher leadership of the Soviet Union has closed its ranks for the kill. The KGB has been turned loose among the Czechoslovaks in the wake of Soviet tanks as the Gestapo was once turned loose in the wake of German tanks.

With Alexander Dubeck by all accounts a broken man, with the Russians, like Hitler before them, preparing to divide Czech from Slovak while, at the same time, making threatening noises and gestures against the Romanians and the Yugoslavs — with all this nothing would appear to be more irrelevant than continued speculation about the strains and stresses inside the Soviet Union.

But it is not irrelevant, because the whole hideous situation, the return to darkness at noon, is the direct outcome of these strains and stresses as they have been building up in general since the death of Stalin and in particular under the ignorant, mediocre and indecisive leadership which took over from Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, for all his short-comings, made things happen. For just on four years the present leadership has made nothing happen at all. It has been dragged along by circumstances. (The most spectacular example was the way they allowed the Arabs to involve them in the six-day war resulting in damage to their prestige.)

The rape of Czechoslovakia was the first decisive action of a group of men who have shown themselves unfit to govern. That they are not the only present-day government unfit to govern is neither here nor there.

Leaders In It Together

So far, for example, the peoples of Britain and America have shown themselves able to survive and hold together without strong government. It is very different in the Soviet Union.

The senior leaders in Moscow are all in this together. Obviously there have been sharp differences among them over what to do about the Czechs — differences going back at least six months. But now they have acted as a body, and they must be judged as a body until one or more of them gets up and publicly denounces the others — and more totally than Khrushchev ever allowed himself to denounce Stalin.

Some, we know, are in many ways a cut above the others — President Podgorny, for example, who has frequently shown an awareness that we are living in the 20th century, not in the 17th; Dmitri Polyansky, the brightest specimen of a younger generation of party bosses; perhaps in his morosely groping way, Premier Kosygin himself. But they have all put their seal to this act.

They have all connived at the bullying of Dubcek, they all remain colleagues of Pyotr Shelest who, taking time off from terrorizing the Ukraine, was most vocal in his threats to smash the Czechs; and they all continue to sit at the same table with Comrade Andropov, whose secret police, once again happy in their work, are preparing for a field day.

'Push' Stories Doubtful

It is a Russian decision. There is no reason to believe the widespread story that the Russians were pushed into it by East German party leader Walter Ulbricht. These stories seem to originate from Moscow itself.

There is another story going round that Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev agreed reluctantly to commissioning the crime and was pushed into it, if not by Ulbricht, then by his own Defence Minister Marshal Grechko, in the sense that Brezhnev views with reluctance the necessity of taking any decision of any kind not directly connected with advancement of his position and retention of his power.

This is no doubt true; he is the brainless wonder of our age. You have to look to Alabama or California to find his equal. But he is the chosen figure-head of the entrenched Party apparatus and, as such is very strong.

Do people realize what they are saying when they suggest that he was pushed into this action by a soldier? It would mean nothing less than a major revolution in the Soviet power machine. It would mean the abdication of the Communist Party of the U.S.S.R.

Whether Marshal Grechko was a prime mover in this crime we do not know. As a chief military adviser he has to be listened to: as a member of the Central Committee, he has some sort of a voice in the Party apparatus. But neither Stalin nor Khrushchev (nor Malenkov, Kaganovich, Molotov and all) would for one moment have allowed any soldier, however distinguished, to have influenced their decision — which would have been tantamount to inviting the military to take over.

Bullied, Maltreated

Until we see the Marshal taking over in fact, we had better assume that the decision-makers are the men who say they are — the same men who, in person, not even by proxy, bullied and maltreated Dubcek and his friends before turning them loose — either because, at that moment, they were afraid to murder them and did not know what else to do, or, more likely, because they hoped they would persuade their people to keep quiet until they could be neutralized without too much public shooting.

So that question remains, why did they do it? And the answer is always the same: out of fear. It was fear mainly of the consequences of the victory of the Czechoslovak cause to their own positions inside the Soviet Union, and only in a lesser degree, of the consequences in other satellites.

Even if, as I believed and still believe, some of them saw, and see, the necessity of change inside the Soviet Union and think they could preside over it, they have for the time being, perhaps forever, lost their chance. We have not heard much yet about open criticism of the Kremlin's action inside Russia.

We soon shall. It took some weeks for the Moscow students to demonstrate against the Hungarian action in 1956, and then they were put down quickly and sharply by Khrushchev in person.

Two things have happened in the intervening years. On the broad time-scale, the younger generation, aided and abetted by quite a number of the more cautious middle-aged, have grown used to expressing dissent on specific issues — and there are whole generations which never experienced the Stalin terror and therefore cannot imagine what it did to their fathers and grandfathers, those who survived.

On the shorter time-scale, during three years, the security police have been allowed to flex their muscles, flabby from comparative disuse, and to brush up their old techniques which had grown a little rusty.

Dissenters Kept Quiet

Since the last big round of public protest after the trial and sentencing of the writer Ginsburg and his friends, the dissenters have kept very quiet, avoiding head-on collision, but perfecting subtler tactics, perhaps even a strategy, of the kind which has prevented the KGB from making a quick and final end of a number of distinguished protesters who in an earlier age would have been thrown down the cellar steps and shot before the outside world knew of their existence.

The Kremlin leaders know all about this. They also know that, not only the Moscow intelligentsia, but more dangerously, then many minority nationalities ranged around the periphery of the union have been forced, against the will of many of them, to turn to nationalism as the only solution. Brezhnev and his friends are aware of this. Shelest in the Ukraine, who has been behaving for some time like one of Stalin's gauleiters, is personally up against it.

We need look no further. The Russian leadership, as a body, has decided that the only way to keeps its position is to sit firmly on all manifestations of change, whether in the form of nationalism or of mild questioning of their own infallibility.

Pact of Imperialists

For the security of the Soviet Union as a whole, they cling with some desperation to the idea of a nuclear understanding with America — as between the two main imperialist powers neither aspiring to world domination.

They will not lose the understanding. They will lose everything else — but not before they have ruined the Czechs. They cannot impose it on Russia — and here they will fail. In spite of many appearances to the contrary, the Soviet Union of today is not the Soviet Union of Stalin and cannot be run in the Stalin manner without a check to economic development which would lead to breakdown or explosion. It is to be doubted whether Brezhnev has the brains to appreciate this. But some of his colleagues have. They must be more frightened today than they were when they took their panic decision. The dinosaur is stuck in the swamp and dying. This is small comfort for the Czechs who are flattened beneath the monster's bulk.

FROM WASHINGTON

Still Waiting For Hanoi's Blow to Fall

By JOSEPH ALSOP

BEHIND the scenes in Washington, the little, rather close-knit community of policy-makers, military leaders and intelligence analysts concerned with Vietnam has been going through a fairly curious experience. Masses of evidence, from prisoners of war, captured documents and all other intelligence sources, have long indicated that Hanoi was preparing another major offensive, as close in scale to the Tet offensive as Hanoi could manage. From the end of July onwards, the kick-off date was expected to be August 15.

Alsop

In mid-August, enemy activity greatly intensified; but there was no real kick-off. Indeed, many of the enemy units of divisional size continued in their sanctuaries on the borders, or even outside South Vietnam. More recently, these larger units began to be detected moving towards kick-off positions; and a new kick-off date was tentatively set for Labor Day. But Labor Day also passed without drama.

As of now, one can only say the storm has not come yet. Beyond doubt, for the documents prove it, this means that Hanoi's plans have gone wrong somehow; and the way these plans have gone wrong is decidedly interesting.

In brief, Hanoi's original intention was to open avenues of attack upon more profitable targets, conspicuously including the city of Saigon, by initial attacks on peripheral targets like the little provincial capital of Tay Ninh and the Special Forces camp at Duc Lap. U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were to be sucked into the resulting peripheral battles, and thus larger opportunities were to be created elsewhere.

Unfortunately for Hanoi, General Creighton W. Abrams refused to play the game. The defenders on the scene were only very sparingly reinforced. The main backup provided came from the terrible striking power of the B-52s, which General Abrams uses with extreme concentration.

For the enemy to date, the results have been pretty disastrous. Since the enemy began sparring for an opening in mid-August, total enemy killed in action have been above 10,000 men. This is comparable to an American loss of above 110,000 men, yet no opening has been found, and nothing solid has been accomplished.

Despite these fruitless losses, despite the deferments above-noted, a general enemy assault is still forecast at a fairly early date. But General Abrams is confident that the assault can be successfully repulsed, if and when it comes. In short, the prospects look very black indeed for Hanoi's new attempt to achieve a final breakthrough on the battlefield.

If General Abrams is right, that means the Hanoi leadership will have to ponder the results of the two political conventions with unhappy assiduity. Until the two major parties chose their nominees and published their platforms, Hanoi could always hope for a political victory in America. That hope has now gone glimmering.

If Hanoi does not prefer a kind of fadeaway to serious negotiations, as some have always predicted, then Hanoi may well have to chooose between only two possible responses by the end of September. One will be to open serious negotiations at once, on the ground that better terms may be obtained from a President eager to finish the war before he lays down his office. The other will be to hang on a bit longer and see what the next administration looks like. Yet there will be strong arguments for acting without delay.

Looking Back

From the Times, Sept. 4, 1908.

Prospecting for a religion is not an entirely unknown pursuit even in this enlightened and almost irreligous age. To all of earnest and thoughtful minds, however, it is not with keen interest that a new view of religion should be given birth in our midst.

Members of the Religious Society of Friends, otherwise known as Quakers, have formed themselves into a group and have decided to hold regular meetings in the city.

Moving Like Glacier

By JOHN M. GOSHKO

MEDELLING, Colombia—When the Catholic Church changes, someone once remarked, it does so with the speed of a glacier.

Nowhere does this observation strike home more tellingly than in Latin America. For the continent civilized by the cross and the sword has long been the most immobile of Roman Catholicism's worldwide domains.

Now, the hard-dying remnants of this tradition are becoming painfully apparent to those bishops and priests who have been meeting here to chart a future course for the church amid the social and economic upheaval of contemporary Latin America.

Officially entitled the Second General Conference of the Latin American Episcopate, the meeting's aim is to consider what spiritual and temporal measures the church should take to ensure its survival as an important influence in Latin life. And, to underscore its importance, Pope Paul VI took the unprecedented step of journeying to Bogota to personally convene the participants.

Meet on Mountain

The conference, now transferred to a mountain-top seminary on the outskirts of Medelling, has forged ahead with a remarkable display of surface unity. By next weekend, it is expected to wind up its deliberations with the promulgation of two documents — an immediate "declaration to the peoples of Latin America" — and a more detailed report to Pope Paul to be made public at a later date.

As the conference marches briskly toward a conclusion, there is a growing sense of uneasiness here about whether its findings will have any real impact on the course of Latin affairs. In attempting to reconcile the warring extremes of rebellion and reaction that have divided the Latin church, the bishops assembled here may well end up pleasing no one.

There already are signs that the conference is talking into a vacuum insofar as some of the church's more vociferous left and right factions are concerned.

Modesty in Dress

One group of conservative Brazilian bishops, unable to get a hearing for its views within the formal conference structure, has released a letter to the press setting forth its view that the conference should be dealing less with social and economic justice and more with such matters of morality as "pornography on TV" and "modesty' in public dress."

Similarly, on the other side of the fence, a small band of impatient young priests from Colombia, Argentina and Uruguay have been holding noisy meetings in a Medelling cafe, trying to reach agreement on another letter that would chastise the conference for dwelling too much on abstract principles and not enough on the specifics of social involvement.

More to the point, there is a big question about whether the conference's pronouncements will be listened to by the Conservative lay power structure that controls the political and economic life of Latin America. In this respect, the conference is noticeably laboring under the cloud cast by Pope Paul's outwardly conservative stance during his visit to Bogota.

Defends Status Quo

Although the Pope spoke out in favor of reform, he tempered his endorsement with calls for "gradualness" and "order" and a condemnation of "violent revolution." This let's-go-slow approach, coupled with the Pope's recent theologically conservative encyclical reaffirming traditional Vatican opposition to artificial birth control methods, has already caused many people here to interpret his position as a defence of the status quo.

As one observer sums up the matter: "If I were a Latin American oligarch or military overload, there was nothing in the Pope's words that would cause me to lose any sleep. I could interpret his words as a defence of the system, and if the bishops tried to tell me otherwise, I could say they were in error because Pope Paul himself doesn't agree with them."

The conference already has seen one graphic demonstration of what he means. Last week, the Vatican newspaper, l'Observatore Romano, published an unsigned, four-column article commenting on the Pope's visit here and concluding that there is "no significant social or economic injustice or inequality in Colombia."

Seven Years on Run For Foe of de Gaulle

Jacques Soustelle is a leading French politician who dared to break with President Charles de Gaulle in 1961 over his Algerian policy after being an early supporter of the General. The price he paid was seven years of terror in which he fled French secret police around Europe. He was finally pardoned this summer and here describes his ordeal.

By JACQUES SOUSTELLE

ROME — On the evening of July 23, the telephone rang in the small apartment I have rented for the summer on the Italian shore of the Mediterranean.

It was my 80-year-old mother calling me from France. Her voice was tremulous with joy and emotion. She said, "I wanted to be the first to congratulate you."

And, indeed, she was the first to tell me the good news that the French Parliament has just voted unanimously—except, of course, for the Communists—the long-awaited amnesty which now enables me, as well as hundreds of other political exiles, to return to my native country.

More than seven years have passed since men such as former premier Georges Bidault and myself were forced into unwilling exile by the Gaullist government's arbitrary decisions.

During all those years, neither I nor my lawyers could find out precisely what charges, if any, were lodged against me. My judicial "file" was a well-kept government secret.

All that I did know was that a warrant for my arrest had been signed, at the government's insistent request, by a magistrate of the dreaded "court for the security of the state," the so-called "special court" whose very existence is a defiance of the constitution and the democratic traditions of France.

This court has meted out innumerable prison and death sentences to those who have opposed Gaullist rule.

My name, it goes without saying, was on the blacklist which every policeman in the country carries in his pocket. My picture, full face and profile, was posted on the walls of all police stations and in all customs offices at border points and airports.

I have been a hunted man for the past seven years, a man without a country. For me, to have attempted to set foot on French soil meant immediate arrest, a mock trial without benefit of jury, a heavy sentence and a long sojourn in the gloomy prisons of the regime.

An indication of the severity of the sentences handed down by this special court can be judged by the case of one of my friends, a mild-mannered high-school teacher, who was given 15 years in jail for nothing more than circulating an anti-Gaullist leaflet.

●

The only reason I can guess for the warrant and the subsequent pursuit to arrest me was a press conference I held in a Paris hotel on Dec. 18, 1961, during which I denounced—with a degree of vehemence, it is true, but which was well within my rights as a French citizen—de Gaulle's disastrous policy in Algeria and his high-handed, anti-democratic and unconstitutional methods of government. This was enough, back in 1961 and 1962, to be treated as a common criminal.

The North American reader does not know or, at any rate, probably does not remember, the hysterical witch-hunt that took place during those years in France. All the police and security forces, including the infamous "barbouzes (bearded ones)," the ultra-secret political police, arrested 11,000 so-called "enemies of the state," including at times whole families from grandfather down to the grandchildren.

The jails of France overflowed. Several concentration camps, called euphemistically "administrative internment centres," complete with watch-towers, machine-guns and police dogs, were set up in out-of-the-way places such as Thol and Saint-Maurice-l'Ardoise.

The French authorities brought pressure on the governments of the countries around France, asking them to arrest and deport these political refugees, including myself. Special agreements to that effect were made with Franco's Spain and even with Konrad Adenauer, then chancellor of Germany.

●

Thus, Colonel Gardes, one of the French Army's best brains, was deported from Madrid to Uruguay, and Georges Bidault, despite the fact that he was one of Adenauer's Christian-Democrat friends, was expelled from West Germany and could find asylum only in far-away Brazil.

SOUSTELLE

This witch-hunt was, ironically, led by my former aide, Roger Frey, at the time minister of the interior and as such in charge of all French police. This inhuman hunt went on unabated for five years.

I was arrested, like any common criminal, in Italy, Switzerland and Germany, deported several times from one country to another, sneered at by ex-Nazi officers who were only too happy to detain me—knowing that I had been one of the active leaders of the wartime anti-Hitler resistance.

My detention was, of course, at de Gaulle's personal request! And there were many times that I found myself penniless, in cities where I was an absolute stranger, and without a roof over my head.

●

I lost my positions both as scientist and as professor at the Sorbonne. My only recourse against starvation was writing books and articles while hiding under assumed names in the outskirts of Rome, Lisbon and other European cities. One summer was spent in a village inn in the mountains of the Tyrol.

My wife remained meanwhile in Paris, continuing her work as an anthropologist. Our only means of communication was through cautious telephone calls, very cautious, indeed, considering that the ubiquitous police tap any and all telephone lines they want. She also managed to meet me from time to time in some foreign country.

Twice, as far as I know, attempts were made by the secret political police to kidnap me, much as they did in abducting Colonel Antoine Argoud in Munich in February 1963.

The first attempt failed because a Belgian friend refused to betray me, nor could he be swayed by an offer of $100,000 to deliver me to my would-be French kidnappers.

I escaped the second attempt by the skin of my teeth. The furnished flat where I lived in Lisbon was already surrounded by Gaullist agents. I managed to extricate myself in the small hours of the night with the help of a devoted pied-noir (French-Algerian) friend and took refuge on an American ship in the harbor.

The nightmare of my errant existence began to dissolve when the Swiss authorities officially allowed me to enter the country to undergo surgery in a Lausanne hospital.

●

Then, Belgium's socialist minister of justice lifted the ban. I brought legal action against the ministry of justice in Bonn, and so the German ban was also lifted. In the end, all the democratic countries of Europe recognized my right to live as a normal, law-abiding human being. This further enraged the French government.

As recently as last year, they caused me to be detained by the Belgian police on a trumped-up charge. But my detention lasted hardly an hour, since the Belgians acknowledged with all due correctness that they had been deceived.

Ineffectual protests were again made by the French authorities to the Greek and Israeli governments when I went on research trips to Athens and Tel-Aviv. De Gaulle's thunder apparently no longer impresses anyone.

Besides, by this time, everyone knew that the monstrous and pitiless manhunt against me had no justification whatsoever, except in my staunch and outspoken opposition to the Gaullist regime, which is the right of every citizen in a true democracy.

●

The events in France of last May and June have shaken the regime to its very roots. The movement for complete amnesty for all so-called "crimes" committed during the Algerian crisis, a movement led by such humanitarian leaders as professor Jean la Hargue, could no longer be ignored, and so the amnesty was finally enacted into law.

So it is that as of July 23rd, all political prisoners, including General Raoul Salan, have been released from prison and political exiles such as myself are free once again to walk the soil of our native land.

I have experienced many instances of human meanness and treachery, but I also cherish invaluable instances of friendship and unselfish devotion. Above all, I have kept my self-esteem; I have not reneged on my deeply rooted faith in democracy and freedom.

Biafra Spells Shame For a Lot of People

By NORMAN COUSINS
Editor, Saturday Review

Biafra is a six-letter word spelling shame. Shame first of all for the Nigerian government which is trying to starve the Biafrans into submission.

Shame for the Biafrans, who have been unable to come to agreement with Nigerian officials on the terms for allowing emergency food supplies to get through the blockade.

Shame for the United Nations, which operates under a charter that authorizes it to maintain the peace but not to intervene in a man-made disaster claiming the lives of thousands of people each week.

And shame, finally, for the United States, where thousands of tons of storaged food are rotting but where the government has allowed itself to be hobbled and hamstrung by principles of non-intervention that it has not applied universally since 1945.

'Moral and Physical Capability to Act'

Let us speak, then, not of Nigeria or Biafra or the United Nations, but of the United States. Is it within the moral and physical capability of the United States to relieve starvation in Biafra? It is. Why, then, have we not exercised this capability? We have not exercised it because we do not believe we have the right to interfere in the affairs of other nations. This principle did not prevent the United States from sending troops to the Dominican Republic in 1965 or Lebanon in 1958. In varying degrees, our reasoning was that we had to protect the people against actual or potential Communist take-over.

Is this the only kind of calamity that touches us? How do we explain our policy to a Biafran mother whose baby is only days away from becoming a corpse for want of food? Why wouldn't it be salutary and instructive for some of our policy makers to got to Biafra to help the people understand, in personal conversations, why the mightiest nation in the world could help them if they were threatened politically, or if they lived in an area which was vital to us in balance-of-power terms?

It is argued that the right to self-determination justifies intervention but the right to live does not? In Vietnam, the United States has been involved in one of the bloodiest wars in history.

No Less Oppressive Than in Vietnam

We say we are there because the Vietnamese are entitled to choose their own government without outside interference. It is any less oppressive for a people to have their food supply cut off by outsiders? What meaning does the principle of self-determination have for people who are going insane with hunger?

Did the principle of non-intervention keep the United States from intervening in the affairs of Laos in 1959 when we backed the coup d'etat against the government of Souvanna Phouma — the first elected government in the history of that country?

A striking feature of that intervention has that the United States for several months paid the salaries of the opposing armies. Eventually, the United States backed the restoration of the Souvanna government, but there was no restoring the lost or shattered lives of many thousands of Laotians.

Is the point made that there is no physical way of getting food into Biafra because of the blockade? Berlin was blocked off in 1948 but this did not immobilize the United States.

In one of the most imaginative and daring undertakings in history, the United States converted hundreds of planes into flying freight cars. Never before had sacks of coal been sent by air mail. Hundreds of tons of coal were flown into the heart of Berlin along with other vital supplies.

Eventually, the blockade was lifted when it was made clear that the United States would not under any circumstances acquiesce in the Soviet attempt to seal off West Berlin. Why are the people of Biafra any less important than the people of West Berlin — or any people in the world, including ourselves?

U.S. Moved Quickly In Case of Korea

Is it contended that the United States should not presume to usurp the functions of the United Nations? In the case of Korea in 1950, the United States moved swiftly to meet what it considered to be a challenge to world peace. Simultaneously, it went before the United Nations to ask for support for the American position.

The United States fought in Korea under the banner of the United Nations, but we did not flinch from sending the preponderant part of men and material. President Truman made it clear at that time and subsequently that the United States was prepared to act without the United Nations if necessary.

COUSINS

Double Standard On Intervention?

The real issue is not intervention. The real issue is whether the United States has a double standard. Do we become innovative and courageous only when our national interest is involved? Isn't it conceivable that the greatest thing we could do for the national interest would be to commit ourselves to the human interest?

One of the reasons given for our determination to see the issue through in Vietnam is that we want to convince other peoples, especially in Southeast Asia, that the United States will always honor its commitments. Certainly we must honor our commitments, but the kind of commitments we make also has some bearing on the honor we receive.

The United States has a clear warrant for making an honorable commitment to the people of Biafra. We can undertake a mobilization for mercy of substantial dimensions in their behalf—and do it soon, before the swelling bodies of their infants are beyond reach. We can announce that we are sending a caravan of trucks loaded with food and medicines to the borders of Biafra.

We can announce that we have no intention of interfering with the sovereign prerogatives of either Biafra or Nigeria but that we do not consider that the starvation of Biafrans is necessary for the exercise of that sovereignty.

Don't Be Stopped By Negative Reply

We should ask for permission to go across the border but should not allow either a delay in reply or a negative reply to keep us from sending our caravan right up to the borders. The fact that we will be at the critical spot with food and medicines will get through to the people not only of Nigeria and Biafra but throughout the world.

If our philosophy of life is one that enables us to understand the tremendous affirmative power that resides in moral initiative, we will reach our objective without having to blast our way through.

Our leaders have often spoken of the vast power of the United States. They have an opportunity here to invest that power with a moral dimension that can do honor to our history.

Irate Residents Spurn High Rise

By ALAN WHITE

Clamoring ratepayers rallied Monday night to oppose an 11-storey apartment building in Oak Bay — a repeat of a 1964 performance.

Crowding the council chamber, they told council in a public hearing they didn't want high rise buildings robbing them of their sunlight and view.

Council delayed decision for two weeks.

One alderman, Dr. G. Scott Wallace, backed their opposition.

Target of the attack on what one man called "sky pollution" was an 11-storey building with penthouse proposed for 112 Beach Drive by local developer Gordon Lovitt.

Many of those at the meeting had turned out in 1964 to fight a 12-storey building on the same site, forcing council to put a seven-storey limit on all such buildings.

During Monday's hearing homeowners from the area surrounding the site voted 36 to 11 against permitting 11 floors.

Lawyer H. L. Henderson said five persons he represented opposed only the one high building — they were not against apartments in the municipality.

HIGHRISES NEEDED

Mayor Fred Hawes had earlier opened the hearing with the comment that highrise buildings were necessary if Oak Bay was to avoid higher property taxes for residential ratepayers.

The building, he said, would have large suites and underground parking.

"I am personally convinced that the proposed plan would be much more desirable than a lower building of seven floors plus penthouse, with a much greater site coverage," Mayor Hawes said.

Bertram Callaway, of 911 Deal Street, told the hearing that because there is already another highrise building near the site (the White House), no one wants to buy property or live in the area, he said.

But Mrs. Mary Watts, of 903 Deal, said the site was now a "jungle" and "anything would be an improvement."

"A high building would help us with our homeowners' tax, which is driving us out of our homes," she said.

INCREASED HEIGHT

The request before the ratepayers — to allow four more floors on the building — was a 70-per-cent increase in height, T. D. Kelly of 964 Newport said.

"If you give this now you may be asked in a few years for a further increase," he told council.

Dr. Harold Carter asked for a vote to see how many attending the hearing actually were opposed to it.

H. E. Makovski demanded to know the opinion of councillors.

Mayor Hawes replied it was unfair to ask councillors to voice an opinion before they had had time for full study.

At this point Ald. Wallace announced he was "one councillor who is prepared to state how he feels . . .

"I am quite happy to tell you here and now that I am opposed to this bylaw."

A show of hands by the audience gave the 36 to 11 result and council then retired to committee of the whole for a two-week study.

Saanich May Switch Construction Work

Saanich is expected to switch to good-weather construction time following cancellation by the federal government of the shared-costs winter works program.

"If no federal or provincial funds are available to offset the added cost of doing this work in the winter, I would recommend our programming be scheduled to take advantage of the best weather," said comptroller-treasurer John Tribe.

"I wouldn't say we should close up shop entirely. We could keep skilled men in the winter but we certainly wouldn't employ 23 men on welfare."

He said that during six months of last winter the federal and provincial governments contributed $45,800 towards projects which cost a total of $845,000.

These works included sidewalks, the arena, Prospect Lake watermain, rest rooms and change rooms at two parks.

Mayor Hugh Curtis said to cut off winter works and to say this saves money "is not the end of the story. Winter welfare carries on."

He said some of the men Saanich hired off welfare for winter works projects later became permanent employees and "I don't think you can measure rehabilitation in dollars and cents."

Ald. Foster Isherwood added that the federal government's cancellation of the program is a "very short-sighted form of economy."

Farmers Hard Hit

WINNIPEG (CP)—Gil Molgat, Manitoba Liberal Leader, says some farm areas in the province should qualify as disaster areas this year. He said in a letter to Premier Walter Weir that the situation has been created by the unusually heavy rainfall this summer.

Holmes Park Takes Shape In Saanich

Completion of formalities for establishing a 59-acre park at Burnside and Trans-Canada Highway is likely this fall.

A sign is up designating the site of the proposed park which is to be named in honor of the late Major N. Cuthbert Holmes.

It was first suggested by Public Works Minister W. N. Chant as a co-operative venture of the provincial government, B.C. Hydro and Saanich municipality.

The government has undertaken to give 18 acres it owns there if B.C. Hydro would donate 12 acres it owns and Saanich give 29 acres on the understanding the consolidated parcel would be dedicated as park in perpetuity.

A spokesman said the government and Saanich have agreed to the deal so far. And Hydro co-chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum was reported in favor of the proposal.

Parks Committee Approves Funds For Carr Home

Victoria city council will be asked to spend $3,040 on the old Emily Carr home grounds and to institute a regular grounds maintenance program.

The proposal to use the funds to plant grass and shrubs and to improve the driveway was approved Tuesday by the parks committee.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he felt the old home was already attracting a large number of visitors and that with improvement to the grounds and regular maintenance it could become "a little public sanctuary."

The committee's recommendation will go to council next week.

HOIST THE JOLLY ROGER

The Philippine Navy has sent a task force to clear the southern coast of 70 pirates.

Saanich Revamps Subdivision Code

Saanich should have a revamped subdivision bylaw in effect late this month.

The new bylaw, in the making for the last 1½ years, received first readings from council Tuesday night.

Final reading and approval is expected to come at the next council meeting in two weeks.

Municipal planner Tom Loney said the new bylaw produces a better document from an administrative point of view, grouping all sections which relate together, and sets out a "new approach" to subdivision requirements by establishing various service levels.

These service levels might mean, for example, that in a rural area Saanich might not require as much width of pavement on a road or be quite so thorough on storm drainage as in urban areas.

ESTABLISHES ONUS

An existing practice has been put in writing by placing the onus on the developer to do his own engineering.

"We did a pretty thorough job of research for it," Mr. Loney said today.

"We examined subdivision bylawa in 40 b.c. municipalities and we feel we have a very good bylaw in this document."

He also said that once the bylaws in 40 B.C. municipalities copies may be purchased through the clerk's office.

Colwood Recreation Plans Get Setback

The federal government has turned down a request for more property for recreation at the former Colwood racetrack.

The request for 82 acres of national defence property was made by the Colwood-Langford-Metchosin recreation committee.

John S. Williams, secretary, said the committee wanted the property to expand its recreational facilities for the area.

Proposed plans included an ice-surface, a rifle range and a senior citizen's recreation centre, he said.

National Defence Minister Leo Cadieux wrote that no more defence property would be released "for the present."

He said the property, situated behind the centennial swimming pool, was a training area that must be maintained to meet current military requirements.

Blood Clinic Faces Crisis

If you didn't bleed in August you can catch up this week.

U.K. Air Battle To Be Remembered

Next week, Sept. 8 to 15, will be Battle of Britain Week in Victoria.

Members of 800 Pacific Wing, RCAF Association, have planned several events, including an open house, a choir performance and a parade during the week.

The events commemorate the period of July to October in 1940 when the German air force, due to the heroics of the RAF, was unsuccessful in destroying Britain's air defences as the first stage of an invasion of Great Britain.

Events are as follows:

Wednesday, Sept. 11 (8 p.m) — Open House at the Wing's Wilson St. Headquarters for public over 21 years of age.

Friday, Sept. 13 — Concert by Pendyrus (Welsh) 90-voice Male Choir at the Memorial Arena, proceeds to G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children.

CADETS ASSISTING

Saturday (10:30 a.m.) — Battle of Britain parade and service, units of 800 Pacific Wing, Army, Navy, Air Force, Canadian Legion and Air Cadets participating. Assemble Bastion Square route Yates to Douglas to Belleville to Government to Cenotaph for service, then along Government to Bastion Square.

Saturday evening — Battle of Britain dinner for members only at Wing Headquarters. Lt.-Gov. Jack Nicholson is guest, Alex Jardine, national president RCAF Association, guest speaker.

$25 Reward Spurs Hunt For Vandals

A $25 reward has been offered for information leading to the apprehension of vandals who attacked a 100-foot fir tree on Millstream Road during the weekend.

A six-inch cut was made through the two-foot butt of the tree, located on the property of Peter Brotherston.

Angry residents of the area say the tree will likely have to be cut down because it now endangers nearby power lines.

Mr. Brotherston is offering the reward.

All Types of Mail Affected by New Rates

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Christmas is going to be more expensive for Canadians as a result of postal rate increases announced Tuesday by Postmaster-General Eric Kierans.

It will cost five cents to mail that greeting card.

All classes of mail will be affected by the increases, some of them announced Tuesday and some requiring parliamentary approval to be announced early in the new session of the Commons.

The increases are expected to add $17 million to post office revenues over the remainder of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1969.

Under existing rates the post office department's deficit for the fiscal year would have gone up from $43.5 million to $60.5 million as a result of increased costs entailed by the 26-month contract that ended the three-week postal strike this summer.

To be announced after Parliament opens are increases on domestic first-class mail and on second-class mail, which is made up of newspapers and magazines. Last November a bill to raise the rate on letters for out-of-town delivery to six cents from five, and on letters for local delivery to five cents from four, was beaten by a snap vote in the Commons.

START NOV. 1

The increases announced Tuesday are to go into effect Nov. 1.

A post office department statement called the changes "a giant step in long-range planning to move postal rates and mailing regulations from the traditional pattern to a modern commercial concept."

The postmaster "expects each class of mail and post office service either to pay its own way or accept its fair share of the operating costs of the Canada post office," the statement said.

This will mean raising the rate on post cards from the present four cents to the full letter rate, still to be announced.

Christmas and other greeting cards will be included with addressed advertising circulars and samples as third-class mail. The new standard rate will be five cents for the first two ounces and three cents for each additional two ounces. The weight limit for third-class mail will now be one pound. Anything heavier will be classed as parcel post. Fourth-class mail, except for special bulk rates, becomes parcel post.

The old rate on third-class mail was three cents for the first two ounces, two cents for each additional two ounces up to one pound and one cent for each tow ounces over one pound.

REDUCED BULK RATES

There will be special reduced bulk rates for third-class mail sent in lots of at least 10,000 pieces and sorted and tied to post office specifications.

Rates on "junk mail," unaddressed advertising, will increase slightly, to three cents (from two) on the first two ounces for printed matter and to four cents (from three) on the first two ounces for samples.

Return of undelivered newspapers or magazines, classed as second-class mail, will cost 10 cents for each wrapper returned — up from two cents — and for each copy returned five cents for the first two ounces and three cents for each additional two ounces, with a minimum of 10 cents for each copy.

SAME AS LETTER

Postcards sent to the U.S., its territories and possessions, North, Central and South America, the West Indies, Great Britain, The Commonwealth, Ireland and France will, like postcards mailed for delivery in Canada, require the same postage as a letter.

For destinations in countries other than these, letters, sent by surface mail, will take 12 cents for the first ounce and seven cents for each additional ounce (up from 10 cents and six cents) and postcards will take seven cents (up from six).

Air mail letters to the U.S. and its territories and possessions, will cost 10 cents an ounce under the new rates announced Tuesday. The existing rate is eight cents for the first ounce and six cents for each additional ounce. Air mail postcards to the U.S. will also go up to 10 cents from eight.

Nominee's Wife Raped, Robbed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mrs. William D. Ruckelshaus, wife of the Republican nominee for U.S. senator in Indiana, was raped and robbed in the family home here Tuesday, police said.

Ruckelshaus, 35, who will oppose Democratic Senator Birch Bayh in the November United States election, was campaigning out of town at the time.

Mrs. Ruckelshaus, mother of five children, was examined in hospital and released, police said.

Who Should Regulate Rights Bill?

By DON MacLACHLAN

VANCOUVER (CP) — Separate sections of the Canadian Bar Association looked at two constitutional issues Tuesday and one passed a resolution seeking a constitutional charter of human rights.

The resolution passed by 23 votes to 20 and could go before all 2,300 delegates Friday. Selected speakers differed on whether courts or members of Parliament and legislatures should regulate rights.

There was general agreement that if such a charter becomes part of the constitution, as proposed by Prime Minister Trudeau, efforts to protect rights must not stop with that development.

The resolution, drawn up by two CBA committees, was voted on at a panel discussion and now goes before the main resolutions committee, which decides if it will go to the convention as a whole.

Mr. Trudeau reviewed some of his goals for constitutional reform. Addressing 2,400 at a convention luncheon, he also appealed to all the provinces to play a full role in the continuing debate on reform.

Some opposing delegates wanted the resolution to mention specific rights, such as linguistic equality. It asks only that Ottawa and the provinces amend the British North America Act to include a charter.

Quebec 'Must Share Controls'

The second section looking at constitutional issues heard what Justice Minister Turner called "divergent but equally valid" views from three Quebec lawyers on Quebec's aspirations and needs.

Pierre Lamontagne of Montreal said French-speaking Canadians "must gradually be given the opportunity to share in the economic control of this country." He left it to economists to decide how.

He also said provinces should be allowed to enter administrative agreements with foreign governments "in matters of exclusive provincial jurisdiction."

Another Quebec delegate disagreed.

Maurice Lagace of Montreal said provinces' international aspirations should be limited to "administrative arrangements" in agreements, which should be negotiated only by the federal government.

Mr. Lagace said Ottawa would be held responsible for any breaches of agreements—even if negotiated without Ottawa's consent or knowledge.

Jean Sirois of Quebec City said Quebec "absolutely insists" on its constitutional rights being respected. He asked for assurance from the federal government that this will be accorded to "my state."

Bill Doesn't Direct Courts

Mr. Trudeau mentioned the official languages bill, to come before Parliament when it reconvenes Sept. 12. Mr. Turner said provisions include a "a language commissioner" to enforce it. He gave no details.

Mr. Turner was presented with an honorary life membership in the bar association. Mr. Trudeau, who already has one, said jokingly: "It's . . . a licence to go onto other things—but not too soon."

At the discussion of the rights charter, several speakers said the Canadian bill of rights is of little use. Dean Walter Tarnopolsky of University of Windsor said it doesn't direct courts.

John Laxton of Vancouver supported constitutional entrenchment of a charter but said courts should be improved. He suggested several methods, including higher pay and special training for judges.

He suggested a new judge spend a year studying, acting as a legal aid counsel and sitting with an experienced judge. Mr. Laxton said more judges should be appointed—and more younger ones.

Prof. D. A. Schmeiser of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and Vancouver lawyer Mary Southin said entrenchment of a charter of rights would hand a political role to Supreme Court judges.

Prof. Schmeiser asked: "Should five men on the Supreme Court of Canada be able to over-rule the wishes of the elected representatives of the people, or is that not a negation of democracy?"

At another session, Henry L. Cartwright of Kingston, Ont., said sections of the new Divorce Act dealing with maintenance could face challenges in the courts on constitutional grounds.

He said doubt exists because civil and property rights come under provincial jurisdiction in the BNA Act. Emile Colas of Montreal said this question of conflict has been raised in Quebec courts.

Chief Justice J. O. Wilson of British Columbia Supreme Court said the act described a minor as under 16 while in some provinces the age is under 21. "There ought to be some uniformity."

Lawyers were told the scope of the act's section on cruelty is not yet clear. One speaker said practising witchcraft and unreasonable refusal of sexual intercourse could qualify as cruelty.

Congo Coup Ended; Raoul President

KINSHASA (AP) — The National Council of the Revolution in the Congo-Brazzaville accepted the resignation today of President Alphonse Massamba-Debat and named Prime Minister Capt. Alfred Raoul as his successor, ending a military coup in the former French colony that took a month to complete.

A communique, signed by council President Capt. Marien Ngouabi and read over Radio Brazzaville, charged that the president had "failed in his essential mission" and condemned his methods for national unity.

The former teacher held office for five years.

The communique also condemned Massamba-Debat for addressing his letter of resignation to Defence Minister Lieut. Augustin Poignet and asking him to take over as chief of state.

The council said it would accept the resignation but Raoul would be chief of state until national elections could be held.

Poignet was named temporary chief of state last month when a coup led by Ngouabi unseated Massamba-Debat for one day.

Massamba-Debat survived two earlier coup attempts, but the last one has apparently been successful—although taking a month to work.

Officers said they had seen Massamba-Debat led away in manacles to paracommando camp. He was later allowed to return to his palace, but apparently without freedom.

Military leaders who took over in Brazzaville, the capital of the Congo Republic, have blamed Massamba-Debat for the fighting last week when the military disarmed his Cuban-trained youth militia.

Ice Arena Delayed Two Weeks

Completion of the $500,000 Saanich arena will be delayed two weeks, council was told Tuesday night.

It had been hoped to complete the George R. Pearkes Arena by the end of September, said Mayor Hugh Curtis.

Now, architect Donald Wagg had informed him it could be mid-October.

Later, Mayor Curtis told reporters there were two main reasons for the delay: bad weather early in the year slowed the contractor, E. J. Hunter and Sons, and the woodworkers strike in the interior of B.C. delayed delivery of laminated beams by a "number of weeks."

Mayor Curtis said he still wanted the official opening, by former Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, to proceed even if the building isn't completed.

This was opposed by Ald. William Noel who wanted the ice in place first. Ald. Leslie Passmore said the whole arena will be filled by ratepayers and invited guests who would then find themselves standing on ice.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business:

Council rescinded third reading of the new animals bylaw so amendments could be considered by lands and planning committee;

Gave first three readings to the new subdivision bylaw and referred two recommendations by the Advisory Planning Commission to lands and planning committee;

Referred complaints of teenage rowdyism, noise, drinking and bottle smashing at Cordova Bay Park to the police commission;

Heard that only a cheetah is kept at 638 Ridgebank Crescent in contrast to a previous suggestion that a python also is kept there.

'Where Did Machine Guns Come From?'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said today anti-Socialist forces in Czechoslovakia were resisting the process of "normalization" and Russian troops had to stay there for "the defence of Socialist achievements."

In a report from Bratislava, Pravda said "a process of recovery" is slowly taking place in Czechoslovakia.

But it added; "Our soldiers, as before, are having to stand vigilantly on guard of the Socialist achievements of the workers of the country, helping them in this responsible, historic hours."

The Soviet press as a whole today continued to build up a picture of a long-prepared "counter-revolution" in Czechoslovakia which was prevented just in time by the Warsaw pact action two weeks ago.

ORGANIZED UNDERGROUND

"The arrival of allied troops brought to light the presence of a well-supplied and organized counter-revolutionary underground," Pravda's correspondent in Bratislava said.

"The allied troops entered the country suddenly. So where did rifles and machine-guns on towers and in attics suddenly appear from?" the newspaper asked.

The Young Communist League newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda, alleged reactionaries prepared a new type of counter-revolution down to the last detail for a takeover of Czechoslovakia.

The plan, which had been going into operation since last January, included a take-over from the inside of Czechoslovakia's main organs of information, Komosomolskaya Pravda said.

EDITOR CHARGED

It charged Miroslav Yelinek, editor of the Prague Young Communist newspaper, Mlada Fronta, with a betrayal of communism and being indirectly responsible for the death of Soviet journalists in Czechoslovakia. It also blamed him for "shots in the back" at Soviet troops.

Top Soviet commentator Yuri Zhukov today poured scorn on reports that the Kremlin informed Washington in advance of its invasion of Czechoslovakia and received a White House assurance the U.S. would not react to it.

Writing in Pravda, Zhukov, a confidante of the Soviet leaders, said reports which appeared to this effect in British and American newspapers were "wild lies."

Meanwhile, diplomatic sources report, the Kremlin is doing its best to persuade the West it is "business as usual" despite the invasion of Czechoslovakia and rumored threats to Romania.

CRITICISM STOPS

At the same time, the strongly-worded direct criticism of Romania and Yugoslavia, which was a feature here in the early days after the occupation, has been swept under the carpet.

Western analysts here were particularly struck by a front-page article in the government newspaper Izvestia Tuesday night which, in effect, told the West it should keep its nose out of Eastern Europe, because the Second World War made this a Soviet sphere of influence.

The article, by the newspaper's foreign editor Mikhail Tsetlin-Mikhailov, took exception to the view being put forward in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization capitals that the Czechoslovak affair altered the European balance of power.

"No one will ever be allowed to tear one link from the community of Socialist states. Let the lovers of arguments about changes in the European status quo firmly remember this," the article said.

Bugging Curb Urged By Bar Association

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Bar Association has recommended that the federal government referee the use of electronic eavesdropping, and Justice Minister Turner said he hopes to tackle the question early next year.

The association's convention waded for two hours through debate and amendments to resolutions to come up with a call that bugging and wiretapping be made an indictable offence except when provided for by law.

In its final form, the resolution dropped recommendations for direct judicial control of electronic eavesdropping, a point which had been specified in a resolution tabled at the 1967 convention.

Mr. Turner, an observer as the five-day convention opened Monday, gave no indication of what moves Ottawa may make on electronic eavesdropping and said no legislation has been prepared.

SEES CONFLICT

"There is quite a legitimate conflict of interest between the citizen's right to privacy, in which I believe very strongly, and the rights of the country to protect itself in terms of national security and the rights of police and enforcement agencies to prevent crime," he said.

One section of the resolution is unchanged from the 1967 proposals. It urges legislation ruling that evidence obtained by illegal use of eavesdropping not be admissible in any court.

Only about 230 of the 2,300 delegates attended the debate. There was general agreement that use of electronic eavesdropping should be restricted to "official" crime-fighting and security work.

Current legislation bans "physical" electronic eavesdropping, but tapping and bugging can be conducted without any attachment to phone circuits or physical invasion of a building.

Most debate speakers fell somewhere between two schools of thought: that any eavesdropping sacrifices individual rights and that the good of society can override such rights.

MUST AID PRIVACY

M. C. Shumiatcher of Regina said the value of privacy must be preserved.

"I think a far greater threat is not from organized crime but from Big Brother government."

Said Arthur S. Patillo of Toronto:

"Whose privacy are we talking about? Are we trying to protect criminals?"

He suggested it be left to judges to decide whether to hear "electronic evidence."

Ed McCormick of Calgary a special federal prosecutor of numerous drug cases, agreed and said:

"The underworld and Mafia must be rooting for some of the speakers here today."

ATTACKS METHODS

Mr. Shumiatcher attacked methods of obtaining confessions which, he said, can be used in investigations in Canada and Britain.

"The police . . . can pull out someone's toenails and he says, 'Yes, I killed Cock Robin and threw the gun in the old well.' Using that, the police can go to the well, get the gun and use it as evidence."

This brought Sir Leslie Scarman, a judge of the British High Court, to his feet to complain that the comment did not "in any way represent the law on this topic in England."

As the convention opened, President A. Gordon Cooper of Halifax said the use of rioting and violence in attempts to change laws must not be allowed in violation of the right to live in peace.

"Liberty and freedom we must have; licence and lawlessness we cannot afford to heave. . . .

Mr. Cooper, expected to be succeeded as president of the 15,700-member body by Vice-President John James Saucier, 65, of Calgary, also called for provincial legal aid plans and law reform bodies.

He said the time for "voluntary and piecemeal legal aid" is over. Ontario was leading the field in legal aid and other provinces were progressing. However, he said: "We must go further."

Semester Plan For Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — A year's work is to be concentrated into a five-month period at Nanaimo senior secondary school in what is believed to be the first semester system of its kind in British Columbia.

Principal James Swan said students will enrol in four subjects in the first semester and three in the second, or vice versa.

The first semester began Tuesday and goes through to Jan. 17 the second starts Jan. 20 and ends June 26.

Examinations will be given during regular classes, with students passed or failed on their work during a semester. The semester system also means longer school days for students participating.

Mr. Swan said the system did not apply to Grade 13 students or those on the academic-technical Grade 12 program.

He said all Grade 13 students as well as academic-technical students who are not in the 55 to 65 per cent must write department of education examinations.

Death Brings to End Distinguished Career

Funeral services were held today for W. Jack H. Gallard who died in hospital on Monday. He was 69.

Mr. Gallard, who lived at 3932 Cumberland St., was president of Gallard Collection Services Ltd., a firm which he founded after his arrival from England in 1947.

Born in Richmond, England, Mr. Gallard graduated from Sandhurst Military College in 1917. He then fought in France until transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre for bravery by the French Government.

After World War I, as a regular in the Imperial Army, he served in India, Malaya, and Hong Kong.

During his army service he was a contender for the lightweight championship of the British Army, and later played on the Irish National Soccer team. He had a lifelong interest in sports.

Mr. Gallard married in 1935 and operated a large tire business until he was called up for World War II. He served in French Equatorial Africa and fought at El Alamein with the 8th Army, rising to rank of colonel.

At the end of the war he retired from the army as a major, and later served with M.I.5 until coming to Canada.

He was an active member of Henderson Lodge No. 84 AF & AM, BCR; the Kiwanis SS Beaver Club; the Air Force Officers Association of Vancouver Island and the RCAF Association 88 Pacific Wing.

Services were held in the Sands Mortuary Limited Chapel followed by cremation. The Rev. Dr. Kenneth M. King officiated.

How to Talk To Your Children

Why do so many parents have difficulty in handling their children? Part of the trouble is how little each listens to the other, points out an instructive article in September Reader's Digest. You'll learn that talking with your child requires that you show respect and understanding. Learning how to handle children's "mixed-up feelings" can make the difference between a battlefield and a happy home. Find out how to reach children and how to handle parental anger. Soggy August Short Of Setting Record

August was officially the wettest August in 14 years.

According to Victoria weather officer Allan McQuarrie, head of Victoria Airport office, the month past was three or four times as wet as normal. In fact, the only comparable month in recent years in August, 1954.

The Gonzales weather station registered 1.86 inches of rain compared with the long term average of .54 inch. Precipitation was 1.99 inches at Patricia Bay and was as high as 2.41 inches at Quesnel Avenue in north-central Victoria.

The Gonzales Hill record rainfall for August is 2.26 incjes in 1912.

Temperatures over last month ranged from a low of 50 to a high of 74. Gonzales Hill was 57 hours behind the normal amount of sunshine with 242 hours. Over all, there was slightly less wind than normal.

FLOWER SHOW
Children's Group Gave Adults Lead

By AL BIRNIE

To the Gordon Head Garden Club, the motto "A little child shall lead them" aptly describes their own history.

For the group, holding it's 14th annual fall show Saturday, spring from a children's group started by veteran gardener E. M. Renouf in 1950.

"When the grown-ups saw what the youngsters could do, they decided to follow their example, so we called a meeting and launched our own club in 1953," said Mr. Renouf, of 4170 Tyndall.

The club has since grown from 20 to more than 125 members, one of the larger garden clubs on the Island.

The fall show, to be held in the Gordon Head Community Hall from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday, offers prizes in 98 classes of general flowers, decorative arrangement, house plants, general fruit, general vegetables, and junior section.

Five trophies, three of them open to non-members, will be awarded for high aggregate points in various sections.

Exhibitors may enter one item, that is owned and grown by themselves, in each class, with an entry fee of 10 cents for each item. Notice of entries must be in the hands of Mr. F. H. Graham, 1712 Donnelly, not later than 6 p.m. Friday, and exhibits must be in position by 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. Renouf, who worked as a professional gardener for 55 years before his retirement, continues as honorary president and life member of the club, and will naturally be on hand all day Saturday.

Admission to the fall show is 25 cents, with door prizes every hour.

Missing Girl Being Sought

City police have requested help in locating a 15-year-old missing from her home since Saturday.

Catherine Sutherland, of 532 Linden, is five feet five inches tall, and very slim, weighing 105 pounds.

She has green eyes, long dark brown hair and was last seen wearing a brown suede jacket, blue plaid shirt, blue knee socks and brown shoes with a large buckle.

Lion Foils Gladiator's Daring Act

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Resplendent in scarlet loincloth, Indonesian gladiator Bandot Lahardo strode into a soccer stadium, intent on killing a ferocious African lion barehanded before 100,000 spectators.

But the lion turned chicken and refused to fight.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik was in the crowd which booed the gladiator Sunday night while armed stadium workers tried unsuccessfully to goad the lion into action.

Perhaps the animal had heard of Lahardo's exploits in Surabaya, East Java, where he recently killed a tiger and two bulls with his bare hands. Or it may have seen a television program in which a large truck ran over the 39-year-old gladiator's body without hurting him.

But a bull, brought into the arena after the lion's exit, entered into the spirit of things and charged the gladiator, wounding him slightly in the chest before being driven into a cage.

New Imperial Profit

New Imperial Mines today reported net earnings of $440,400 and revenue from concentrates of $3,273,593 in the first six months of 1968.

President Arnold Pitt said working capital on June 30 was $206,316 against $931,232 last year. Share earnings for the six-month period were 7.2 cents.

Mr. Pitt said shipments of copper concentrates to Japan began in August, 1967, from the company's mine near Whitehorse in the Yukon, and since that time the company has moved 22,273 short wet tons with a gross value of $7,516,164.

Royal Bank

Royal Bank of Canada has reported an increase in profits for the quarter ended July 31 of $7 million, or 23.5 cents a share, compared with 6.6 million or 20.1 cents a share in 1967.

Revenues were $138 million against $103.7 million. Expenses were $109.9 million to $88 milion.

Net profits for the first nine months were $24.9 million or 75 cents a share, compared with $21.9 million or 65.9 cents a share a year earlier.

Exploration Deal

An agreement signed recently between Pacific Copper Mines Ltd., and Cominco Explorations Pty. Ltd. will result in an immediate exploration program being carried out by Cominco on one of Pacific Copper Mines Ltd. properties in Australia.

Cominco must spend $100,000 on the exploration and appraisal of Pacific's "Belara Project," before any interest is earned. Cominco has already spent $25,000 on geochemical and geophysical work and a diamond drill program is planned as the next stage of the program.

Under the new agreement, Cominco will receive a 70 per cent interest in the Belara Property when they have spent $300,000.

Businessman Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Alan Bruce Munro, 64, vice-president and managing-director of F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., died Tuesday while working at his office. He also served on the board of the parent U.S. company. Mr. Munro managed stores in Welland, Ottawa and Vancouver before he was appointed supervisor for the Maritime region in 1940. He moved to Toronto in 1942.

Mercury Congress

Reg Midgely of Mercury Marine Sales and Service Ltd. of Victoria has been named one of the 170 U.S. and Canadian dealers who will attend the annual Mercury National Dealer Congress at l'Esterel, Que. Sept. 9-12.

B.C. Packers

B.C. Packers reported Tuesday that recovery of income taxes because of losses in previous periods allowed it to show a net income of $89,958 in the first half of this year.

J. Norman Hyland, chairman and chief executive officer, said comparative figures were not given because of a change in the company's fiscal year.

The company's interim report said consolidated sales and other revenue totalled $38.6 million while cost of sales was $36.7 million and depreciation was $1 million.

The net loss before taxes was $148,042. Recovery of income taxes was $238,000.

Gold Deadlock Plan Proposed by German

By HOBART ROWEN

WASHINGTON (WP) — A proposal to assure South African producers a floor price of $35 an ounce for new gold has been made by the influential German economist Otmar Emminger, member of the board of governors of the Deutsche Bundesbank.

Emminger's suggestion for breaking the existing deadlock over South African gold supplies is being published in the September issue of "Intereconomics," a Hamburg magazine.

It comes a few weeks in advance of the annual meeting in Washington of the International Monetary Fund, which may tackle the controversy within the IMF executive board over the South African gold situation.

Emminger's plan has two key elements.

1. The IMF would guarantee to buy gold from South Africa or other producers "whenever the free market price drops (or threatens to drop) below $35 an ounce over a certain minimum period."

2. In exchange for his assurance of a floor, the producers would have to be "willing to channel newly-mined gold in an orderly way into the free market whenever the price in this market was higher than $35."

●

This is something less than the South Africans have been arguing for, ever since the leading gold pool nations last March, in effort to beat off the speculative push for higher gold prices, said that it was no longer "necessary to buy gold from the market." In effect, they were saying they had enough monetary gold in their treasuries.

They anticipated that the South Africans, who account for 75 per cent or so of Western gold production, would thus be forced to sell all of their new gold in the free market, preventing the price from skyrocketing.

But the South Africans have held most of their gold off the speculative markets, anticipating that the two-tier price system created by the March decision would not last long, and that a big jump in the official price of gold would be put into effect.

●

They have been lobbying within the IMF to establish the right to sell gold at the $35 price at their own discretion to the international agency. They have been resisted, Emminger observed, because this privilege would allow the South Africans to "decide at will what share of its newly-mined gold to sell on the free market and what share at the official price. As a monopolist, it could reap the highest possible profit." The U.S. has led the fight against the South African proposal.

Emminger's floor plan, if it undershoots what the South Africans would like, is more than the U.S. would like to give. The compromise would eliminate the prospect that gold could fall below the $35 level, and would weaken the determination of last March to freeze the supply of monetary gold levels. It would tend to give a new element of importance to gold, at a time when the forward looking view is toward de-emphasis.

The latter concern doesn't worry Emminger. He believes that recent events have "already discredited gold as the supreme measure of values," and that his compromise is a reasonable step toward the stability in the price of gold.

"After all," he said, "the interest of the central bankers is really the same as the South Africans. And that is, to prevent big fluctuations in the price of gold. It isn't so important if the free market is above $35. It could be $38 or $39 as long as it is stable."

●

In his "Intereconomics" article, Emminger points out that gold reserves cannot be easily displaced, and that gold is still the measure for the new system of special drawings rights now going through a process of international ratification.

The attitude of the South Africans remains to be seen. Their pressure for the right to sell to the IMF at the official $35 price shows a recognition of the real possibility, if not the immediate prospect, that prices could be depressed.

Emminger says that the commercial price "might very well" dip below $35 if large supplies from private hoards or from Eastern bloc countries should come on the market. Recent meetings among international bankers have heard repeated rumors of a substantial new Russian gold strike.

As to any purchases of gold by the IMF under the Emminger proposal, they would either be held to replenish the agency's own gold stocks, or be sold to acquire scarce currencies.

Okanagan 'Copters

Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., in an interim report to shareholders, said Tuesday it had a net loss of $272,300 in the first six months of 1968.

Glenn McPherson, president and managing director, said this compares with a loss of $35,000 in the same period last year.

Revenue hours flown in the six months were 9,150, resulting in sales of $2.3 million. Figures for the same period in 1967 were 11,280 revenue hours worth $1.9 million.

Mr. McPherson said that because of the seasonal aspects of the company's business, interim reports vary substantially and do not fairly show the general trend of the firm's affairs on the annual basis.

Reserves Now Exceed $2.5 Billion

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign exhange reserves increased by $74.9 million during August, making the fifth consecutive month of strength for the Canadian dollar.

Finance Minister Benson announced today that the official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars totalled $2,589,500,000 on Aug. 31.

They were $2,514,600,000 a month earlier.

Exchange reserves are the buffer used to support Canada's pegged exchange rate by absorbing imbalances in capital flows between Canada and other countries.

More than $700 million was drained from the reserves through purchases of U.S. dollars to support the Canadian dollar during its period of weakness early this year.

PWA Studying Cheap Fares For Oldsters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines said Tuesday it is studying proposals for no-strings-attached reduced fares for persons 65 and over.

PWA vice-president Don Watson said the matter "has been under serious study for some time."

Mr. Watson said if the company does decide to apply to the federal air transport committee for reduced fares for elderly persons, it would not be on a standby basis.

"They would have the full rights and privileges of any other passengers. They would not be held up en route which can occur on a standby system."

Canadian Pacific Airlines said Friday it, is applying for a special fare for senior citizens.

If its application is approved by the air transport committee, senior citizens will fly for 50 per cent of the regular fare on a standby basis.

The company said that once accepted for travel, the passenger would be confirmed through to his destination but would fly only when space not occupied by full-fare passengers becomes available.

TAKING SOME of hard knocks out of a factory level rail crossing, the Manitoba plant of International Harvester has installed a rubber pad where wooden planks normally are used. The improvement gives a smoother ride to traffic crossing rails, especially when they have breakable goods on board, as this forklift truck. (CP Photo)

U.S. Minicars Finally on Way

DETROIT (AP) — A high American Motors source confirmed Monday reports that AMC is about to make its long-awaited move into the minicar market.

The official said American has started preliminary work on a project which will see a new, small car introduced a year from now.

"There are problems in tooling which cannot be speeded up," he said.

American's current smallest car, the compact Rambler, has a 106-inch wheelbase and a base price of $1,946 U.S. with a six-cylinder engine. It has not been able to halt Volkswagen's success in the United States market.

Indications are that Volkswagen (priced at $1,850) will wind up calendar 1968 with about 400,000 sales, better than half the U.S. import market. American is aiming at 300,000 sales for the year.

AMC officials apparently have reversed the attitude the company held for the last five years —that costs of tooling up for a car in the minicar or subcompact field would be prohibitive.

Their decision was hurried along in part by Ford's reported program of building a subcompact, with the code name Delta.

Reports say the Delta will have a 103-inch wheelbase, five inches shorter than the Ford Falcon, and will sell in the $1,700 to $1,800 range, informed observers say. Ford never has confirmed officially the Delta project, but during its national press preview last week various Ford officials, while declining to discuss the minicar project, passed up several chances to deny its existence.

Chrysler has said it has no minicar in the works for 1970 models but it left the door open. General Motors' official line is that it has no such project on the boards.

AMC's minicar, says Dave Smith, business editor of the Detroit Free Press, is to be built on a 100-inch wheelbase, compared with 95 inches for the Volkswagen. He said it would seat four persons comfortably and would be in the $1,800 to $1,900 range.

7% GNP RISE SAYS BANK

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce predicts a 7 per cent increase in Canada's gross national product this year, including a rise in real output of 3.5 to 4 per cent.

In its July-August Commercial Letter, the bank says economic conditions at mid-1968 are reasonably favorable but that stimulation from the United States economy will moderate during the second half.

The bank says the predicted rise of 7 per cent is slightly better than last year but that unemployment is higher and the growth rate for the economy as a whole is still "considerably below potential."

Increase in GNP for the first half of 1968 is put at five per cent, two percentage points of it due to higher prices. Total exports rose 16 per cent and exports to the U.S. 25 per cent.

SPENDING UP

Consumer spending was up nine per cent and government expenditures seven. Business investment in plant and equipment was lower than first-half 1967 but higher than second-half 1967.

Consumer prices rose at about the same rate, up two per cent during first-half 1968.

Surplus in merchandise trade in first-quarter 1968 was an estimated $236 million and deficit on non-merchandise trade $461 million. This left a deficit of $225 million in total current-account transactions.

The second-quarter deficit was expected to be less than in 1967.

Seven More Banks Drop Prime Rate

TORONTO (CP) — Reflecting a growing trend toward easier interest rates, seven chartered banks announced Tuesday they have lowered their prime lending rates to 6¾ per cent from seven.

They were the Bank of British Columbia, Royal Bank of Canada, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Toronto-Dominion Bank, Banque Canadienne Nationale and Provincial Bank of Canada.

A week ago, Bank of Montreal announced a similar cut.

The prime rate is the interest charged by the chartered banks on loans made to their top-rated customers.

Opening the door for the chartered banks' move was the weekend action by the Bank of Canada is cutting its interest rate to 6 per cent from 6½.

The Bank of Canada rate is the interest it charges on loans it makes to chartered banks.

Although such loans are rarely made, its rate level is accepted as a sign of whether the central bank wants general credit made easier through lower interest rates, or whether it wants to damp down the economy by increased interest charges.

The central bank rate reached a peak March 15 of 7½ per cent, during the international currency crisis. It was cut to 7 per cent July 2 after short-term interest rates started to ease in Canada, and was dropped to 6½ per cent July 29.

Brenda Spending Totals One-Sixth Ultimate Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. O. Brynelsen, president of Brenda Mines, said Tuesday in a report to shareholders that contractual obligations amounting to $9.8 million has been entered into at June 30.

The cost of bringing a huge low-grade copper — molybdenum property near Peachland, B.C., into production has been estimated at $60 million.

In addition to a $25 million bank loan, the operation is being financed $7.5 million by Nippon Mining and Mitsui Co., and $27.5 million by Noranda Mines.

John Hall, general manager, said that 1.5 million tons of waste had been stripped as of Aug. 21.

About 9 million tons must be removed before milling begins.

As of June 30 Brenda had spent $4,363,836, said Mr. Brynelsen.

THE ACCOUNTANT'S ADVICE

Start Saving Now

(This is a service provided by the Times and the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.).

By EDGAR A. DOWNEY, CA

Everyone who earns a reasonable income deserves to keep some of it, to keep it for years and let it grow to provide financial independence.

The majority of people pressed by budget problems and the rising cost of living feel they have no chance of attaining such a utopia. But that majority are wrong! They do have a chance, and most of them can do it in fact, if they want to.

"A lean purse is easier to cure than to endure" is an ancient Babylonian proverb but it remains true in any era.

There are, of course, some people who have no ability to look after themselves and who cannot climb out of the absolute poverty level. But most of what we recognize as poverty would be considered great wealth by the really poverty-stricken peoples in other parts of the world.

For most people the lack of money can be overcome by a determined decision to improve, and acceptance of very slow growth at the start.

One hundred dollars invested at 5 per cent will earn only $5.00 at the end of one year, but if its earnings are left to compound at 5 per cent a year for 30 years that original $100 will grow to over $400.

Or, put conversely, a man aged 35 who wastes $100 upon a non-essential expenditure has really wasted $400 of his retirement funds at age 65. And that is assuming a yield of only 5 per cent, and that he only ever wasted $100 once in his life.

If the yield could be 7 per cent and if he wasted $100 a year for 30 years the total waste at age 65 would be more than $10,000. How many people, even the relatively poor, do spend $100 a year on something which was not absolutely essential? And how many of those people cannot find a 7 per cent investment? The mutual fund salesmen would love to meet such people.

To bring the position more into the range of the middle income group, a man of forty can save $500 a year for 25 years at a compound yield of 7 per cent can have a capital sum of over $33,500 at age 65. And that capital sum could be used to provide a comfortable retirement annuity.

The problem is to make the decision and to maintain it. A man who works for his income should put himself on his own payroll first. A portion of all he earns is his to keep and to hold against all other claims; and to keep it earning income in a moderate yield, high security, investment.

It is easy to intend to start a savings program but much more difficult to carry that intention into practice this year. Next year always seems to be a much better time and after all 7 per cent earnings on that $500 in one year would be only $35. But this excuse is based upon a fallacy.

A delay until next year for a man of forty would mean that his savings program would have only 24 years to run to retirement at 65. It is the 25th year which is dropped, not the first year. The earnings for next year (i.e. the first year) would still be only $35 but the lost earnings for the 25th year would have been $2,212. So that the one year delay would cause a material reduction in the comfort provided by his retirement annuity.

The time to start a savings program is always now, today! It is never too early, and even the man who has delayed until next year for many past years can still enjoy some of the benefits of growth investment by using the few years he has left to earn, and to save.

We make gasoline.
But mileage is our business.

Maybe the day of the gas station is past.

After all, when you stop at the Shell sign, we can do a lot more than fill your tank. Gasoline is just one factor that determines mileage.

And mileage is our business.

We can help you go farther

When you stop at the Shell sign, we can check your tires. The right pressure will give you better mileage.

We can check your spark plugs. If they're worn, you could be wasting one gallon in every tankful.

We can check your air filter. If it's dirty, that's more wasted gasoline—and money.

We can suggest many more gas-saving secrets. We want everything right with your car when we fill your tank, so Super Shell can really show off.

Super Shell for good mileage

It's a good mileage gasoline for one good reason: the formulation.

There are no secrets among Super Shell's ingredients, and most are used in one competitive gasoline or another.

But no two refineries use all of the same ingredients in the same proportions.

Super Shell has five ingredients for good mileage.

(1) Platformate contains extra-energy petroleum molecules.

(2) TCP works to keep spark plugs from misfiring.

(3) Butane helps you start quickly. And the quicker you start, the less gasoline you use before you get going.

(4) A detergent fights deposits that can build up inside the carburetor. These deposits reduce mileage.

(5) Mixed Pentanes help your engine warm up quickly to prevent misfiring, bucking, coughing and wasted fuel—whatever the weather.

But as we said, gasoline is just part of the story. Mileage is our business.

We really should call them Shell mileage stations. Visit one—if you'd like to go farther.

Epidemics New Fear In Quake-Hit Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Shan and Empress of Iran flew to northeast Iran today to inspect the devastation of the weekend earthquakes that killed, by official count, 11,000 of their people.

(Unofficially, the toll has been estimated as high as 20,000 dead in a report carried by Reuters news agency.)

Some 1,400 miles to the west of Iran's stricken area, Turkish officials said 24 persons were killed Tuesday and some 200 were injured in an earthquake that jolted towns on the Black Sea east of Istanbul.

Iran's rulers were to visit the hardest hit villages including Khezri, Mim and Kakhk. In Kakhk alone, some 6,000 persons died.

Relief officials said there had been no reports of epidemics in the shattered towns but that large quantities of disinfectant, vaccine and sterilized water were being taken to the stricken area.

Premier Amir Abass Hoveida said rescuers had abandoned attempts to recover more bodies because of the danger of epidemics. He ordered ruins levelled by bulldozers, burying the unrecovered dead in the rubble.

WILL USE STEEL

He said homes in the area would eventually be rebuilt using steel beams and heavy bricks instead of the traditional mud and wood.

The Iranian embassy in London appealed for money, tents and blankets to help the estimated 100,000 persons made homeless by the quakes. Oxfam, a British volunteer relief agency, said it was ready to fly in more than a ton of blankets.

The Canadian Red Cross Society gave $10,000 to assist relief work.

The U.S. state department authorized $25,000 for medical and other aid for quake victims. The U.N. relief agency CARE said it had made several thousand packages of food available for the homeless.

In Turkey, the Red Crescent (Red Cross) sent some 2,000 tents, foodstuffs, blankets and a field kitchen to the quake area 200 miles east of Istanbul.

Thousands of men, women and children spent a sleepless, restless night outdoors or in tents.

MONTREAL BECOMING 'WORLD'S WICKEDEST'

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Mail says Montreal is earning the reputation of "the world's wickedest city."

In a dispatch from Montreal written by Michael Hellier, the newspaper says that since February there have been at last a dozen underworld executions as rival gangs battle for a huge narcotics market.

With the break-up of an alleged Mafia meeting at Apalachin, New York, in 1957, "the Mafia has controlled the dope market from Montreal," Hellier maintains.

"As the Mafia's grip is challenged by rival gangs in Montreal, bodies turn up with sickening frequency in sewers, alleys, gutters and parked cars."

Competition for the leadership of the Manitoba New Democratic Party loomed today as President Sidney Green announced he would be a candidate. Present leader is Russ Paulley, 58, who does not intend to quit. The party's convention is scheduled for Nov. 1 to 3.

637 IN U.S. DIE ON ROADS

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents in the United States during the Labor Day weekend claimed a record 637 killed for the three-day holiday period.

The previous highway death record for Labor Day was set in 1966 when 636 persons were killed. The 1967 traffic toll for the same weekend was 606.

McCarthy Rejects New Party Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Senator Eugene McCarthy says he will not become a fourth party candidate for president in the U.S. general election Nov. 5 and will not join the effort to organize a fourth party drive.

McCarthy, who has said he might support such a drive if its programs and leaders were acceptable, Tuesday reiterated refusal to directly participate.

But the New Reform party of Montana ignored the statement and nominated the unsuccessful contender for the Democratic nomination as its presidential candidate.

Marcus Raskin, whose NR party hopes to get on the ballot in 25 states, predicted that several state groups would put McCarthy's name on the ballot.

McCarthy said he would deny official approval in those states requiring it to put his name on the ballot, but said he would try to "respond" to the wishes of supporters in states that do not require official approval.

He urged his supporters to work instead for the election of senators who agree with his opposition to Vietnam war policy and his stand on domestic priorities.

McCarthy said he has asked that his name be withdrawn in Iowa where he said it "would have little bearing on the outcome of the national election" and might hurt Gov. Harold Hughes' Democratic Senate campaign.

A top supporter of McCarthy's Democratic bid—a former Democratic national chairman, Stephen Mitchell—said meanwhile he now will support the party's nominee, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey.

10 Czechs Defect

BARI, Italy (Reuters) — The 7,730-ton Czechoslovak motorship Brno left Tuesday for Yugoslavia without 10 members of its crew who asked for political asylum in Italy.

Fading Baltimore Eight Games Back

Tigers Rally With Four in Ninth; Dodgers Finally Show Plate Punch

By The Associated Press

Detroit Tigers' Jim Northrup had some ups and downs Tuesday night before stroking the key hit in a 6-3 triumph over Oakland Athletics.

The victory, coupled with Baltimore Orioles' 6-1 loss to New York Yankees, sent the first-place Tigers eight games in front of the fading Orioles in the American League stretch run.

Elsewhere, Washington Senators edged Chicago White Sox 2-1, Cleveland Indians trimmed California Angels 7-2 and Boston Red Sox beat Minnesota Twins 4-1 in a five-inning, rain-shortened game.

Los Angeles Dodgers, a last-place team in the National League this season because of their weak hitting, suddenly came to life at the plate.

Dodger hitters, usually content with a handful of singles, pounded out five doubles and three home runs to produce eight runs in the final two innings and edge Philadelphia Phillies 10-9.

Of the Dodgers' other four hits, three were singles and one was Ken Boyer's two-run homer in the sixth.

Elsewhere in the National League, first-place St. Louis Cardinals topped Cincinnati Reds 5-3 in 11 innings, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Houston Astros 3-2, New York Mets beat Atlanta 4-3 and then lost to the Braves 7-6 in 12 innings and Chicago Cubs trounced San Francisco Giants 8-3.

Northrup committed a damaging error in the eighth inning as the Athletics rallied for three runs and a 3-2 edge. He then sent home the tying and deciding runs with a single in the ninth, sparking a four-run Tiger comeback.

He Used His Head, You Might Say

The Detroit right fielder started the night on the downgrade, going hitless in his first three trips to the plate and stranding three base runners in the fifth. He singled to open the eighth—and was picked off first—but got back safely when John Donaldson's throw hit him in the head.

With the Tigers clinging to a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the eighth, Joe Keough laced a single to right. Allen Lewis raced home with the tying run and Sal Bando scored from first when Northrup booted the ball.

But the Tigers filled the bases again in the ninth and Northrup made amends for his miscue with a two-run single to right. Mickey Stanley scored the third run in the inning on a wild pitch and Northrup tallied the fourth on an infield roller, beating the throw to the plate with a sweeping slide.

The Yankees caught up with Tom Phoebus, an old nemesis, in handing the Orioles their sixth setback in eight games. Phoebus, who took a 6-0 lifetime record against New York into the game, blanked the Yanks on one infield single until the sixth, when they knocked him out and grabbed a 2-1 lead on a walk and four singles.

Left-hander Fritz Peterson protected the margin until the ninth, when Roy White's bases-loaded triple and Robinson's second RBI single wrapped it up. Peterson, 9-9, was hit by a pitch in the ninth and Dooley Womack finished up.

Senators Pull Up on White Sox

Tim Cullen's two-run pinch single in the sixth overcame a 1-0 Chicago lead and Joe Coleman made it stand up with a four-hitter as the Senators climbed within one game of the ninth-place White Sox.

Willie Crawford of the Dodgers led off the eighth inning by slamming a Dick Hall pitch for a homer. Then with one out, Bill Dudakis homered and Boyer hit his second homer.

Jim Lefebvre struck out, but pinch hitter Len Gabrielson walked and Gary Wagner relieved Hall. Tom Haller greeted Wagner with a double, and Ron Fairly slammed a pinch double that scored Gabrielson and Hall and tied the score 7-7.

Philadelphia took an 8-7 lead in the bottom of the eighth when Gary Sutherland walked with the bases loaded. But in the ninth, Crawford greeted John Boozer with a double and scored on Davis' double. After Sudakis struck out and Boyer popped up, Lefebvre walked and Gabrielson doubled home Davis and Lefebvre.

St. Louis sent Cincinnati to its sixth straight loss when Curt Flood singled home one run and Roger Maris' sacrifice fly drove in another in the 11th inning. Johnny Bench's two-out, two-run homer in the Cincinnati ninth sent the game into extra innings.

Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., won his 17th victory against 12 losses for the Cubs as Randy Hundley drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Ernie Banks hit his 27th homer. Willie McCovey belted his 32nd homer, with a man on, and Bobby Bonds slammed a solo shot for San Francisco.

Fearon Faults Poor Shooting

OSHAWA — "You can't score on a goaltender when you shoot right at him and you don't win games by scoring only six goals."

Coach Al Fearon of Nanaimo Luckies was assessing his club's 9-6 loss to Brooklin Redmen Tuesday in the first game of the Mann Cup Senior lacrosse championship. But the man who guided the B.C. team to the Senior B title in 1966 was optimistic.

"Look, neither team showed that well on the game," Fearon said.

"We needed the first game to adjust to their style of play. But things will be different in the second game Thursday night."

Nanaimo outshot Brooklin 39-36 but, as Fearon said, most of the shots were right at the goaltender Joe Tomchyshyn, acquired by Brooklin from Mississauga Braves of the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior series.

Even when the Luckies settled down in the second period Tomchyshyn was there to make the saves. He stopped a total of 30 shots, many of them from close in.

The portly veteran was picked up when regular goalie Justin (Spike) Howe suffered a broken rib and punctured lung in a goalmouth collision during the eastern semi-finals.

SCORE TWO EACH

Julie Kowalski, a pickup from Bramalea Excelsiors and rookie Wayne Davidson scored two goals apiece for Brooklin. Jim Campbell, Ron Sutton, Jerry Burrows, playing-coach Don Craggs and Gerry Henderson added the others.

Larry Biggs and captain Bill Russell each scored twice for Nanaimo and single goals went to Al Matson and defenceman Larry Clarkson.

"They got the jump on us with those two shorthanded goals in the first period and we just didn't come back," Fearon said.

"Our goalie didn't have a chance on the first four goals; their forwards were in on top of him all alone."

Nanaimo goaltender Harry Preston, picked up from Port Coquitlam, played in place of regular Al Shuker who couldn't make the first two games of the series because of job commitments on the West Coast. But Fearon said Shuker would arrive in Oshawa in time for Saturday's third game.

SHAMROCKS' LAST GO WILL BE AWARDING ONE

Victoria Shamrocks bid adieu tonight to their first season in the National Lacrosse Association.

Doomed to a last-place finish in the Western Division, Shamrocks wind up their home stand by meeting co-leading Portland Adanacs at Memorial Arena, starting at 8:30.

Victoria plays its final game in Vancouver Friday.

The game will feature the team's annual "awards night" presentations. Individual team trophies will be presented to leading players between the second and third periods.

'Peg Coach Confident Playoff Target Exists

OTTAWA (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers, still nursing high hopes for a playoff spot in Western Conference, meet Ottawa Rough Riders tonight in an interlocking Canadian Football League Conference game.

Coach Joe Zaleski said he is confident his club can contain the passing of Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson and the beefed-up Ottawa running attack led by fullback Bo Scott.

"Otherwise, we would not be here," said Zaleski.

The Bombers managed only one win in five starts and are in last place in the West. However they are only two points behind fourth-place British Columbia Lions and three behind third-place Edmonton Eskimos.

RACE IS TIGHT

The Riders can jump into first place in the East with a win. They now are tied for the top spot with Toronto Argonauts. Each club has six points.

Zaleski said rookie quarterback John Schneider is improving with every game and that the University of Toledo graduate can be expected to carry the ball more with each game.

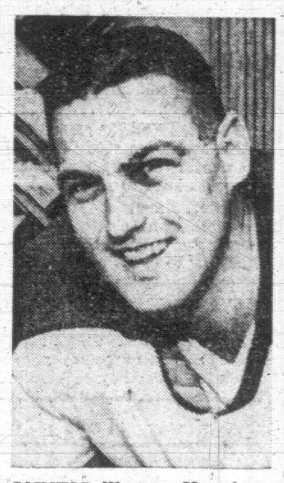
Zaleski said the Bombers can make the playoffs but declined to say how many games he thought they had to win to do so. He said the race in the Western Conference was a tight one and much depended on circumstances.

Meanwhile the Riders looked for the return of fullback Scott and more offensive duty from rookie Vic Washington to put more threat in their running attack.

Tonight's game will be carred on the full CTV network starting at 5 p.m. PDT.

Saanich Registration

The invitation is out to players, coaches, managers and referees wishing to participat in the Saanich Minor Hockey Association program. Registrations will be held at Hampton Park on Saturday, from 10 a.m to noon and from 2 to 4 p.m.



JOINING Western Hockey League Vancouver Canucks along with two other Rochester American players of the American Hockey League is Bob Barlow (above), second in the AHL scoring race last season and former Victoria Maple Leaf player. Other additions to Canuck's roster are Len Lunde and Ted Taylor.

Jane Sets Pace In Golf Events

DUNCAN — Cowichan Golf Club members kept swinging throughout the three-day Labor Day weekend.

In a four-ball mixed event Monday, Jane Fall teamed with Gary Hyatt of Richmond to capture the low gross prize. Low net awards were won by Valerie and Alec Foreward, Mary and Bill McAra and Jean and Tommy Kerrone.

Don Miller topped an open competition for men. Al Nelson, Bill Boyles and John McFaul took low net honors.

In women's competition, Mrs. Fall again came to the fore, claiming low gross honors over Mrs. Foreward.

Rookie Upsets Laver

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Pro rookie Cliff Drysdale of South Africa broke Rod Laver's serving rhythm with a murderous two-fisted backhand Tuesday and upset the top-seeded favorite to make an open scramble of the $100,000 U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

His confidence shaken and his awesome left-handed power dulled to powder-puff potency, the world's No. 1 ranking player fell before Drysdale's relentless back court barrage, 4-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, in a fourth-round match.

Laver served 14 double faults, five in the final set and two in the opening game, which let loose the landslide.

Drysdale, 29, runner-up to Spain's Manuel Santana here in 1965, is a member of Lamar Hunt's so-called "Handsome Eight" touring troupe. Laver is the star of George MacCall's rival National Tennis League, composed of older players.

The tall, blond South African was joined in the men's quarter-finals by Australian John Newcombe, another of the "Handsome Eight" group and the two top U.S. Davis Cup aces, Arthur Ashe of Highland Falls, N.Y., and Clark Graebner of New York, both amateurs.

BEATS EMERSON

Ashe, the new U.S. amateur champion and the first Negro man ever to win a major crown, buoyed U.S. cup hopes by polishing off Australia's rugged Roy Emerson, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

Graebner, Ashe's hard-serving teammate, polished off Gene Scot, an attorney from Yale, 7-5, 6-0, 6-3.

Newcombe, 1967 U.S. and Wimbledon champion, had to rally from two sets down and pull off some of the most fantastic shots of his career for a marathon victory over Torben Ulrich, the bearded Dane, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4, 10-8, 6-4.

The match lasted 3 hours and 45 minutes and Ulrich, 39, had many chances to take it all. He led 7-6 in the fourth set after Newcombe doublefaulted at game point, but Newcombe pulled an immediate rebreak with two lobs that the Dane couldn't touch.

Then in the 10th game of the final set, Ulrich went sprawling after another Newcombe lob and killing volleys by the young Australian, seeded fourth, pulled out the match.

Chuvalo Too Tough For Florida Battler

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo, 210½, bulled his way to an easy second-round technical knockout over Miami's Levi Forte, 193, Tuesday night.

Chuvalo, a Toronto resident, indicated he had an early ending in mind in the opening minutes of the scheduled 10-round bout. He swarmed all over Forte, had the Miami boxer backstepping, and scored heavily whenever he had Forte pinned to the ropes.

About a minute into the second round, Chuvalo set Forte up with a hard right to the chin. Forte retreated to a corner. Chuvalo barraged him and sent him down for a nine count.

Forte battled his way to an opposite corner and a banging left hook to the stomach put him down for the second time. He was up at nine, but a few seconds later he hit the canvas again from another flurry of left hooks and hard right hands.

Referee Jimmy Peerless stopped the bout at 2:59 of the round.

It was the third victory of the year for Chuvalo and his 47th over-all. The Canadian heavyweight has lost 12 bouts.

The fight was a warm-up for a scheduled fight against Mexican heavyweight champion Manuel Ramos Sept. 26 in New York's Madison Square Garden. If Chuvalo can stop Ramos, he wants a fight against Jimmy Ellis, World Boxing Association champion.

The loss was the 16th for Forte in 38 pro starts.

Seattle Boats Sweep Honors At Townsend

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

Forty-four Thunderbirds from four Pacific Northwest locations gathered at Port Townsend this weekend for the second annual T-Bird International Regatta.

Top honors in the three-race series, which was sailed at the Point Hudson Marina, went to three Seattle skippers.

Frank Francisco sailing Virada II was the over-all winner. (Francisco placed fourth in last month's San Diego T-Bird Worlds.) Dennis Lettanmeir skippered Rev to second over-all, while Jack Williams took third.

Victoria's Robert Grundison in Owl took fourth over-all. Other Victoria standings were Lee Holland, 7th; Dave Anstey, 9th; Gordie Nickells, 16th; Rod McBride, 17th, and Peter Moore, 18th. Dave Carere and Lou Boulanger also competed.

Winds were generally light and flukey. Sunday's two races were both run in the afternoon due to adverse racing conditions in the morning. Courses averaged five miles in length.

Beacons Rally In Second Half

DETROIT (AP) — Boston Beacons scored a pair of second-half goals to nip Detroit Cougars 2-1 in a North American Soccer League game Tuesday night before 3,229 fans.

The Detroit goal came after 20 minutes in the first period. Scotland's Johnny Kerr beat Boston goalie Walt Tarnawski from eight yards out.

Boston got its first goal after three minutes of the second period. Ruben Sosa's shot went off a Detroit defender and into the net. Three minutes later, Erik Dyreborg of Denmark scored.

Brantford One Game From Title

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Brantford Warriors trimmed Nanaimo 13-5 Tuesday to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven Canadian Senior "B" lacrosse final.

Playing before 1,859 fans, Jim Squires scored three goals for the Warriors. Brian Cavan, Claude Sault, Charlie Thomas and Ivan Thomas scored twice each, and Jack Hill and Vic Generoux each counted once.

The fourth game is scheduled here Friday.

Brantford led 4-2 after the first period, 7-3 after the second and 9-4 after the third.

Prince George Wins B Title

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Prince George defeated White Rock 4-1 Monday in a sudden-death final to win the British Columbia Senior B softball championship.

The winners completed the tourney without a loss.

White Rock finished second, with three wins and one loss, while Victoria was third with a 2-2 record. Kelowna was fourth with 1-3 and Nanaimo had four losses.

PRO RAIDERS HIT HARD . . . . . BUT McLEOD MASKS OPTIMISM

Nationals Face Major Rebuilding Chore

WINNIPEG (CP) — The lure of professional contracts and other interests have cut deeply into the ranks of Canada's Winnipeg-based national hockey team.

But coach Jackie McLeod is not disheartened.

"We're going to lack the experience but we'll make up for that in hustle," McLeod said Tuesday while discussing the largest-ever rookie camp now in full swing.

"This is the best camp we have ever had. They all turned up in good shape."

From the camp of 58 young hopefuls, McLeod must find about nine replacements for those lost since last year.

The camp, which opened Sept. 1 in suburban Fort Garry, will produce 20 to 25 players who then will attend the regular training camp which opens Sept 15.

Returning for another year are forwards Jean Cusson, Fran Huck, Ted Hargreaves, Bill Macmillan, Herb Pinder, Ray Cadieux and Morris Mott. McLeod said Gerry Pinder may also return.

At the blueline, where the largest gap has been created, Terry O'Malley and Gary Begg will be back. Wayne Stephenson will be in goal again.

McLeod said Steve Monteith will be finishing University in Ottawa this year and, besides playing for the Ottawa-based Nations whenever possible, he will remain available to the western team. He probably will be taken on at least one of the exhibition tours overseas.

Defenceman John Ferguson and winger Cam Allison, with the Ottawa team last year, are attending the Winnipeg rookie camp.

Those who have left include goalie Ken Broderick, forwards Brian Harper, Danny O'Shea, Gary Dineen and Roger Bourbonais and defencemen Paul Comlin, Barry Mackenzie, Brian Glennie and Marshall Johnson.

A surprise to the Nationals was the appearance of Jim Pritchard, defencemen with Winnipeg Jets of the Western Canada Junior League last season. Pritchard, drafted by Montreal Canadiens this year, told McLeod he has decided to finish his high school education before turning pro.

McLeod will make his decision on what players will be invited to the regular training camp when he holds a rookie intrasquad game Sept. 9.

Hamilton, Wilson Out As Rookies March In

By STEVE HUME

Victoria O'Keefes announced a tentative team roster Tuesday night, and even veterans weren't immune to the coach's axe.

After late cuts, made following an exhibition encounter with Vic West at Topaz Park, it was rookies, rookies everywhere — and among the cuts was long-time veteran Bill Hamilton.

Another veteran retiring from active service is Peter Wilson, who has decided he will not play with the Pacific Coast Soccer League club this season.

Taking over from Frank Grealy, new coach Bill Abbott seems intent on introducing lots of young legs into his starting line-up, and manager Jack Metcalfe gets right behind the gamble.

"We gave Bill the job of rebuilding, and that's just what he's doing — he's not staying with all the old stand-bys," Metcalfe said.

"Of course he's gambling by keeping some of these youngsters in his lineup, but that's the only way to build a strong club."

One of the rookies Abbott is gambling on is juvenile goaler Peter Mason, while other new faces in the young legs contingent are Denis Somner and Bruce Twamley.

Pete Robarts and Howie Anderson, a couple of rookies up from Wests, aren't exactly old, and neither is Mike Sails from Tally-Ho.

"Mason is really a good goalie but inexperienced," Metcalfe said, "He's still a juvenile, and it's a pretty big jump from juvenile soccer to the Pacific Coast League."

HARD CORE TALENT

"But it looks like a good gamble — he has lots of talent and he may really surprise a lot of people."

There'll be lots of experience on the club despite the new faces.

There's a hard core of talent in the team's nucleus of seven hold-overs — Brian Robinson, Peter Brett, Marty Taylor, Tom Westwater, Ike MacKay, Ray Telford, and Peter Wheaton.

And a pair of veterans who played part of the season with O'Keefes last year, Dunc McCaig and Russ Ball, will be back in the line-up for this year's campaign.

Jobs with the club haven't been finalized yet, Abbott said Tuesday night, and further changes in the team roster may be made following another exhibition game, this time with Scottish, Thursday.

TACKLE THUNDERBIRDS

O'Keefes are preparing for their PCSL opener at Macdonald Park Sunday, where they tangle with the tough UBC Thunderbirds outfit at 2 p.m.

Abbott said he was satisfied with the way his club looked Tuesday in hammering Wests 5-2. Earlier in the week, Wests battled to a 2-2 draw with O'Keefes.

"We're a bit weak in goal, but our forward lines are very strong and their attacking moves are good," Abbott said, "It's just a matter of opening it up a little."

Bigelow Leads Senior Parade

Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria scored a gross 81 while Nanaimo's A. M. Chester came in with a net 70 to lead prize-winners in a Vancouver Island Seniors Golf Association tournament at Gorge Vale.

Other prize-winners were Pete McIntyre, Jim Douglas, Glenn Coffey, Ray Davis and A. F. Snowball.

Habs' Fast Start Surprises Detroit

DETROIT (CP) — Montreal Canadiens scored five goals in the first period Tuesday and went on to defeat Detroit Olympics 13-10 in a National Lacrosse Association eastern division game before 4,800 fans.

Montreal led 5-1 after the first period and 11-8 afer the second. The Canadiens outshot the Olympics 45-36.

Ken Crawford, Brian Thompson and Jim Richardson each scored twice for Montreal. Single goals came from Brian Aherne, Wayne Thompson, Terry Davis, Ken Thompson, Joe Hore, John Dale and Gord Keats.

Tom Conlin and Gaylord Powless each scored twice for the Olympics, with Jim Hinson, Neil Armstrong, Bob Haw, Wally Thorne, Dave Hall and Bill Squires adding single markers.

TWO CYCLISTS KILLED

LONDON (Reuters) — Two English riders were killed Tuesday in the Manx Grand Prix motorcycle races on the Isle of Man.

Roger Perrier, 29, died when his bike crashed on a right-hand bend in a junior race. Peter Ray, 22, was thrown off his machine while braking in rain and hit a stone wall on the third lap of a lightweight race.

Only minutes before the race Ray learned that his wife, Susan, was taken to hospital for the birth of their first child.

Bias Charges Still Flare Up

(Times News Services)

The controversies and troubles which have constantly overshadowed athletic endeavors of Olympic-bound teams during the year of the Mexico Games showed up again at the weekend.

At Toronto, Lou Scott of Detroit, one of the top distance runners in the U.S., charged Monday that white athletes are treated better than Negro athletes at the Lake Tahoe training site for the majority of the U.S. Olympic track and field team.

"I was the second Negro to get to Tahoe for training and they gave me a job driving a taxi," said Scott. "The white athletes got better jobs and were treated better."

He said he has to train seven hours daily and the taxi job cuts into his training schedule.

"Whites got jobs like security guards and could sit down. I had to put up with the traffic."

In Mexico City, meanwhile, members of the Student Strike Committee have said that if the government responds satisfactorily to their pleas, they might "co-operate" in putting on the 1968 Games.

In a public announcement published in Mexican newspapers, the strike committee said:

"Once our problems are solved by the government, students from all university and polytechnic schools will aid the Olympic Organizing Committee actively and without pay."

The students have been attacking the Games, which begin Oct. 12, as part of their campaign to press the government to accept demands ranging from firing of certain police officials to reaffirmation of student autonomy.

Walton Seeking Raise

TORONTO (CP) — Centre Mike Walton of Toronto Maple Leafs has asked president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League to mediate his salary dispute with the Leafs.

Walton, a 30-goal scorer last season, is reported to want about $25,000. The 23-year-old forward earned a basic salary of about $18,000 last season but received bonuses when he reached 15, 20, 25 and 30 goals to bring his salary to about $25,000.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of the Maple Leafs has told Walton he will not be allowed to report to the team's training camp at Peterborough, Ont., until he has signed.

About 23 players will report at Peterborough Sept. 11. The remainder of 88 invited players will report Sept. 16.

"He (Imlach) asked me not to come until I've signed," Walton said Tuesday.

Walton made his comments during a luncheon to announce the formation of the Bobby Orr and Mike Walton Summer Sports Camp near Orillia, Ont.

Walton said he will confer with Campbell and lawyer Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHL Players' Association, here Sept. 10.

Heart Patient Fast Improving

MONTREAL (CP) — Elie Zaor, Canada's third heart transplant patient, was transferred Tuesday to a special sterile room at the Montreal Heart Institute because of his improved condition.

Mr. Zaor, 58,, a widowed father of five, previously had been in the operating room, normal procedure for heart transplant patients at the institute.

"Taking into consideration the major vascular operation which he underwent on Sunday, the patient is doing fine and his condition is progressing very satisfactorily," an institute bulletin said Tuesday.

It is said oral feeding has been discontinued because of the emergency three-hour operation Mr. Zaor underwent Sunday to clear up a blood clot which had formed in an "aneurism" of the abdominal part of the aorta.

The aneurism, a weakening of tissue in the artery causing it to bulge out over a small area, was removed during the surgery —performed about a day and a half after the Turkish-born resident of Sherbrooke, Que., received his new heart—and replaced with a Y-shaped dacron graft.

TWO CHILDREN VISIT

Mr. Zaor received visits Tuesday from two of his children, the bulletin said.

An institute report earlier in the day said "everything is fine" with the patient, who received his new heart Friday night from Aime Lamothe, 35, a welder from Sorel, Que., who died of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Less than 24 hours later, on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Zaor sat up in his bed and chatted occasionally with his doctors and nurses.

Monday, he received a first visit from his only son, Lawrence, 22, who was able to stay only 10 minutes. His father was still under the effects of the anesthesia administered during the second operation.

Gaetan Paris, 49, Canada's second heart transplant patient, was sent home to suburban Laval last Tuesday, about two months after his operation in mid-June. Albert Murphy, 59, the first such patient, died June 1, only 46 hours after he received a new heart.

Since the first heart transplant operation was performed in South Africa last December, 37 others have been done in various countries. Eighteen patients survive to date.

B.C. Announces Foreign Posts For Travel Men

B.C.'s "travel men" will do some themselves as a result of new postings announced today.

A press release by the provincial travel industry department said Harry Harrod will be shifted from B.C. House in San Francisco to London, England, where he will handle travel promotion in Britain and Europe.

Taking his place in San Francisco will be Rod Fraser, who has been in charge of the department's exhibits at various fairs and shows.

The release also said a further appointment will be made later adding a travel representative to the provincial government's Los Angeles office.

Applications For Divorce Rise Sharply

MONTREAL (CP) — Almost 1,000 divorce petitions have been filed here during the two months since the new liberalized federal Divorce Act became law.

The figure for the months of July and August surpasses by almost 300 the number of divorce cases handled in Ottawa for the whole of Quebec province last year.

The province's divorce courts, the fidst in its history, were swamped with 407 petitions in July and 556 during August. Another 15 couples took advantage of the first elegible day in September to file petitions.

Court officials announced the first of the cases are to be heard next Tuesday with a total of 125 scheduled to be processed during September. All are uncontested.

An additional 400 cases will be heard in October in the Divorce Court, a newly-created division of Quebec Superior Court.

Court registrar Jacques Perron said the majority of petitioners are citing as grounds the fact that they have been separated from their spouses for more than three years.

This is one of the grounds which comes under the general heading of marriage breakdown and also includes mental and physical cruelty.

Surf Runs High

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite 12-foot waves battering Southern California beaches, lifeguards couldn't keep swimmers out of deep water. More than 36 were rescued at Zuma Beach alone as 340,000 flocked to Southern California coast beaches.

Cong Down Jet, Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled another major South Vietnamese city today, and the U.S. command reported three American helicopters and a fighter-bomber shot down in the South. But a general lull in sustained fighting continued into a fifth day.

Two of the aircraft, a $2,000,000 Air Force F-4 Phantom and an Army helicopter, were downed three miles from the Cambodian border Tuesday, but all six crew members were rescued. The Phantom was supporting infantry northwest of Tay Ninh, and the helicopter was shot down as it tried to rescue the Phantom's two-man crew. Other helicopters completed the rescue.

Ground fire brought down another chopper in the central highlands, near An Khe. One airman was injured and the helicopter was destroyed.

Netherlands Queen Sees B.C. Premier

THE HAGUE (CP) — Premier Bennett had a one-hour audience with Queen Juliana of The Netherlands Tuesday and a round of talks with government and business leaders.

Queen Juliana visited British Columbia in 1967 as part of Canada's Centennial celebrations.

Following a government luncheon, the premier conferred with executives of the Netherlands Council for Trade Promotion, which represents the country's major exporters and importers.

Mr. Bennett, who has just started a three-week European visit, will tour Rotterdam harbor today.

Doctor Helps End Basement Siege

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A man who shot and wounded two persons and then barricaded himself in a basement laundry room with his 22-months-old daughter as hostage was talked into surrendering early today by his family physician.

The child, Sabrina Crider, was unhurt as Winston Mitchell, 27, a former convict, walked trembling from the windowless room where he had held police at bay for eight hours with his threat to kill the girl.

The breakthrough came when Dr. Jesse Pone, 43, heard about the incident on his car radio while driving home from a Massachusetts vacation and raced here to help.

"I've had pretty good rapport with him in the past and thought I could help," said Pone, who arrived about 2 a.m. He said he had treated Mitchell several times during the last five years.

SPCA Act Hit In Horse Sale

PORT ALBERNI — A lawyer has branded as "arrogant" the SPCA sale of 11 horses seized after reports they were being mistreated.

William Beckingham said the SPCA act which permitted sale of the horses taken from his client, Corrie Vis of Port Alberni, after a court dismissed mistreatment charges is "an astonishing piece of legislation."

The horses, seized at the end of August at Long Beach, were sold at public auction Monday for more than $1,200.

Earlier, Magistrate Ian McLorie of Tofino said he dismissed charges that the animals had received insufficient food, water and shelter because the prosecution failed to provide sufficient evidence.

An SPCA spokesman said the society, under the provisions of a 1968 provincial statute, is permitted "to seize, hold, destroy or dispose of" any animal it believes will not receive sufficient care from its owner.

This decision is made by an SPCA official and one other person, in this case an RCMP officer.

The horses were kept at Long Beach and rented out for trail rides. After seizure, they were trucked to Port Alberni, fed and treated by a veterinarian.

The SPCA plans to appeal the dismissal.

Cattle Display Fair Highlight

COBBLE HILL — Attendance and revenue doubled over last year at Cobble Hill fall fair Tuesday, and the newly introduced Highland cattle display was an outstanding success.

But organizer George Prud'homme still had a swipe at mainland breeders.

He said: "Our Canadians let us down, breeders from the lower mainland could easily have added 30 cattle to the show.

"We had our show planned for over a year and all Highland breeders knew it and then, suddenly, Abbotsford decided to put on a show at the same date."

However, Mr. Prud'homme confidently looks forward to a growing Highland cattle show at Cobble Hill in future years.

Two American herds displayed cattle here Tuesday.

Visiting but not showing this year were Mr. and Mrs. Vere Richards who own one of the top breeding herds in Washington.

'GREATLY IMPRESSED'

Mr. Richards said he was "greatly impressed" by the Cobble Hill setup with its prize money the equal of the top show at Portland, Oregon.

He said he will definitely be bringing a string of cattle to next year's Cobble Hill show.

Mr. Prud'homme said: "The main thing was to get the show going this year and we did give breeders a chance to speak with the public.

"There were more people in the cattle barns in one day here than in the full four days of the Cloverdale show.

"And it was not just the idle curiousity of city dwellers but genuine interest on the part of cattle people."

Mr. Prud'homme hopes next year's show can be combined with a large scale sale of Highland cattle the next day.

Judge of the cattle sections, Tom O'Reilly of Woodwyn Farms, Saanichton, said: "There was a big improvement over last year and the 4-H beef show would have been a credit to a show any place.

"The Highland breeders brought out their cattle in wonderful condition."

Grand champion bull was Nordesk Mac Ruadh from the herd of Mr. Prud'homme while the reserve, Orion Bard of Zetland, was shown by David and Marion Harbard of Langley.

Show president Colin Henderson was delighted with the overall revival of the fair but maintained: "We're aiming for strictly a country fair.

"We want to encourage the entry of the family cow from just down the road!"

This is what happened in the case of Mrs. Marion Powling of Bench Road, Cowichan Station.

Only last year she bought a cow from Mr. Prud'homme.

Tuesday the cow, Sequoia Princess Angela, took first place in its class and its calf showed for a second prize.

LIGHT HORSES

Other top attractions of the day were the light horse show, and the mass of domestic science exhibits in the community hall.

The fair was formally opened by Lieut.-Governor John Nicholson who said a fair was something special, something for the young and old and it was important for everyone in the community to participate.

A stalwart worker at the fair for many years, Mrs. E. M. Blake had her display successes.

She won first prize in the single rose class with an exquisite Queen Elizabeth bloom, and also took first prizes for her basket of roses, African Violet and house foilage.

Mrs. W. J. Cotsford, Shawingan Lake, took first place in the floral and driftwood arrangements and decorated basket classes.

Mrs. M. A. Bronsdon, Mill Bay, repeated successes of past years in the needlework classes, while Mrs. A. Dahl, Glenora, carried off four first prizes in domestic seience classes.

One of the younger successful contestants was Mrs. Robin Robson.

ISLAND BRIEFS

Only Cecil Denied Whale of a Time

PENDER HARBOR, (CP) — Amateur whale hunters have been asked to stop chasing Skookum Cecil — the four ton killer whale which escaped from its pen here a week ago.

Vince Penfold, Vancouver public aquarium curator said: "Too many boats have been chasing Cecil around Porpoise Bay.

"We wish they would stop it so that we can get down to our work — we want to tame the animal in the wild. He is still our porperty and not open game."

Aquarium scientist Dr. Paul Spong has tried to get the whale's attention by piping popular music to him through an underwater microphone.

"When the music starts playing the whale usually pops his head up," said Mr. Penfold.

NANAIMO — Members of the Beverage Dispensers' Union in hotels from Nanaimo to Campbell River have voted 90 per cent to accept pay increases of 45 to 67½ cents an hour over three years.

The agreement, retroactive to April 1, involves 150 bartenders and waiters.

Cocktail bartenders, and combination tapmen currently earning $2.35 and $2.22½ per hour, will get increases of 27½ cents the first year, 15 cents the second, and 20 cents the third. Waiters, earning $2.15 per hour, receive raises of 20, 10, and 15 cents.

29 New Rooms Ready in Month

NANAIMO — All 29 new classrooms for eight district schools in the Nanaimo area will be ready by October, board chairman Dr. W. R. MacMillan announced Saturday.

The new classrooms are the first years' construction in a three-year program to provide 70 new classrooms for an anticipated enrolment of more than 11,500 pupils by 1970.

About eight of the new classrooms, which include one science room and four portable classrooms at the secondary school, were ready for school opening today, and the rest will be ready in from a few days to a month.

The schol construction program is a part of a $5 million referendum approved by voters last December.

Local Blooms Show Winners

Members of the Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Society won prizes for their entries at recent flower shows in Seattle and Portland.

Douglas J. Hunter and Mrs. Ann Steers were both winners in the triple-A category. Harry Pearson and society president W. A. Kempster won a variety of section championships.

Mr. Hunter and Mr. Pearson were both novice growers.

Zoo to Get Wolves

VANCOUVER (CP)—A family of six Arctic wolves will be housed on an acre of property inside a miniature railway property in Stanley Park. The wolves, donated by the Canadian Wildlife Service, will be brought by truck from Fort Smith, NWT.

Traffic Fatality Inquest Ordered

An inquest will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Chaplin's funeral home into the death of Mrs. Lily Newell, 80, of 1505 Morrison.

Victoria's second traffic fatality of the year died Saturday after being hit by a car at Morrison and Oak Bay.

FEW CHANGES

Quebec City Bright Gem Of History

By ELIZABETH FORBES

QUEBEC CITY, P.Q. — So, by easy travelling, we came to Quebec City, bright jewel in the crown of "la belle province" and the beginning of much of the early story of Canada.

Forbes

After an absence of 12 years it was natural to search for changes and to make comparisons with that last time we visited this walled city with its upper and lower towns.

We found remarkably few changes. A high-rise or two. A new coast of paint here and there. Some old houses restored and renovated. And a new scenic river drive in course of construction at Sillery (once called Wolfe's Cove.)

The carved stone (partially defaced) over the main arch to the Chateau Frontenac can still be seen. Relic of an older chateau Saint-Louis, it shows the Cross of the Order of the Knights of Malta, to which that chateau's builder, Governor de Montmagny belonged.

Dufferin Terrace, skirting the high cliffs above Lower Town remains a favorite spot for strollers on summer nights. Champlain's monument at the northeast end of the terrace is an old friend.

Something new has been added at the western end in a Promenade des Governeurs, a recently completed extension that follows the cliff face under the outer walls of the Citadel and brings you eventually to the Plains of Abraham.

★ ★ ★

The Place d'Armes still snuggles close to the Chateau. It was the scene of military parades and public meetings during the French and early English regimes. A fountain and a monument of faith centres this small park. Horse-drawn carioles continue to line its edges and voices cry to passers-by to "see old Quebec City by moonlight" and to the hoof-beats of slow, patient nags.

In an old building close to Place d'Armes in Musee du Fort, restored four years ago and presenting a huge model of 18th century Quebec with dionama sound and light techniques. Six sieges and famous battles of Quebec from Kirke's raid through the Plains of Abraham to Benedict Arnold and Richard Montgomery, are shown continuously here.

The Palais de Justice continues to add dignity to Saint-Louis Street. Also the Maison Mailleux, long occupied by the Canadian army but restored nine years ago and now headquarters for Quebec's Board of Trade.

Close by is one of the oldest houses in the city, once the home of the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria. At the corner of des Jardins Street you still find a little house with a sloping roof, dating back to the 1600s. This house, it is said, once served as Montcalm's headquarters. Today it is a small French Canadian restaurant.

★ ★ ★

The Ursuline Convent founded in 1639 as one of the first young ladies' educational institutions in Canada, still dreams behind its old stone walls.

Wandering on we found the monument of Louis Hebert, a Paris apothecary who became Quebec's first farmer, still dominating the square in front of the City Hall. Near by is the stone image of Cardinal Taschereau, Canada's first of that title.

Montcalm's skull is still shown under glass at Cente Marie de l'Incarnation. The mysterious golden dog still sleeps over the entrance to the old Uppertown post office, now used for federal government offices.

Those who live on Sous le Cap (narrowest street in America) below Chateau Frontenac, still hang their washing from balcony to balcony.

Down there (near the site of the very old Notre-Dame-des-Victories, Champlain built his "L'Abitation" in 1608.

With Champlain very much in mind we climbed back to Montmorency Park, a place filled with history.

The legislature of Lower Canada held sessions in a chapel on this spot in 1792. The Fathers of Confederation met in a rebuilt chapel in the same place in 1864. Also in that particular building, the Parliament of Quebec sat for 16 years.

Champlain once stood there. So did Jacques Cartier many years before him.

Indeed, Quebec City does cradle much of the early story of Canada.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1968—PAGE 21

Cost Is Key To Building Unique Pool

By JIM HUME

Revolutionary design proposals for a swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden have received cautious approval from Mayor Hugh Stephen and Ald. Percy Frampton.

The key to whether we go with this proposal or something more modest lies in the cost," Ald Frampton, chairman of the city's recreation committee, said Tuesday. "As yet we have no cost figure although the amount being talked about is close to $1 million.

"If we can find that kind of money I'm all for it. I don't see how anyone could be against the proposal if the money is there. It is completely revolutionary and would more than put Victoria on the map."

The design recommendations submitted by J. Austin Smith, a United States swimming pool design expert, will be presented to the city's recreation committee in the near future, possibly a soon as next week.

Stephen

Four major recommendations are contained in a detailed brief prepared by Mr. Smith. They are:

- An eight-lane 25-meter racing area running across the width of the pool rather than length.
- A flaring out of the pool from the mid-length point to one end with the closing of the flared end at a two-inch water depth to provide a beach effect.
- Mechanically created ocean waves breaking into white caps at mid-pool and subsiding into gentle breakers at the "beach" end of the pool.
- Provision for a 10-meter diving board at the deep, 16-feet, end.

"Some of the suggestions are tremendous," said Ald. Frampton. "I particularly like the idea of the shallow end for the youngsters and the beach effect surrounding it.

"But we have to face facts. It's a pretty ambitious and extensive undertaking which, eventually, will come down to money."

Mayor Stephen advocated a new look in swimming pools several months ago when city council reluctantly decided the Crystal had moved beyond the point of no return and must fall to the wrecker's hammer.

He is still an enthusiast for the wave-making concept which would give Victoria a first of its kind in Canada and possibly North America.

At that time the mayor appealed for a break from what he termed the traditional swimming hole concept of swimming pools "which are nothing more than a hole in the ground filled with water."

Asked for his thoughts on the new proposals he said he was still "most enthusiastic to see a swimming pool built which will give Victorians a recreation area rather than just a place to swim."

In his brief to the city Mr. Smith suggests that the swimming pool geared to all aquatic activities should be approximately 82 feet in width at the deep end widening out to 132 feet at the semi-circular beach end.

The pool, to fulfill all the requirements in the brief, would be roughly 179 feet in total length with 82 feet of that area reserved for the recreational swimmer, 82 feet occupied by swimming lanes and the balance by the wave making machinery.

When the swimming lanes are not in use for racing the entire pool would be used for recreational swimming.

Mr. Smith notes that European pools using the wave-making machinery work on a 10-minute activated period followed by 20 minutes of calm water.

Frampton

"The popularity of this new method of variable activation may be measured by the substantial number of persons who leave the swimpool during the quiet water period but quickly return when activation is resumed," the brief states.

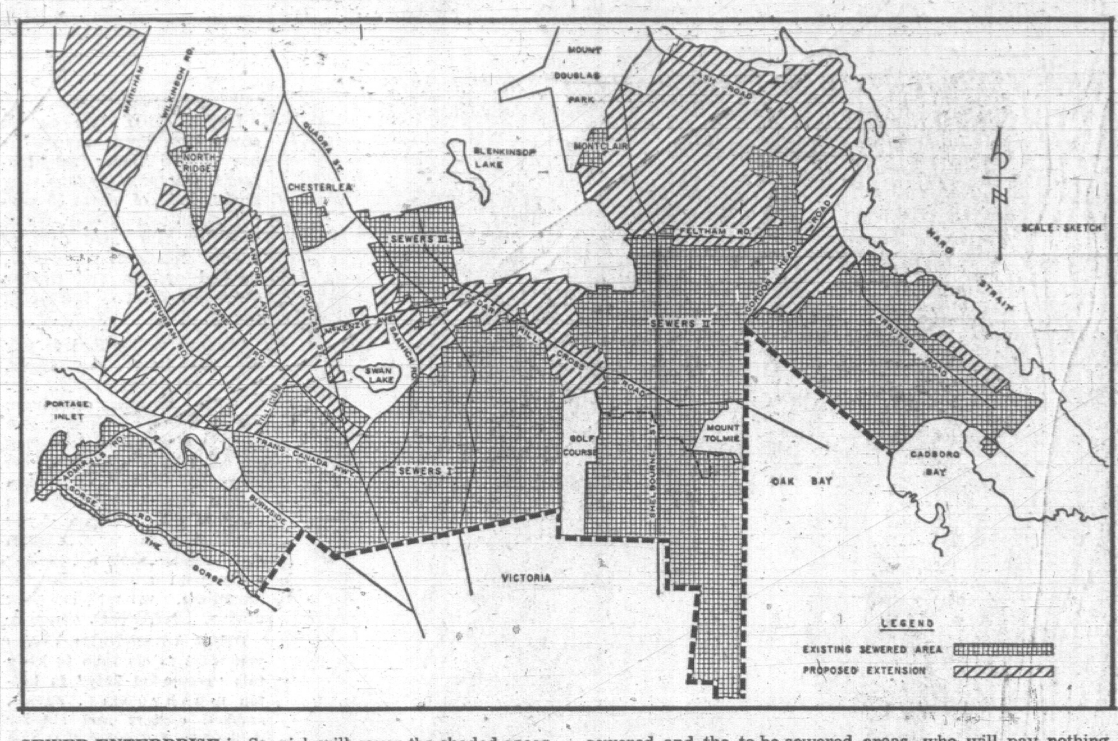
Mr. Smith made his observations following a recent trip to Germany where wave-making machinery is in common use in swimming pools.

At the conclusion of his brief Mr. Smith suggests that if the city decided to go for the revolutionary concept it go one stage further and make small sections of the underwater walls of glass.

He states that small trainer observation rooms looking into the pool from below the surface, would be of great value to swimming and diving coaches.

"You may want to give consideration to the advisability of having a small trainers' observation room adjoining the diving and racing area where trainers can observe, through windows in the swimming pool wall, the action of the divers and the swimming trainees — a feature which has proven of inestimable value in other countries."

Ald. Frampton said he does not expect an early decision on the proposals. "But they will be discussed at our next reaction committee meeting, probably next week," he said.



SEWER ENTERPRISE in Saanich will cover the shaded areas if approved by property owners in Sept. 28 referendum. Existing sewer system, comprising six areas and 45 different rates, encompasses just over half the population. Vote is on collection of sewage, not disposal, where provincial authorities have final word. Existing sewered area, and adjacent unsewered land marked in the drawing, will be combined into the one enterprise with a common charge of $22.14 for debt and $7 for maintenance per year. Existing charges range from a low of $27 a year (debt plus maintenance) to a high of $137 a year. Everyone would pay common charge, except those outside the sewered and the to-be-sewered areas, who will pay nothing. Residents in the to-be-sewered area will pay $22.14 a year immediately and receive sewers gradually under a five-year construction program. Residents in sewered areas will receive an $8.70 annual rebate for as long as their area has been paying for sewers. In the case of Sewer Area 1, which serves 7,007 properties, this will last for 16 years. As an example of how the common charge of $22.14 will increase as new work is undertaken and money borrowed, $500,000 will increase the charge by $3 a year.

Split Seen Widening On Sewers

Campbell Backs Council In Opposing Loffmark

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A sharp split within the provincial cabinet over the Sept. 28 Saanich sewerage consolidation referendum became more apparent Tuesday night.

A letter from the minister of municipal affairs, Dan Campbell, was read to council in which he all but voiced complete support for the vote.

Earlier, on two occasions, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark made comments in interviews that the vote is illegal, misleading and "might lead to an appearance of subterfuge."

Mr. Campbell's letter on the referendum, however, expressed a number of views which coincide with public statements from Saanich council and officials.

Mr. Campbell said while it is unusual for the department to "enter the question of influencing a vote," it is a fact that because of legislative requirements the department has been involved in the preparation of the bylaw and "the necessary legislation upon which it rests."

(Saanich authority to submit the bylaw to ratepayers is contained in two pieces of enabling legislation, one passed by the legislature in 1967 and the other in 1968).

CONFUSION EXISTS

Mr. Campbell said there is confusion but the Saanich bylaw is merely a consolidation of sewage areas.

Sewage disposal methods, still a controversial question, are not involved, he said.

"This bylaw should be understood to be exactly what it is and that is, simply a consolidation of the existing sewerage areas for the purposes of sounder management, better administration and more understable financing," he wrote.

The minister said he trusted that his letter "will clarify the nature of the bylaw" which will be presented to ratepayers Sept. 28.

Last month, Mr. Loffmark said "it would be misleading and therefore might lead to an appearance of subterfuge on the part of the municipal council" if voters are not given the option to express an opinion on sewage treatment.

Saanich spokesman have replied that such decisions cannot be made by Saanich because the law requires approval for additional discharge — by whatever method — from the B.C. Pollution Control Board and the health department.

NO NEW WORKS

The vote itself, if carried by 60 per cent of the property owners who cast ballots, will not create any additional sewage discharge or any new works.

When expansion of sewers is undertaken, as Saanich plans to do in a five-year program, provincial approval is legally necessary for the additional discharge resulting from the expansion.

This has been made clear by Saanich officials on several occasions including two public meetings last month.

At Tuesday night's meeting, several members of council applauded the minister of municipal affairs for his comments.

"The letter clarifies the issue," said Ald. Edith Gunning.

"This vote is separate from disposal. I could wish another cabinet minister . . . would indicate that he understands the separation of the two issues."

Ald. Alan Newberry said "it is significant that this cabinet minister (Mr. Campbell) is the cabinet minister who is most familiar with what we are trying to do."

HALF TRUTHS

The council comments were in contrast to those which greeted Mr. Loffmark last week when he said the bylaw is illegal without his department's stamp of approval. Mayor Hugh Curtis called this and other comments half truths.

In other business on the Sept. 28 referendum:

- Council gave the necessary bylaw two readings (final reading will be given if the measure gains ratepayer approval);
- Appointed clerk Gordon Hayward as returning officer and chose the usual 13 polling stations used at election time;
- Named deputy returning officers also deputy clerks so they can issue certificates to owner-electors who have become qualified since the last list closed last Sept. 30;
- Agreed to set up a sewer enterprise information desk and telephone at the municipal hall so the public can get first-hand information between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Sept. 23 to Sept. 27;
- Agreed to hold a third public meeting on the issue Wednesday, Sept. 11 at a place to be decided.

MORE EARS EXPECTED

A public meeting on the Saanich sewerage enterprise referendum will be held in Cloverdale Elementary School auditorium next Wednesday at 8 p.m. and a big crowd is expected.

Arranged by Saanich council, the purpose of the meeting is to explain and discuss the Sept. 28 referendum.

Two earlier public meetings, at the municipal hall, were largely attended by persons who recived invitations. They were residents who have complained in the past about lack of sewers and filthy ditches.

Church Crisis Needs Patience Bishop States

Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island today appealed to the public not to draw "hasty conclusions" over the Roman Catholic crisis on birth control.

See Page 33

"This is a conflict of conscience," he said, "and I hope no severe measures will be handed out which would further aggravate the conflict."

Bishop De Roo was commenting on a statement from Washington that Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle has given 52 Washington-area priests until Sept. 14 to accept Pope Paul's encyclical condemning birth control, or face "church penalties."

One Priest, Rev. T. Joseph O'Donoghue, has already been suspended for reading statements of dissent on the Pope's encyclical.

Said Bishop De Roo:

"I think it is premature to draw any immediate conclusions. Much more reflection and study and prayer are required before we can solve the fundamental issues that are here in conflict.

NO PERSONAL STAND

"I have no personal opinion on the issue of birth control at present, but I am studying all dimensions of it. And I shall consult with clergy and laymen and women throughout the diocese on the subject."

Bishop De Roo, 44, has just returned from the Anglican Lambeth Conference in London, England, which he attended as a Roman Catholic observer.

He was the only Roman Catholic priest in North America to be invited to the historic world conference of Anglican bishops.

Bishop De Roo has been head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island since 1962.

In Washington, Cardinal O'Boyle referred to a statement signed by the 52 priests as "an attack on authority."

The priests urged that, under some circumstances, married Catholics may be guided by their own conscience on using artificial contraception.

Cardinal O'Boyle said he will insist on an individual retraction by each of the priests. He did not specify what the penalties would be if they refused.

A spokesman for the priests has said they will refuse.

SEE A RUSSIAN? SMILE AND WAVE

By JOHN SLINGER

The Russians have landed.

They have landed in the Gulf Islands.

Since the weekend, longboats full of them have been putting off a ship anchored in the lee of Thetis Island and pulling for the quiet beaches of Tent Island.

One woman witness to the landing said she saw the boats, filled with men and women and flying the red flag, pull to Tent Island then return to the ship for more men and women.

The Canadian Coast Guard this morning had not received word of the invasion. Nothing. But the RCMP had them under surveillance.

RCMP at Chemainus speculater the Russian men and women might be heading for Tent Island for a little exercise, a little sunshine, a change of scenery.

They're from the ship Meridian waiting to finish loading a cargo of pulp and newsprint at Crofton.

They're taking the cargo to Melbourne, Australia.

Russian ships carry mixed crews. Men and women. The Meridian carries 170 of them.

Islanders sailing or fishing in the area are urgently requested to indicate friendliness. Smile. Wave. Say hello.

Six More Dorms In University's College System

Tenders are expected to be called Oct. 16 for construction of six residence buildings that will become Lansdowne College at Uvic, a spokesman for architects Siddall Dennis and Associates said today.

The college is one of six planned to ring the university centre by the mid-1970s.

Architect David Warner said the six inter-connected residences will be built around two quadrangles southwest of the commons building now nearing completion.

Some 240 students — half of them men, half women — will be housed in single and double rooms in the 3½-story textured concrete buildings.

TWO CONTRACTS

Mr. Warner said two contracts will probably be let, one for construction and one for furnishings.

Beneath the residences will be lecture and seminar rooms, library facilities, study and recreation space.

Lansdowne students will share dining facilities in the central commons with students from the four residences that make up Craigdarroch College.

The existing college houses about 300 men and women students. The College 1 complex was completed in 1966.

The commons block is to be finished this fall. Expected to cost between $1.5 million and $2 million, it will include two dining rooms with a total seating capacity of 550.

Completion date for the new residences is September, 1969.

The idea of creating small colleges within the university is part of Uvic's long-range plan to combat the impersonality of large universities.

Staff Unrest In Museum To Be Probed

Current unrest in the provincial museum staff has Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan worried.

Mr. Kiernan, who is minister responsible for the operation of the spanking new Centennial Museum opened last month in the $10 million Heritage Square project, said Tuesday he plans to find out what the trouble is.

He was asked for comment on an incident last week in which several employees, whose names were withheld, told a reporter there was considerable internal friction. A lack of coordination was alleged between the public works department responsible for the structure and the recreation department responsible for displays.

"If the civil servants are holding press conferences I think we have a little problem on our hands," said Mr. Kiernan.

"There seems to be something behind this and I intend to find out what it is."

He said he would take it up with museum director Dr. Clifford Carl.

STAFF CRITICISM

Unrest has been evident ever since construction began and the relatively small sums budgeted annually for acquiring and mounting exhibits contrasted glaringly with the millions poured into the structure.

This contrast has been criticized by staff along with vehement criticism of some of the displays, particularly the "rain curtain" and the carved wood whaling scene it frames in the main lobby.

Mass Meeting To Protest Sewage Scheme

By ED GOULD

A mass meeting of Salt Spring Islanders to protest plans for sea dumping of sewage has been called for Saturday, Sept. 14.

The meeting is the latest move by residents and summer visitors to fight a proposed sewage disposal scheme discharging into Trincomali Channel.

The residents plan a campaign to raise finances for a battle "right up to the supreme court if necessary."

Spokesman for the Salt Spring Island Anti-Pollution Society, Mrs. Robert Holloman, said today offers of money have come from residents of other Gulf Islands and from Vancouver and Burnaby.

She said Vancouver and Burnaby residents are incensed by the Pollution Control Board decision to grant a permit to allow the plan.

ALL CONCERNED

The off-islanders wish to be part of any protests that are planned.

Mrs. Ada Ryan, society president, is negotiating with a Vancouver Island biologist and other "impartial" experts to speak about the dangers of sewage to plant and animal life.

C. J. Keenan, director of pollution control, said in granting the permit last month to Mallview Estates Ltd., that opponents to the scheme to discharge 21,250 gallons per day of effluent into the channel could appeal the permit to the board or, ultimately, to the provincial government.

Mrs. Holloman said "many islanders have said if you need any money be sure to call on us. Since the scheme was passed people everywhere have become more belligerent."

She said a meeting was told last month that pollution was a fact of life and people would have to learn to live with it.

"We of Salt Spring do not intend to live with it," she said.

St. Louis Becomes Elementary School

St Louis College has been converted into a boys' and girls' elementary school at a cost of $60,000.

It is now known as St. Andrew's Elementary School and is open to Catholic and non-Catholic children, Grades 1 to 7.

Formerly a boys' Catholic school, St. Louis College closed down last June because of the failure of a drive to raise funds for renovation and expansion.

The three-story college has been fitted with a new roof and new plumbing and fire doors have been installed on all floors.

The old stone building at 1002 Pandora Avenue is now being repainted by the contractors, McInnis Construction Ltd. of Victoria.

St. Andrew's Elementary was formerly housed in a small building on North Park Street, and some of the equipment is still being transferred.

CURRICULUM

The school opened in its new location Tuesday morning with Sister Mary Theodoric of the Sisters of Saint Ann as principal.

Regular school subjects will be taught with the addition of Christian teaching and special Bible instruction.

There will also be a pre-school kindergarten.

"We believe this school will fill a need as many parents want their children to have more religious teaching than they get in the public schools," said a spokesman for the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria.

Renovations required to keep 104-year-old St. Louis College in operation as a boy's school would have cost considerably more. A drive to raise $460,000 for this purpose within the Catholic community was unsuccessful.

Ask The Times

Q. A few years ago the provincial government made a large loan to the province of Quebec. What is the status of this loan now? Are regular interest payments being made? Is the principal being retired?—R.M.

A. The loan you are referring to was one of 100 million dollars made after the Columbia River Treaty Sept. 16, 1964. Under the agreement repayment was to take place as follows: 40 million dollars December 1, 1965; 40 million dollars December 1, 1967; and 20 million dollars Oct. 15, 1968. Interest was to be paid semi annually. To date, Quebec has been punctual with all payments on principal and interest.

Patient Progressing After Rare Operation

A Victoria man who underwent an historic spinal operation Aug. 2 is sitting up and dangling his legs over the side of his bed Royal Jubilee Hospital officials report today.

The patient, who so far has remained unidentified, had a diseased spinal column bone replaced with a metal substitute, in an operation which was a first for Canada and probably the world.

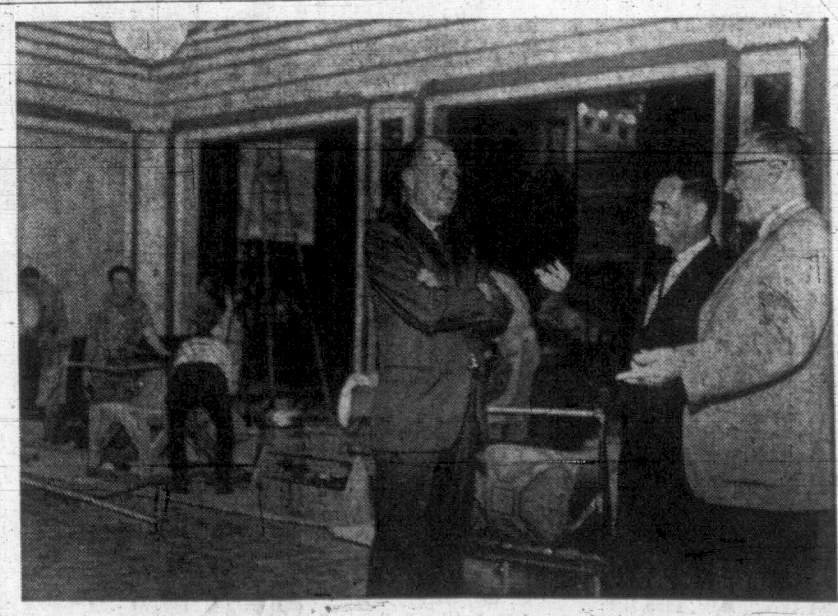
The doctor in charge, also unidentified, said the man is in good spirits and has shown no weaknesses after a complete neurological examination.

A hospital spokesman said doctors had achieved their first aim which was to prevent paralysis and were now concentrating on the second aspect—activation of the patient.

He said the doctors are "playing it by ear" with regard to controlling the actions of the patient since there is no precedent to follow.

The man is over 60, said the spokeman, and tires easily.

The patient would have been bedridden for the rest of his life if the operation had not been performed hospital officials said earlier.



SMILING CONFIDENTLY city manager Dennis Young, centre, and his assistant William Hooson, right, assured Kris Kristjanson, president of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada, that the Empress Hotel Ballroom would be clear of workmen by noon today. Mr. Kristjanson, who led close to 200 delegates to the city Tuesday for a three-day conference, appears to lack the confidence of his local hosts. But the city hall duo was right. On the stroke of midnight last night only one workman remained in the renovated ballroom, his task to polish the massive floor before the first light of dawn. The annual convention opened this morning at the University of Victoria, switching to the Empress for the afternoon session. (Times Photo)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Worn Summer Gear Receives Treatment

By PENNY SAVER

Now that the children are back at school we parents can sit back and relax. But not for long. The start of school warns us that autumn is close on our heels and autumn is not a relaxing season. The air will become too crisp for swimming and brisk woodland hikes will rise in popularity. The boys will prefer the warm cabin to a tent under the trees whenever we can string enough spare hours together to visit our country retreat. The fishing trips will continue, this I know from experience; but raincoats will be needed every day. In short, autumn will require a whole new set of gear. Things that were used daily during the past months will be relegated to storerooms until next spring while winter gear will be unpacked to take its place. This year, however, I have made a resolution. Our summer gear will be mended before it is packed to save me a few precious hours come next spring.

My first need was for an all-purpose plastic mender. Groundsheets and various plastic covers all developed rips of one kind or another during the season. Finding a plastic patch was no trouble at all—one sheet was tattered beyond recall but yielded many patch-sized pieces. I finally found what I needed. This is an adhesive that will work on almost any kind of plastic. It is quick-drying, waterproof and strong. A good-size tube with a piece of patching material added for good measure is 79 cents. This adhesive has also put in good service mending seams on rainwear brought out for the coming rains. Gladys borrowed some to put a patch on some inflatable toys before packing them away in the basement while Mathilda gave it a whirl on one of her favorite vases.

Aluminum Paste Strengthens Joints

My husband was more concerned with the damage done to the lawn chairs and camping equipment. Many of them use aluminum struts that were beginning to come loose at the joints and wobble in a rather worrisome manner. He found aluminum in a paste form for 98 cents. This aluminum mender comes in a tube and is wonderful for squishing into joints and cracks. Something has been added to make it dry metal-hard. It hardens to the metal and will not rust. After steadying some joints and mending a few cracks in the yard equipment, my husband tried some on the seam of an old toaster that was beginning to come unhitched. It worked so well that he and a friend tried it on a leaking aluminum boat. As you may guess, that boat is now as water-tight as the day it was bought.

Chrome is a funny stuff. I always thought that when rust began to show on the top of a chromed bumper it meant that the chrome had worn away or chipped off. Now I learn, from my husband, of course, that the iron or steel can creep through the chrome by some strange molecular action then rust. This thin coating of rust can be easily removed. I watched my husband and a neighbor de-rust a bumper with a special rust remover that comes in a tube for 75 cents. This is left on for a while then removed. It contains a silicon that seems to protect the surface from further rust after the rust has been taken off. It will not lift paint so is completely safe to use on all parts of a car.

If you would like to know where these items may be found, please call me at 382-3131.

New Fabric Developed Especially for Canadians

A new miracle fabric, Durawool, with permanent press in a co-ordinated sportswear line has been introduced by Koret of California (Canada) Limited. The plaid tops and pants worn by the model at left are machine-washable and guaranteed to hold a permanent press. The trio-pleated skirt at right is also in Durawool. A blend of wool, corval and nylon, the new fabric was developed especially for the Canadian market. (Commercial Illustrators Ltd.)

'Respected' Lady Is Common Thief

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We own a small high grade market in one of the better neighborhoods. Our problem is a very stylish lady of about 50 who patronizes us regularly. We've seen her slip small cans of button mushrooms, caviar, smoked oysters, and similar delicacies into her coat pocket.

She can well afford to pay for the items she steals. We've considered asking her to do her shopping elsewhere, but we haven't the nerve. She is such a respected lady that we can't follow her out of the store and demand that she empty her pockets like a common thief. Perhaps if you print this in your column she'll realize she's not getting away with anything. In the meantime, what is your advice? UNSIGNED.

DEAR UNSIGNED: Unless you want to continue to keep this "respected lady" in button mushrooms, caviar, smoked oysters and similar delicacies, I suggest that you follow her out of the store and demand that she empty her pockets like the common thief that she is. And until you do, she is indeed getting away with plenty.

DEAR ABBY: After 9 years of marriage my wife wants twin beds. I can't understand it and neither can our seven kids. Do you think she's getting tired of me? She says she will sleep better in twin beds. Frankly, if she slept any better, she would be dead. Please tell me how to handle this problem. I like to have her next to me. ST. LOUIS.

DEAR ST. LOUIS: The desire for twin beds is no proof that your wife is "getting tired" of you. Seven kids in nine years may mean she's getting just plain "tired."

DEAR ABBY: There is a local hang-out in our small town where I met a boy from another province. We just rode around and talked and he asked to see me the next night. I liked him so I did. That night he told me he was married and had two kids. I should have told him good-bye right then and there, but I liked him so much, I just couldn't.

Abby, I only intended to have a good time and forget about him, and he said he had the same intentions, but it wasn't that simple for either of us. He says he's in love with me, and I know I love him. I just can't stop seeing him. He says he's thinking about divorcing his wife and marrying me. It's gone beyond the point of turning back. I think about him night and day and I am worrying my poor mother to death—but I can't give him up, even if he is another woman's man. Please help me. MIXED UP.

DEAR MIXED UP: As long as you keep telling yourself you CAN'T give him up, you won't be able to. Tell yourself you CAN give him up because you must. Wipe the stardust out of your eyes, little girl. If he should divorce his wife and marry you what would you have? A guy who romances another girl when his wife is out of sight. If that's your idea of a good husband, you have a lot to learn.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOTTIE: Everyone has his "ups and downs." When you are "up" make it a point to help someone who is "down." It will lift you to even loftier heights, and surely help the one you've lifted.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bedtime massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coax it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

. . . Margaret Merril.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

In "Ode on a Grecian Urn" John Keats wrote, "Beauty is truth, truth beauty—that is all ye know on earth and all ye need to know."

These lines make lovely poetry but to be a down-to-earth beauty there's a little more that you have to know . . . such as these tried-and-truisms, just for you:

GUIDING LIGHT . . . For those who still adore that ultra-natural, no-color lipstick look, check the inside of your lower lip before purchasing lipstick. Any shade paler than what you see there and you're "dead" — colorfully speaking!

PAT-A-CREAM . . . When applying eye cream, use your two middle fingers and simulate little butterfly pats all around your eyes starting at the outside corners, working toward the side of your nose, up, up, up, pat, pat — L-I-G-H-T-L-Y. End by lifting each eyebrow up and out. Blot cream off after 10 minutes. A wonderful eye-opener, too.

HOLD-UP, HANG-UP . . . While garter belts do a great job of holding up stockings, often women unconsciously attempt to hold up the BELT by sticking out their tummies. Be sure to fasten the belt securely just below your waistline to avoid this eventual "let-down" of tummy control.

CHURLISH CURLS . . . "Kiss" curls and "banana" curls may be beguiling but they have a way of misbehaving, too. An effective disciplinary measure is to add the smallest trace of pomade to your fingers and then stretch and shape curls smoothly into place.

FACE FACTS . . . Face creams—like dairy creams—have a way of separating, as well as becoming rancid. Keep large jars in the "fridge" and refill smaller containers for daily use. For best results, each time you use your favorite, stir well beforehand. Tongue depressor sticks or those handy wooden tabs for identifying garden plants make great stirrers. Swizzle sticks double well for this purpose, too.

BASE HIT . . . Don't leave tell-tale edges when applying base to your face. It's meant to be smoothed to a fare-thee-well under your chin and blended inconspicuously up to your hairline. To eliminate using base on your neck (it can be very messy), select the face shade that most closely matches the color of your neck.

WHY GROW OLD?

Use 'Scientific' Nibbling' To Help Weight, Heart

Some women reduce most successfully with "scientific nibbling." This means that they divide their allowable food intake into five or six or more small meals, or snacks, daily. They nibble off and on all day long. I have had letters from readers saying that this is the only way they have ever been able to lose weight.

I can see how this might work: You do not skip a meal and therefore do not become so hungry that you more than make up for it at the next meal. We also know that the thoughtless nibbling (snacking between regular meals) piles on the pounds.

Scientific nibbling could well act as a sort of pacifier for the woman, who in the past has been a chronic nibbler of the wrong kind. So, nibble away to your heart's content, but be sure to nibble on the right things and to count the calories in every single item, no matter how unimportant or small it may seem.

Some experiments have indicated that women who eat more frequently but in smaller quantities lose more weight than those who eat the usual three meals a day. This was true even when the food intake was identical. I have not seen an explanation for this.

Also, there is some evidence that eating more often, but smaller amounts, may be healthier than the usual larger three meals a day.

Such a study was recently reported in the British Medical Journal, Lancet. This experiment was carried on in Prague by the distinguished Dr. Pavel Fabry, head of the physiology department of the Institute of Human Nutrition in Prague.

A group of 1,133 men between the ages of 60 and 64 years were involved. They were given physical examinations including electrocardiograms. A dietician analyzed the number of meals a day each man ate.

Here is the score. More than 30 per cent of the men who ate three or fewer meals a day developed heart disease. Less than 20 per cent who ate five or more meals had coronary disease.

Other studies indicate that "scientific nibbling" lowers the cholesterol blood level. Many experts believe that too much cholesterol is one factor in the development of coronary disease and strokes.

Once you have lost all of that extra weight, how do you stay at the proper weight? Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Hold That Line!" gives you menu suggestions and tips that will make it easier for you to stay at your perfect weight. To receive your copy send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Zsa Zsa Gabor gives her formula for a good figure and the ability to keep a husband happy in an interview with a British reporter.

Interview With Gabor Turns Into a Fiasco

By SHIRLEY CONRAN

I sat on Zsa Zsa Gabor's bed. Zsa Zsa, who is more of a television glamor personality than a serious actress, said she has had some of the most talked-about escorts of the Western world, such as Rubirosa and Aly Khan.

She was as pretty as a pigeon, wearing spectacles and dipping into a little sewing kit—the picture of domesticity. She was mending some love beads that had been torn off in a brawl the night before—real turquoises and amethysts. At the same time she directed traffic through her penthouse bedroom like a policeman. There was a maid, a masseuse, a helpful PRO, two trendy hairdressers from Vidal and the incessant telephone, all dodging round the vaseful of American red roses which looked incredibly plastic. We drank Chateauneuf du Pape 64, served well iced.

DRIPS WITH DIAMONDS

She has green eyes and a maddeningly good skin, and is beautifully blonded. Her alabaster-pink makeup looked the same as when I first saw her 15 years ago, enchanting everyone in some restaurant, dripping with large diamonds in boring settings. Her false eyelashes flapped enchantingly: she wore a loose rainbow printed chiffon kaftan and stockinged feet. "I change into a long thing, a muu-muu on an areoplane—you don't have to wear another thing.

"I am identified with glamor—great big-spender glamor."

How does she keep her looks and figure?

"You can't be too thick if you want a good face. I eat only green peppers and Hungarian salami sausage, and vitamin pills every day. It's true that you can keep a man if you cook well—mind you, you have to do other things well, too."

She added a non sequitur —"You know I was Liz Taylor's mother-in-law for a time? This was when she was Mrs. Conrad Hilton. "Hilton was an absolute swine to me; of course he was also a very lovely human being."

Cooking apart, how can a woman fascinate a man?

GIVES ADVICE

"Being natural, feminine, and looking after him. No matter how tough a man is, he's a baby and likes to be mothered, so you look after him, but don't let him see you're babying him; use your noodle. Don't nag. Every man I meet who wants to marry me says: 'Zsa Zsa, I used to love my wife, but she nags me so, and after the office I can't take it'."

She recalls occasions only by the dress she wore.

"What happened when I met de Gaulle? Oh, I wore a brown lace dress.

"Me and my clothes, it is a love affair," she said, jumping up to show me the 30 feet of clothes rails. "I prefer to be chic, not showy. I buy everything from Dior, my favorite dressmaker. They make feminine clothes. I am a size nine, well maybe size 10, yes, exactly 10. I have the most beautiful clothes in the world, that's why I work: to pay for them. I can't have my own TV show because I wouldn't have time to shop for the clothes.

"My evening clothes cost a thousand dollars a time. I don't like embroidered clothes because I like jewelry and you can't mix it, but I like wearing evening gowns best. Tonight I wear white chiffon with a rhinestone waist, and my basic emeralds and diamonds."

She pulled out a pale turquoise ostrich-feather-covered dress, a pleated white chiffon Greek gown, a daisy-covered pink chiffon, a coat in bruise blue, a Norell sequin-covered shift in shocking pink and silver and a short dress covered in black chiffon frills.

"Look at that silver crocodile trenchcoat, and this leopard skin suit. And this is my chinchilla."

SPURNS MINK

She thinks mink is not chic. "I bought it for myself, I deserved it. I gave my last chinchilla to my mother. It's lined in white satin and it's full length, and undoes at knee length for day. Zips tear your stockings—you must have poppers."

She knew the price of everything. Wearing a Courreges linen dress, she said, "This cost only $300."

A bit fed up, I said, "I'm wearing practically the same dress, and it cost £4 10s from Marks and Spencer." Her eyes widened—"But we must go shopping to this place tomorrow—come with me. You should never go shopping alone. They persuade you into buying things bad for a big rump, and I have a big rump and so do you; never mind, the men love it. But you are my size?" "But I'm size 12."

She looked carefully at me—"Well, try some of my clothes." She was right, we were the same size. Away fled thoughts of this week's diet. I was the same size as Zsa Zsa and she gets by. It was sweltering hot, but she had me jumping in and out of her clothes. I escaped to the drawing-room and hissed to her patient PR man, "Why's she making me try on her clothes?" Maybe she wants to give you something." "Nobody flies thousand-dollar model dresses round the world to give them to the first impoverished journalist she meets." "God knows, then, but go back."

MYSTERY SOLVED

I went into the bedroom and the mystery was solved: "Now you can buy clothes for me—you can try them on." We sent out for some St. Laurent jersey boiler suits by Wallis. I staggered in and out of them and Zsa Zsa lay on the bed being massaged, and she bought the lot.

She badly wanted some dresses like mine, but it was after closing time. She also wanted my knickers, which were white pleated chiffon with blue ribbon slotted over the important parts. "They don't have delicious funny underwear like that in the States."

Eventually I tottered into Park Lane wearing an exquisite silk-flowered muu-muu and a string of red love beads, a present from Zsa Zsa. How can I possibly thank her, except with a Marks and Spencer Courreges?

Knowledge Gained On Northern Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Anne Francis Bird, chairman of the royal commission on the status of women, says a just-completed northern trip gave her a deep feeling of warmth for Eskimo women.

"I had the warmest feeling for the Eskimo women—a real empathy," she said Thursday.

She recalled chatting with Eskimo women at Eskimo Point, N.W.T., high on the northwestern edge of Hudson Bay.

"They all sat in a circle with their babies on their knees.

"About six old ladies were there. Eskimos have great respect for age because an Eskimo has to be an exceptional person to live beyond age 32.

"One woman said she wanted to tell me how hard it was to be a widow. It sounded just exactly like our society. I almost cried at this point."

Another time, at Coral Harbor, N.W.T., on Southampton Island at the mouth of Hudson Bay, she watched the joyous reaction of an Eskimo woman who had just been assured by a judge that she could keep her child. The court merely wished to record the adoption, not take the child away as the woman feared.

"The adoption court is very important because Eskimos value children greatly," Mrs. Bird explained. "If a family has lots of children, the parents may let a childless couple take one.

"This is all fine according to their customs, but it is difficult in the matter of family allowances and inheritances. The government is trying to respect their adoption practices while trying to keep a proper record."

Another group in the North —nurses—prove that a woman can do just about anything she sets her mind to if necessary, Mrs. Bird said.

DELIVER BABIES TOO

"They diagnose illnesses, take X-rays, do public health nursing, deal with physical and mental illness, are on duty 24 hours a day and deliver babies without the aid of a doctor or hospital facilities."

Mrs. Bird also said many teachers in the North are aware that their job was to educate without taking away the children's culture.

Eskimo girls, acting as interpreters and nurses' assistants, were doing an invaluable job.

Mrs. Bird flew thousands of miles visiting remote areas as well as larger centres such as Whitehorse and Yellowknife.

TOYOTA COROLLA

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OCEAN!"

Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on the hills. The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

Cardinal to Fire Priests Opposing Pill Encyclical

By WILLIAM R. MACAYE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Washington, said Tuesday that his duty as a bishop requires him to remove any priest who will not accept the teaching of Pope Paul VI's encyclical condemning artificial birth control.

The cardinal's firm stance, together with the equally firm assurance by 52 representatives of the Washington Priests Association that they will not retract their dissent from the cardinal's view, appeared to increase the likelihood that as many as 50 more priests of the capital area may be relieved of their pastoral duties.

Cardinal O'Boyle Saturday fired one of the dissenters, Rev. T. Joseph O'Donoghue, as assistant at St. Francis de Sales Church and directed him to move out of the parish rectory by Wednesday night.

The chairman of the priests association, Rev. John E. Corrigan, was reported to be en route to Detroit in an effort to persuade Archbishop John F. Dearden, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, to create a special arbitration panel to mediate the dispute.

Father Corrigan said at a press conference Tuesday, before his announced departure that one of Archbishop Dearden's auxiliary bishops had suggested he take the matter up with the Detroit prelate, who is the top elected official of the American hierarchy.

In his press conference with reporters in the auditorium of Cathedral Latin School Cardinal O'Boyle was flanked by five experts on canon law and on moral, medical and legal aspects of contraception.

●

In the prepared statement with which he opened the session, Cardinal O'Boyle stressed that "the Catholic Church — which we Catholics believe has received its essential structure from its divine founder — is certainly not run in such a way that priests who will not follow the pastoral directives of their bishop can be allowed to go on just as they like."

Noting that he had been patient with his dissenting clergy and intended to continue being patient, the cardinal said that "only . . . when a man shows that he has determined to settle himself in an irreconcilable position will I come to the point of making the unfortunate situation formal, as the rules of the church permit and even require me as a bishop to do."

Cardinal O'Boyle indicated that for the dissenters other than Father O'Donoghue the deadline was Sept. 14, after the retreat for diocesan priests now underway is completed.

The cardinal told newsmen that the portion of the statement by the 51 priests that he found specifically unacceptable was their declaration that "spouses may responsibly decide according to their conscience that artificial contraception in some circumstances is permissable and indeed necessary to preserve and foster the values and sacredness of marriage."

●

In his Aug. 10 letter to the dissenters, the text of which he made public at the new conference, the cardinal wrote:

"For a loyal Catholic . . . the fact that his conscience tells him to do what the church teaches is always forbidden is enough to warn him that his conscience is going wrong.

"And at such a moment a loyal Catholic will not appeal from the teaching of the church to his own opinion, even if he thinks he has studied the matter more carefully than the Pope and even if he is confident that his experience, or intelligence, or holiness enable him to know better than the Pope what Christ wants."

Commenting on the events that followed the mailing of this letter, Cardinal O'Boyle spoke with some asperity of the priests' making collective replies rather than sending him the individual responses he had requested.

Discussing his suspension of Father O'Donoghue, the cardinal said he had ordained the priest "for the archdiocese of Washington, not for the association of priests."

He added, "I don't approve of it (the association) but he can stay with it." He described the association, which has spearheaded the dissenters' cause, as "equivalent to a form of unionism."

Picketing Injunction Dissolved

A court order which restrained a union from picketing, was dissolved Tuesday.

The order, or injunction had been issued last month to end mystery picketing of an Elford Street apartment building site.

It named the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, three of its officials and "persons unknown."

In court Tuesday, union lawyer Ken Murphy said there was no evidence that the union or officials John Schibli, Jim Sawyer or A. B. Kilgore, were involved.

"We took the position," said Mr. Schibli, "that we shouldn't be named unless they can prove we had anything to do with it and we denied it."

The injunction is still if effect, however, against "persons unknown."

This could serve to stop unidentified pickets from appearing at the site.

When the Cadets Take Over the Ship The Knots Are in Their Stomachs

By ERIC MAURICE

ABOARD HMCS YUKON — You can't learn the ropes of seamanship simply by practising sailor's knots in a classroom.

That's why 49 naval officer cadets spent the last month cruising to Hawaii.

They learned the navy life from the men who live it, aboard ship.

On Monday, the training cruise entered its last leg as the destroyer escorts Yukon, Mackenzie and Columbia slipped away from their moorings along The Embaracadero in San Francisco and headed for home.

Two military observers and one reporter joined the task group in the bay city for the three-day return to Esquimalt.

The officer cadets were observers as the three ships backed through a hazy calm into San Francisco Bay.

Then the captains ordered "Slow ahead!", the first ripples appeared and three sleek bows edged under the Bay bridge and nosed past infamous Alcatraz Island.

By the time the task group reached the Golden Gate Bridge, they were running in a tight V formation only 100 yards apart at a speed of 21 knots.

PILOTAGE YACHT

Outside the harbor, the ships passed the San Francisco pilotage sailing yacht — the only sailboat used for that purpose in any major harbor in the world.

Further out, when the harbor entrance and the hills of Marin County appeared as only vague etchings in the fog, the cadets took over — but under close officer scrutiny.

In groups of four, they took part in cadet officer of the watch manoeuvres, astronavigation and seamanship lectures.

The purpose of the sea training program is to teach officer abilities, and behavior to the cadets by first-hand observation.

In charge of cadet training in all three vessels during the cruise was Lt.-Cmdr. John Carruthers in the Yukon. He was assisted by Lt. A. Schwartz on Columbia and Lt. R. M. Bernard on Mackenzie.

Senior astronavigation instructor was Cmdr. Douglas J. Williams.

During officer of the watch manoeuvres, four cadets come to the bridge, and one takes over as the officer in command — next to the captain — for that watch.

A watch generally lasts four hours.

With the cadets in charge, commanding officers of the three ships in the task group moved into the background. They scrutinized each cadet as he took his turn as officer of the watch, they grilled him with questions, but as much as possible they left him to call his own moves.

With a cadet navigator plotting sea positions and two cadets taking bearings on the other ships in the group, the officer of the watch could figure what orders he had to bark down to the helmsman in the wheelhouse.

JACKSTAY transfer carries Brigadier-general A. J. Tedlie, deputy commissioner of Canadian forces training command, from HMCS Yukon to HMCS Mackenzie 40 miles at sea off the California coast. The general joined the task group in San Francisco to observe cadet training first-hand.

The object of each exercise was to execute a prescribed manoeuvre and reach and maintain a predetermined position, or station, relative to the other ships.

To do this, the cadet had to anticipate how far and fast his ship could turn when he ordered "Port 15!" at a speed of 12 knots. He also had to anticipate when to order the wheel back to midship position to return to a straight course.

By the end of the cruise, most cadets could anticipate the results of their orders quite accurately.

Commanders P. G. May of Yukon, also the task group commander, O. J. Cavenagh of Mackenzie and R. D. Okros of Columbia watched closely as the cadets ran their ships through a daily series of zig-zag and turning patterns in mid-ocean.

CHANGE GUIDE SHIP

For each manoeuvre, one ship acted as guide and told the others which pattern to follow. The guide ship flew a blue and yellow striped signal flag from her main mast.

Guide position changed from ship to ship during each series of manoeuvres.

The cadets, all in the second year of a three-year summer training program, learned coastal navigation cruising in the Gulf Islands last summer.

Along the coast, they can get bearings from distinguishable landmarks. At sea, they must depend on sun, stars and gyrocompass.

The cadets started their summer program this year learning the theoretical aspects of ocean navigation and life at sea in a two-week lecture series at Esquimalt.

They got their sea familiarization by cruising on sheltered waterways for another two weeks.

On July 29, they began their real sea test.

First stop was San Diego, then Pearl Harbor, back to San Francisco, and then, 31 days later, home to Esquimalt.

Obviously enjoying the sea life, cadets relished the change from the winter rounds at military college. Main similarity between the two worlds was several hours of studying and lectures required of them aboard ship.

Otherwise, they were in a different world.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

On the cruise they could swim in sub-tropical Pacific waters 1,500 miles west of San Diego and photograph Hawaiian girls on Waikiki Beach.

Military college — whether Royal Roads, Royal Military College, or College Militaire Royale — was never like that!

For daily recreation, cadets took part in inter-ship competitions of flag hoisting and boat pulling.

HMCS Columbia came out on top of the month-long competitions and won "cock of the walk" recognition, which allowed her to dock first on the return to Esquimalt sporting a large painted rooster on her forward gun.

The task group sailed back into Esquimalt harbor Thursday. Rear Admiral John A. Charles, commander of maritime forces Pacific, welcomed the ships and their officer cadets from his reviewing stand at the harbor mouth.

Three of the 49 cadets attend civilian universities in Canada, and three are U.S. navy cadets who came to Esquimalt for the summer on an exchange which sent three Canadian cadets cruising with the U.S. fleet in the Mediterranean.

The remainder will return to military college next week.

U.S. Bears Brunt Of Viet Graft

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Tran Van Huong's campaign against corruption in South Vietnam may have reached a critical point.

Sources within the cabinet say the premier has sent to President Nguyen Van Thieu 62 dossiers detailing corruption charges against government and military figures, many of them high-ranking and politically powerful.

"Much of the corruption involves people appointed by Nguyen Cao Ky when he was premier, and who have been in power for two or three years," one cabinet source said. Ky now is the vice-president and at odds with Thieu and Huong.

The dossiers are the latest gambit in the anti-corruption program of the 64-year-old premier, a former teacher who is widely respected.

Meanwhile, the U.S. mission has instituted a new system to try to cut down diversion of U.S. goods in Vietnam. Such diversion is conservatively estimated to have reached $272,000,000 over the last several years.

MAY DESTROY ALL

Huong recengly said that corruption has become so prevalent that "it may destroy all achievements of the government and the entire people."

So far this year, Thieu has removed 17 of South Vietnam's 44 province chiefs, 33 district chiefs, and hundreds of police officials and other government functionaries, many for corruption.

But officials close to Thieu and Huong say that corrupt officials remain.

A member of the premier's staff said:

"Corruption is so ingrown that we've even found some members of the corruption investigative staffs trying to blackmail or bribe people who were investigated."

ON BLACK MARKET

Instances of corruption are numerous.

U.S. aid equipment—stationery, newsprint, television sets, batteries, and thousands of other items often end up on the black market.

One report said a former official at the Saigon port was demanding a $2,000 payoff from each of the thousands of ships which delivered essential military supplies, U.S. aid items and commercial cargoes.

Cabinet ministers appointed by Huong have found dozens of ghost employees in their ministries who never worked but drew monthly salaries.

The U.S. mission has announced unilateral measures to cut down its losses due to corruption and theft.

A joint accountability system provides for American checks on all deliveries of U.S. aid and other American goods from the port down to the local level.

Officials say the loss rate has been cut to about four per cent since the system went into operation at the beginning of the year.

Police Make Mass Attack On Pedlars

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 40 policemen split into several raiding parties, today launched the biggest roundup of suspected drug traffickers in the city's history.

The officers were armed with warrants charging more than 70 persons with drug offences.

The mass roundup ended five months of undercover work by two RCMP officers who posed as drug-using hippies to gain evidence of illicit trafficking.

The two officers claim they purchased quantities of marijuana, opium hashish, LSD, phenmatrazine—a barbiturate — and hydrocannabinal, which they described as synthetic marijuana.

By 9 a.m. PDT 15 persons had been picked up on the warrants. Police held warrants for at least 55 others, including several persons already in custody on other charges.

Today's roundup was the second mass move against suspected traffickers this year. The first crackdown, of Feb. 19, resulted in charges being laid against 62 persons.

Police said the results of today's raids showed that hashish and LSD are more readily available in the city than was thought. Those arrested were taken to the Vancouver city jail to await court appearances on charges laid under the Narcotics Control Act and the Federal Food and Drug Act.

An RCMP spokesman said the two drug squad officers, constables Terry Hart and Don Sundset, started their investigation in mid-April.

San Diego Yachtsman Leads Star Class Test

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Lowell North of San Diego finished eighth in the first race and first in the second Tuesday to take over the lead in the Star Class Olympic sailing trials.

John Sherwood of Baltimore was winner of the day's first race and is third in the overall standings. Don Trask of San Francisco was second overall.

Life of Torture Ends for Orphans

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) — Brazilian police investigated Tuesday night charges that children were murdered, tortured and sexually assaulted at a privately-run orphanage at Nova Iguacu, on the outskirts of Rio.

As police dug up the garden and searched the well of the orphanage for possible hidden bodies, a guard was mounted outside the police station to prevent angry mobs from lynching Edilsa Barbosa Marques who ran the Abode of Light asylum with her husband Abel.

The 47 children at the orphanage, all under 12 years, were sent to other asylums, private homes and hospitals. Police put out a dragnet across the two states for Abel and the couple's 13-year-old son Luis.

★ ★ ★

Police said physical examination of the children bore out their testimony of near starvation, beatings, torture and sexual assault.

Newspapers published pictures of some of the children, which were reminiscent of pictures taken in Nazi concentration camps.

Police raided the orphanage Friday following tips from neighbors. They found a 10-year-old lying on the floor of a tiny dark room and wearing chains. Bruises on his body bore out his story that he was beaten with a chain, police said.

Another child told of how she saw a 10-year-old girl beaten to death.

"Almost no one heard her screams, because Dona Edilsa turned the radio up to full volume and made the children beat a drum and sing carnival music," the child added.

Local newspapers quoted police as saying many of the children were tubercular and all but five were in dangerous stages of malnutrition and anemia. Most bore signs of physical maltreatment.

One boy said five of the children were given preferential treatment, good food and decent clothing.

Neighbors, wondering why radio music and children singing carnival songs should be heard from an orphanage late at night, called police.

Edilsa Barbosa, is reported to have told police 10 children died from typhoid fever since she and her husband started the orphanage four years ago. She said they were buried by a neighborhood funeral society.

About 3,000 residents of Nova Iguacu demonstrated in front of the police station Monday chanting: "Beast of Nova Iguacu. Some day we will get you. We will do justice with our own hands."

Valleyfield Trailing In Quebec Boxla Final

DRUMMONDVILLE (CP) — Drummondville Athletics defeated Valleyfield Braves 13-8 Tuesday night to take a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven final series in the Quebec Lacrosse League.

Ron, Ward, Ivan Blanchard and Paul Blouin each scored three goals for Drummondville. Dave Sunday scored three for Valleyfield.

Second Official Quits PGA Body

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Billy Booe, tournament administrator for the Professional Golfers' Association for the past four years, has resigned.

He is the second PGA official to quit within three weeks. Jack Tuthill resigned as field supervisor, effective after the Hartford Open this week.

Low Income Group Hit By Rentals

Rent increases and the housing shortage are putting the squeeze on Victoria families deriving their income from welfare payments.

Pat Hilbourne, president of the Low Income Group, says she is receiving complaints from members that recent rent increases cannot be met from monthly welfare cheques.

The city's welfare administrator, Alex Davidson, says his department has no knowledge of wholesale increases, but notes that with the housing shortage acute even a slight increase could hurt welfare recipients.

He said it was virtually impossible to find accommodation for low-income groups.

"One family has been hunting for a house for four months but has been unable to find one," he said. "The family had to be separated. For the last four months the children have been waiting to be reunited with their mother and each other, but they just can't find a place."

Mrs. Hilbourne said one case brought to her attention involved a monthly rent recently raised to $135.

She said the mother involved had five children and a total welfare income of $295 a month.

"She can't pay that rent ($135 a month) and there is nowhere else to live," she said.

Anti-Rejection Serum Ready For Testing

MONTREAL (CP) — A new anti-rejection serum which does not interfere with transplant patients' ability to resist infection will be tested across Canada to determine its value for humans, the Medical Research Council said Tuesday.

Dr. H. E. Taylor, director of the project, said clinical tests will be conducted to determine how well the new serum suppresses the body's tendency to reject transplanted organs.

"As soon as we have shown that antilymphocyte serum (ALS) is effective in reducing rejection, the trials will end," Dr. Taylor said.

Dr. Taylor is on leave of absence from the University of British Columbia.

The research council, a federal government body, hopes to get the trials under way early in 1969.

The serum, produced in horses through special laboratory techniques, reacts with the cells that produce rejection in transplant patients and prevents an attack on the new organ.

ALS has been shown to suppress rejection in animals, notably mice, and is believed to have helped human kidney and heart transplants, including Gaetan Paris who received a new heart at the Montreal Heart Institute in late June, and has since returned home.

The serum will be produced at the Institute de microbiologie here, and the Connaught laboratories in Toronto. It will be used to treat 100 human patients undergoing kidney transplants across Canada.

Snow in Hawaii

HILO, Hawaii (AP)—Islanders woke up Monday to find a snow covering on the summit of the 13,796-foot Mauna Kea volcano. The snow, from a weekend thunderstorm, extended down about 1,000 feet from the summit.

GARDOM
. . . against McGeer

Gardom To Seek Leadership

VANCOUVER (CP) — Garde Gardom (L — Vancouver-Point Grey) announced Tuesday night that he will seek leadership of the Liberal Party in British Columbia.

He told a meeting of the Vancouver-Centre Liberal Association he will seek the nomination at the party's leadership convention in Penticton Oct. 4 and 5.

Ray Perrault, former leader of the party in B.C., resigned to enter federal politics earlier this year, and defeated NDP leader T. C. Douglas in Burnaby-Seymour.

The only other declared candidate for the B.C. Liberal leadership is Dr. Pat McGeer. Both Mr. Gardom and Dr. McGeer represent the dual-seat Vancouver-Point Grey riding in the B.C. Legislature.

Plane Weaved, Crashed

OTTAWA (CP)—Witnesses to the final minutes of an Air Canada DC-8 jet testified Tuesday night that the plane executed a series of weaving fotions before heeling over almost belly-up and crashing into the ground.

Their testimony was that the plane that carried three veteran pilots to their deaths had trouble lining up on the runway before suddenly dropping its right wing and nose and plunging earthward.

Thirty-three witnesses gave evidence before Dr. W. T. Kendall at a coroner's inquest into the death of Capt. Donald J. Orr, 46, of Brampton, Ont., Capt. William A. Robinson, 46, Pointe Claire, Que., and Capt. Clark Henning, 48, Oakville, Ont., were the only other occupants of the big aircraft.

They were battered and burned almost beyond recognition when the plane crashed just short of the runway at nearby Uplands airport, May 20, 1967. The inquest has been delayed pending a transport department inquiry.

The five-man coroner's jury was shown sets of photographs, including color slides taken at one-second intervals of the plane plunging earthward, then bursting into flame. The slides were shot by Julian Russell Vincent, 26, an electrical engineer making a stop at the airport en route home to Britain from Singapore.

An affidavit by Mr. Vincent said the plane appeared out of line with the runway from his position on the airport observation deck. It kept side-slipping, then spun over.

The same kind of testimony with varying degrees of emphasis was given by many others—airport employees, pilots on the ground and in the air, golfers and motorists near the runway.

Perennials Need Care

By HILDA BEASTALL

A certain amount of care is required to maintain continued flowering of summer perennials. Some, like the tall blue polemonium, lythrum and Oriental poppy have a rather restricted blooming period, and little can be done apart from removing faded flower heads to prevent seeding.

Hilda

However, a great list of other summer blooming perennials will, with timely care, continue producing good blooms right along into September.

Among these are monarda (or Bee-balm) in pink and a dark velvety red; veronica in pink and a dark blue; gaillardia (a perennial only in sandy well drained soil); geums; heuchera (Coral-bells); scabiosa; the summer variety of helenium: chelone (Turtlehead); and the white Lysimachia clethroides.

When you add these to the perennials normally coming into bloom during September, there is no reason to feel we are at the end of the season.

We stand, as we so often have maintained, right at the beginning of things, and should strive to take forward the best of the past.

The care needed to have a continuity of bloom on the perennials mentioned is routine enough.

It consists first, of cutting off old flower stems promptly. That means as they fade, not waiting for part of the flower head to commence seed production.

When a large number of stems are being cut at one time from a plant, give a good watering at the roots, for plants have to be encouraged to take in more food from the soil if they are to continue production of foliage and flowers for several months.

In most of our average coastal soils, coupled with our normally dry summer, a summer mulch of rotted compost over the entire root area of perennials will be of greater value than an applied fertilizer.

Compost will maintain conditions below the surface to ensure the plants thriving for many years, with only a tablespoon of dry, balanced fertilizer to each large plant in early spring.

Ulcerative Colitis Treatment

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

One of the sad things for a physician to see is a child with an ulcerative colitis — badly ulcerated colon; we never have had any good treatment for this disease. Dr. J. A. Bargen who at the Mayo Clinic had the world's greatest experience with this trouble, used to give the drug Azulfidine, and that often helped. Unfortunately, we physicians have never known exactly what causes chronic ulcerative colitis. I do know often when parents have brought in a child with that disease, all I had to do was to ask them, "Have you two been fighting or talking of divorce in front of the child?" And they have said, "Yes, we have." Then I would have to tell them if they wanted to save their child's life, they had better make peace, and make the youngster feel safe again.

Alvarez

One of my friends, a big, powerful athletic man in his 50s, suddenly got a severe form of chronic ulcerative colitis which through the next several years no doctor could cure. He got the disease the day he realized the promising invention he had made, and had spent a fortune on, was not perfect enough to be salable. This broke his heart.

★ ★ ★

Now I read in a release from Drs. H. I. Goldberg, J. V. Carbone and A. Margulis, of the University of California School of Medicine in San Francisco, a report that daily retention enemas (that are not immediately expelled) containing hydrocortisone, alcohol and safflower oil, given every night, have brought about marked improvement in the condition of 12 of the 16 patients so treated. All of the 16 had been previously treated unsuccessfully by older methods. The doctors feel the use of the enemas should be continued after the person seems to be well, so the disease will not start up again. The enema is given at bedtime with a disposable rectal tube and a plastic enema bag, and the patient retains the enema during the night.

Frantic mothers write asking me how to rid their children of pinworms. Some of the women have learned already often everyone in the house has to be dewormed at the same time.

The important point is people get pinworms from swallowing the eggs. These eggs go down into the bowel and there hatch out into the worms. At night the worms come out onto the buttocks and there lay their eggs. I can't imagine the eggs getting up through the rectum. It is conceivable that if two small children slept together, the worms that crawl out of the rectum at night might possibly get into the other child's buttocks — and from there into the rectum.

As I tell mothers, one of the most important things to do when a child has pin worms is to have him or her sleep every night with tight panties which are then boiled every day to get rid of the eggs. The panties will keep the eggs from getting all over the bed, and then going out through the air, into the dust of the house, onto food, and then into the mouths of perhaps everyone in the family.

Today there are medicines that usually in a day or two will destroy the worms that are in the bowel. Then the big problem is to keep from reinfecting the child and the rest of the family.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Karin Jensvold, age 10, of Tempe, Arizona, for her question:

How does the Venus' flytrap catch and digest its food?

We are used to the idea of plant-eating animals. But the idea of animal-eating plants is hard to believe. Nevertheless there are several smallish plants that do devour the meat of insects. They live in regions where meaty food is needed to give them a balanced diet.

The Venus' flytrap grows wild in certain swampy regions of the Carolinas. Here the soil is short of nitrogen compounds. All plant life needs these food chemicals to grow and stay healthy. But plants do not give up easily when things get tough. The lack of nitrogen is a severe hardship—but nature has given the Venus' flytrap a most astonishing way to solve it. The soil has little or no usable nitrogen, but there is plenty of it in the tiny bodies of passing bugs. The flytrap has a built-in booby trap to catch insects and a way to make the best use of their valuable chemicals.

The flytrap sprouts about ten heart-shaped leaves, each one built to spring shut like a miniature bear trap. The plant grows about one foot tall with a centre stalk that bears a cluster of small white blossoms. A few new leaves are always sprouting near the ground to take over the trapping duties of the older leaves. The leaf trap is at the end of a flat, hairy base. It is a thick heart-shaped fist with a very thick ridge right down the middle. Actually, this heavy ridge is the hinge that springs the trap.

Each half of the heart-shaped leaf is called a lobe and there are three sensitive hairs on the surface of each lobe. They are set in a triangle and to cover them glands in the leaf ooze a sticky, glistening stuff that looks like dewy moisture. This is the bait that attracts the passing flies. The outer edges of the lobe are fringed with stiff spikes. When a curious fly goes by, his eye catches the dewy drops of moisture and he stops to investigate. If he lands on the sensitive hairs, his doom is sealed. His minuscule weight is heavy enough to make the hairs trigger the hinge down the middle of the leaf. The two lobes snap shut and their spiky edges form a caged wall to keep the imprisoned fly inside.

Absorbs Fluids

Dinner is now served and the Venus' flytrap gets busy digesting it. Strong digestive juices ooze from the leaf and engulf the fly. Its usable chemicals are dissolved and absorbed through the pores of the leaf. The flytrap now has a healthy helping of nitrogen chemicals that seep from cell to cell, performing their vital roles in the complex living processes of the plant. Meantime, all the juicy goodness has been dissolved from the fly. The leaf trap gently opens its fist and the dry husk of the fly blows away on the breezes. Each leaf can trap and digest only a few flies in its lifetime. Then it is replaced by a younger leaf.

The notion of meat-eating plants has been stretched way out of bounds. We hear tales of carnivorous plants that are big enough to trap and digest a man. This may sound exciting but it is downright nonsense. On this planet at least, no plant can trap and devour any creature much bigger than a fairly large bug. And we have only a very, very few of these highly specialized members of the plant kingdom.

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Carter Beattie, age 9, of Richmond, Virginia, for his question:

How can scientists tell when certain stars will be visible?

Everybody loves to watch a parade go by and the best of them all is the circus parade. The funny clowns frisk and frolic past you and then comes the merry calliope playing a jolly tune. Then comes a tiger in a cage, a dwarf and his friendly giant, and then a cage of lions. At last, the impossible elephants lumber by, almost close enough to touch. Suppose the clowns ahead make a U-turn and lead the parade down the next street. You can run a block across town and watch it all pass by you again. The people and animals will follow each other in the same order as the first time.

The stars cross the night sky in an orderly parade. They are arranged in patterns called constellations. Each constellation keeps its place in line with the same one ahead and the same one behind. The starry parade rises and sets each night. It moves at a set speed, exactly on time. But each night it rises a little later. It lags behind and causes different stars to appear at different seasons of the year. This yearly parade has been going on for ages and experts have its time schedule down to the second. They know just which stars in the parade will be visible on any night of the year and exactly when they will rise and set.

'Turn On' Delegates Told To Push Social Change

By LILLIAN NEWBERY

GUELPH (CP) — Martin Loney, president-elect of the Canadian Union of Students, Tuesday night told delegates to go back to the campuses of 30 Canadian universities and turn students on to social change.

He said Canadian students must be convinced they have a moral responsibility to a "wider constituency" than the campus.

In a marathon last session that ended the CUS conference early today, the congress passed resolutions on Vietnam, imperialism, education and student power.

"When we talk about student power, when we talk about student reform, it isn't a matter of life and death," Mr. Loney said.

"But to people starving in unaligned third world countries, imprisoned in Czechoslovakia and dying in Vietnam, social change is of a higher intensity.

"They don't have the luxury of arguing student power . . . they don't have houses or universities."

EXPECTS OPPOSITION

Mr. Loney, student council president of Simon Fraser University, Burnaby, said delegates will be opposed by student councils whose main ambition is enjoying "sherry parties with the senior faculty."

"But when the mass of students is committed, then people will come back next year and say 'now we really represent the Canadian student movement, now we really represent power and now we can really talk about social change'."

The congress passed a resolution condemning "the imperialist and genocidal war currently being waged against Vietnam by the United States of America and its allies."

It demanded the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. and allied troops and condemned the Canadian government for "political and material support for U.S. aggression in Vietnam and elsewhere."

The motion also supported the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, and invited an NFL delegation to visit Canada.

SIX OPPOSE MOTION

Only six of 100 votes opposed the motion. They included Gerald Pout-Macdonald of Regina, who urged the congress not to support the "terrorist" NFL.

Earlier, Mr. Loney said he was not interested in leading a student organization interested in self-determination unless it realizes that other organizations are in the same plight.

Jerry Lampert of Carleton University, Ottawa, said reaction across Canada will be "look at what those crazy Canadian students have done now."

President Pete Warrian, 25, said the congress was a significant advance in the history of the Canadian student movement.

He said the student power movement has been guilding up since Quebec universities left CUS in 1964-66.

"Before that our energies were dissipated in the French-English question," he said.

Last year there were nine strikes on Canadian campuses, including the Simon Fraser student revolt last spring, he said.

During the weekend sessions the University of Victoria and UBC rejoined CUS after being suspended earlier for refusing to sign a declaration of committal to an increase in fees.

Ryerson Opens Board To Students

TORONTO (CP) — Ryerson Polytechnical Institute Tuesday became the first educational institution in Canada to offer students seats on the board of governors.

W. M. Kelly, chairman of the board, made the announcement during freshman welcoming ceremonies, saying:

"There will be no restrictions on the four new members. They will be regular, voting members."

The 13-member board is appointed by the Ontario government. The two students, along with two faculty members, will be officially appointed to the board by William Davis, minister of education, when they are elected.

CUS Supports Quebec Independence

GUELPH (CP) — The Canadian Union of Students early today passed a resolution by a vote of 51 to 35 that supports the province of Quebec separating from the rest of Canada if that is what Quebecers want.

The resolution, drafted by outgoing CUS president Hugh Armstrong, 25, of Ottawa, and debated during an all-night session that ended the annual conference, says:

"The citizens of Quebec, so long subjected to second-class status in Canada, must have the right to decide whether they want to remain a part of the country in which they have felt and been considered foreign."

The student union representing 30 Canadian universities already considers Quebec a sovereign nation.

Etienne St. Aubin of Laurentian University in Sudbury called the statement "the base for an intelligent arrangement between civilized people."

Ross McGregor of Queen's University in Kingston said: "We are for self determination. I wish Quebec would choose to opt in or opt out, but I find it inconceivable that CUS could actively encourage separatism."

Charlie Boylan of Toronto, editor of Scan, a far-left magazine, said the resolution was the most important to come before the congress.

The resolution also opposes the fragmentation of Canada into nine provinces and calls for a strong central government to rule the rest of Canada after Quebec leaves.

New Rules Make Puppet Commons Tory Charges

OTTAWA (CP) — Gerald Baldwin, Conservative House Leader, has accused the government of trying to establish a "puppet Parliament"

He said in a statement that the government has put forward certain specific proposals for changes in Commons rules.

But Prime Minister Trudeau and Privy Council President Donald Macdonald "are making it evident that Parliament is really an inconvenience and an obstacle which should be turned into a rubber stamp," he said.

Mr. Baldwin added:

"The proposals of the government appear as the beginning of a ruthless and arrogant design, to mute the voice of the opposition which represents 55 per cent of the voters in the last general election.

"You see unfolding this design on the part of people who obviously dislike to submit to the discipline of parliamentary scrutiny and control, and who show every indication of inaugurating a tyranny of the majority. The kind of parliamentary reform Mr. Trudeau and his friends have in mind will lead to a puppet Parliament."

Mr. Baldwin loosed another angry blast at Mr. Macdonald for "rushing into print" concerning confidential negotiations with the opposition.

WILL WRITE

"From now on, our discussions will be by correspondence or by meetings with witnesses present," he said.

Mr. Macdonald, government House leader, had "condescended" to meet him only once. He had had two other meetings with John Stewart, defeated Liberal MP now working for Mr. Macdonald on Commons rules changes.

Mr. Baldwin said Conservative proposals for research personnel for the opposition met "indifference."

The government was not really interested in doing anything substantial in this regard "even in the face of the great increase in the staff in the prime minister's office."

"I do not conceive it to be my responsibility to go crawling to these people for such crumbs as they may see fit to throw us," Mr. Baldwin said.

At a news conference, Mr. Baldwin said the attitude of the government is that of an "arrogant managerial group."

He said he could not disclose the government's proposed rule changes because they had been given to him in confidence by the government.

OPPOSITION LIMITED

But, he said, they would limit the opposition's right to question, to scrutinize and to check tions which the gcmcmcnaorev actions which the government should not take.

Mr. Baldwin said the government got itself into the present situation by calling an election before temporary rule changes had been made permanent.

He said the reaction of the government to its own previous promise to supply the opposition with research personnel was a "massive yawn."

The government "couldn't care less" about strengthening the opposition.

Mr. Baldwin said he concludes that Mr. Trudeau was "insincere" about his promise to assist the opposition with more research staff.

Before the Magistrate

An 18-year-old Victoria youth pleaded guilty Tuesday to six charges of theft involving about $800 worth of car parts and accessories.

Rodney Jenson, 914 Kingsmill, was remanded until Sept. 10 for sentence. He is represented by lawyer W. van Cuylenborg.

Court was told the youth jacked up a car in an Esquimalt parking lot April 8 and took four chrome reverse wheels and tires worth $450. On July 29 he took two chrome wheels from a car parked on Colville Road in the same manner police said.

A wallet containing $60 in cash and other personal effects was taken by Jenson from an Oregon car in the Empress Hotel parking lot Aug 4 and $45 worth of custom car parts were taken by him from various places on Aug. 9 court was told.

Another four wheels and tires worth $150 were taken by Jenson from a parked car on Topaz Avenue Aug. 25 police said and a roll-away bed and mattress worth $40 was taken by him from the Empress Hotel Aug. 1.

Another youth named jointly with Jenson on the latter two offenses was remanded for plea on the charges until Sept. 10 and also on three other counts of theft and one of possession of stolen property.

A pre-sentence report on Jenson is being prepared. Most of the stolen property has been recovered police said.

Three men who pleaded guilty to possession of two stolen traffic warning signs were fined $150 each.

Police said Gregory Sam, 21, of 1276 Stellys Cross road, Francis Sam, 27, of 1151 Colville, and Barry Underwood, 20, No. 1 Mount Newton Cross Road abandoned the car they were in on Williams Street early Tuesday. The signs, which had been removed from the Point Ellice Bridge, were found in the car. Estimated value was given at $45.

Gregory Sam was also fined $150 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Court was told a car was chased by police at speeds hitting 75 miles per hour on Bay Street Tuesday and found later on Williams Street. None of the persons who fled from the car admitted being the driver, police said. The vehicle was registered in the accused's name.

A man who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft will be sentenced Sept. 10.

Archibald Stewart, 22, of 1615 Balmoral, broke a five by seven foot window of a Johnson street store Monday and took an ornamental tiger worth about $1.50 police said.

Stewart told the magistrate it was an act of revenge. He said the store owner had been "fooling around" with a friends wife.

Damage to the window was estimated at $115 prosecutor Cory Stolte said.

A pre-sentence report is being prepared.

Two men were fined when they pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Victor Berg, 1337 Gladstone, was involved in an accident on Bay Street Sunday. He left the scene and was found at his home three-quarters of an hour later police said. He was fined $150.

John Cook, of 968 North Park, left the scene of an accident at Quadra and Princess Thursday court was told. He was fined $200.

John T. Pitts, of Calgary, was fined $75 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Police said he was observed at speeds up to 60 miles per hour on North Park Street Sunday and that he passed three stop signs without stopping. Pitts was also fined $25 for not being accompanied by a qualified driver while holding a learner's drivers licence.

Joseph Peters, 467 Lampson, was fined $350 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Court was told his car left the roadway and went into a ditch on Tillicum Road, eventually hitting a traffic sign.

Barry Neufield, of Ladysmith, was fined $400 for impaired driving. Police said he was observed driving in an erratic manner on Douglas Street Sunday.

Clifford Hartt, 3167 Ayton Place, was fined $300 and also lost his driving licence when he pleaded guilty to being impaired while having care and control of an auto. He was checked behind the wheel of his car on Pandora Friday night.

Continue Studies Clergymen Told

KINGSTON (CP) — Clergymen must continue to update their education if they are to retain their professional standing in the church, delegates to the United Church of Canada conference were told Tuesday.

"Continuing education is a necessity for the clergy," said Rev. N. B. McLeod of Hamilton. "It's a necessary part of every man's work year. It's no longer an obligation. This is a requirement if he is to retain his professional standing in the United Church ministry."

Rev. McLeod's comments came as the United Church's general council approved a resolution that each minister be given three weeks off work annually in addition to his regular vacation in order to study.

"I think ministers deserve this leave," said Rev. Leonard Bricket of Toronto, "because most work seven days a week."

"We're just keeping up with other professions in this field," said Rev. L. C. T. Harbour of St. Catharines.

But Rev. D. Bruce Johnson of Medicine Hat, Alta., disagreed.

"I feel we're going a bit too fast and a bit far," he said.

The council also approved an increase to $5,200 from $4,800 in minimum clerical salaries and an increase to $800 from $700 in the clergyman's annual allowance. The increases will go into effect next Jan. 1.

PRESENTS REPORT

The report on salaries was presented by Gordon S. Allen of Halifax, who said the $400 raise in salaries barely kept up with cost-of-living increases.

However, Rev. S. J. Jackson of Iroquois Falls, Ont., said he would find it hard to justify the increase to persons in his area who themselves are fighting poverty.

"I would find it hard to go back to my pastoral charge and face families who are struggling with poverty, knowing that we voted ourselves an increase in salary," he said.

In other business Tuesday, the council promised a minimum of $1,750,000 would be set aside for overseas development and relief during the next 2½ years.

The council approved a resolution from a special committee recommending that the 1968 allotment of $250,000 for such aid be increased immediately to $750,000.

The special committee was established Monday after a motion in council that $1,000,000 be paid immediately for overseas development and relief from the church's $10,000,000 stabilization fund. This provides for protection of the church in the event of an economic depression.

ISSUES CHALLENGE

The committee challenged the entire church to share in the project through a special program of fund raising but if the $1,750,000 goal is not reached the deficit will be made up from the general reserves of the church.

The council also said United Church members and Anglicans should be free to take part in one another's services.

It passed a resolution that such participation should be with the knowledge, consent and encouragement of the authorities of each of the churches.

It asks that bishops of the Anglican Church be asked to consult their members within the next year about authorizing occasions for reciprocal intercommunion between the churches before they become organically united.

The council also condemned recent Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia, approving a resolution from Rev. Hanns F. Skoutajam of Almonte, Ont., that the council "deplore this infringement upon the freedom of, and sovereignty of, an independent people and therefore add our voice to the worldwide protest against this act of agression."

Rev. Skoutajam is a native of Czechoslovakia.

Controversial Assistant In New Role

OTTAWA (CP) — Bill Lee, controversial executive assistant to former defence minister Paul Hellyer during the acrimonious debate on armed forces unification, is out of the government service and into private industry.

Mr. Lee, 44-year-old former air force officer and a native of Hamilton, now is president of Executive Consultants Ltd. Vice-president of the new Ottawa-based company is William Neville, executive assistant to Jude LaMarsh when she was a cabinet minister, and later to Finance Minister Benson.

The company came into being on Sept. 1 but it won't have an office until Oct. 1. In any case both men are still involved in government work.

Mr. Lee is helping Postmaster-General Eric Kierans set up the communications department and Mr. Neville is executive secretary to Transport Minister Hellyer's housing task force.

Mr. Neville's is a part-time contract that will keep him busy for about four months. Mr. Lee hopes to be able to turn over the work with the communications department to Mr. Kieran's staff in a matter of weeks.

Mr. Lee stressed that the new company will not be a political lobby.

"There is a need for a straightforward counselling and communication service between government and industry," Mr. Lee said. "It is necessary because industry doesn't know how to deal with government and government makes decisions without getting the views of industry."

CHILDREN'S POPCORN PERMEATED WITH LYE

BURNS LAKE (CP) — Hospital officials in this northern British Columbia community said today 26 children were treated for chemical burns after eating popcorn permeated with household lye.

A spokesman said one of the children, Barbara Cowley, two, was in serious condition and nine others were in satisfactory condition. The rest were treated and released.

Red Cross To Begin Airlift

Aba Captured By Federalists

LAGOS (AP) — The Nigerian federal army today claimed the capture of Aba, the biggest town held by the Biafra secessionists.

Meanwhile the Red Cross prepared to begin an accelerated airlift of food and medicine into Nigeria's former Eastern region, where starvation is reported widespread.

The Nigerian government has agreed not to hamper such flights during the 10-day period starting Thursday.

"The Nigerian flag is proudly flying over Aba at 10 a.m.," said a government release following four days of reports of the city's fall from unofficial sources in Port Harcourt. "Care of the civilians in that area is already in progress."

Aba, an administrative and communications centre for the Biafrans since the fall of their capital, Enugu, last October, had a population of 131,000 before the war.

It was reported virtually deserted after the federal government started its final assault against the secessionists in mid-August.

The federal ministry of information announced the airlift agreement with the International Red Cross Committee Tuesday. Up to now, the federal government said it would shoot down any planes flying into secessionist Biafra, claiming the mercy flights were carrying arms into the breakaway former Eastern Region of Nigeria.

The Red Cross had announced Monday that it would begin daytime mercy flights despite the Nigerian blockade. The Red Cross and other private groups have been flying emergency supplies to two Biafran airstrips at night, but the amount of food they have been able to deliver is negligible compared with the needs of the millions threatened with starvation.

Following the meeting, Lindt left for the Spanish island of Fernando Poo, south of Nigeria, to organize and lead the first daytime mercy flight permitted by the federal government.

REFUSE LAND ROUTE

Nigerian officials said the Red Cross also agreed to try to get the Biafrans to open an emergency land and water relief corridor. The Biafrans have refused to accept supplies this way, claiming the federal government would use the route for military purposes and would poison any food passing through its territory.

The flights will be made by five planes—each carrying about 50 tons—supplied by the Red Cross in Switzerland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland. The Dutch Red Cross is expected to provide a sixth plane later. Some 3,500 tons of food have been stockpiled on Fernando Poo.

Fighting has been reported around the town of Owerri, 50 miles northwest of Port Harcourt, with heavy casualties on both sides.

NEITHER Republicans nor Democrats can satisfy the North Vietnam delegation to the Paris peace talks insofar as their war policies are concerned. Xuan Thuy, chief of the North Vietnam delegation, told newsmen outside the International Conference centre that both Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon plan to push the war in Vietnam. Others in the delegation are Le Duc Tho, extreme left, and Nguyen Than Le, extreme right. (AP Wirephoto)

Vietnam Policies Rejected

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam today rejected the Vietnam policies of both the Democratic and Republican contenders for the U.S. presidency and charged Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon are planning to continue the war.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy delivered his blast at the 20th session of the Paris peace talks in the course of an analysis, as he saw it, of the way the two chief American parties are handling the issue of Vietnam in the U.S. election scheduled Nov. 5.

"Confronted with defeat that they are unable to conceal any longer and with the ever-increasing public protests, the present U.S. authorities as well as the majority in both the Republican and Democratic parties have been forced to talk about peace," Xuan Thuy argued.

"But the positions embodied in the two platforms recently passed show that they still refuse to draw practical lessons from their recent defeats and to move towards a correct solution of the Vietnam problem."

The attack of Hanoi's poet-diplomat drew an immediate retort from American Ambassador Averell Harriman who insisted both the Democrats and Republicans wanted peace.

"I suggested to them (the North Vietnamese) it was quite impossible for one who had lived in a controlled society without free speech and without free expression to understand that there was complete freedom of expression and the right to demonstrate (in America)," Harriman later told newspaper men.

For his part Xuan Thuy reported to journalists "no progress" had been made in the session.

Move to Combat Soviet Invasion

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The western allies announced today they are re-planning the strength and deployment of military forces in Europe because of the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The announcement was made by a North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) spokesman after a meeting of NATO's defense planning committee.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is willing to pledge along with its NATO allies to maintain current troop levels in Europe as one way to meet the Soviet move into Czechoslovakia, U.S. administration sources say.

The sources say the issuing of such a pledge probably would be done in a joint statement.

They said this was among alternatives before today's meeting of the National Security Council, major U.S. policy-making body, called to deal with the Soviet presence in Czechoslovakia, which points like a dagger at the heart of Western Europe.

President Johnson scheduled the meeting with his top military, defence and diplomatic aides for late afternoon. The president returned to Washington this morning from a long stay at his Texas ranch.

The council session parallels a similar review now going on at the North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters in Brussels.

U.S. officials are reluctant to predict what the council will decide, but they acknowledge the U.S. would be agreeable to issuing a joint statement with its allies pledging no further reductions of forces in Europe.

WILL SHELVE REQUESTS

Regarding U.S. forces in Europe it now is clear that U.S. congressional requests for troop reductions can be shelved, the officials said.

Under a 1967 agreement, 34,000 U.S. troops in Europe were to be redeployed and stationed in the U.S., though committed to NATO. They are back in the United States, but officials indicated that the defence department might soon announce when the men would be sent

Early Parley Slated

OTTAWA (CP) — NATO foreign and defence ministers may meet earlier than at their regularly-scheduled December conference in Brussels, informants said today.

A fall meeting is not ruled out.

Object of such a special meeting would be to review the implications for the NATO alliance of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Prime Minister Trudeau has opposed any massing of NATO troops on the Czechoslovakia border as a provocation to Russia.

Both he and Defence Minister Cadieux have said there will be no further reduction in Canada's military strength in Europe this year at least. Canada maintains a 5,000-man infantry brigade and six squardons of jet bombers in West Germany.

PM Urges Provinces To Discuss Reforms

VANCOUVER — Prime Minister Trudeau used his first major speech since the election to appeal to all provinces to "engage fully" in the continuing debate on constitutional reform.

Unless they do, he said Tuesday, discussions will lack meaning. He made a special plea to provincial premiers to take part in sustained and joint action toward constitutional review.

On the possibility of Senate reform he posed this question:

"Could the Senate, by changes in its composition, method of selection or jurisdiction, be made a more effective protector of regional or linguistic interests?"

On the Supreme Court:

"Could the structure of the Supreme Court be strengthened as the keystone of Canadian federalism?"

He rebuked some provincial premiers for failing to take a stand on Quebec's bid for extension of provincial powers into international affairs.

"It has been reported that none of the heads of provincial delegations (to the continuing federal-provincial conference on constitutional affairs) would either endorse or reject the Quebec position," he said.

"One premier (the prime minister did not name him) is quoted as saying that he preferred to let the question be settled by the heads of the Quebec and federal governments.

"This puts the whole issue in a false perspective," Trudeau said.

"It is a difference of opinion about how our federal system should work and therefore about

Psychiatric Nurses Arbitrate Tuesday

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of British Columbia's psychiatric nurses and the provincial government will meet Tuesday in an attempt to solve a two-year-old dispute over working conditions.

A new three-man B.C. Mediation Commission—in its first test of its powers under Bill 33—is to act as arbitrator.

Dwight Wenham, executive secretary of the B.C. Psychiatric Nurses Association, said he was pessimistic about the outcome.

"There is no indication that the provisions of Bill 33 will have any improving effect," he said. "In fact there are a number of indications that Bill 33 will provide the government with a new toll with which to escape its responsibility for fair dealing."

RUSSIA BARES CENSORSHIP RULES

PRAGUE (AP) — Strict censorship rules were announced today as the Soviet Union tightened its grip on occupied Czechoslovakia.

Domestic censorship rules were delivered to newspaper offices, radio and television stations:

—No news reports or commentaries on the Soviet Union, Hungary, Bulgaria, Poland and East Germany that "could be considered as criticism" by these countries.

—No criticisms of the fundamental principles of socialism, of the Czechoslovak Communist party, of the other countries' parties, of the Czechoslovak army and police. Reprinting of critical commentaries from abroad is forbidden.

—No articles inciting Czechoslovaks to rebel against the occupation troops.

—The term "occupants" and "occupation" is forbidden.

—Foreign-policy commentaries must not popularize the idea of neutrality nor play up the activities of the United Nations Security Council. Only the official viewpoint of the Czechoslovak government may be published.

—Rules on economic and military secrets, laid down before the invasion, remain in effect.

TWO VIETNAM NEWSPAPERS SUSPENDED

SAIGON (AP) — Two Vietnamese-language newspapers have been temporarily suspended by the government for printing an Associated Press story dealing with Premier Tran Van Huong's moves against corruption. The papers are the Saigon Moi and the Song Nai.

Earlier, the Saigon Post, published in English, was suspended.

Parts of the AP story were censored from other newspapers — the first time such censorship has been applied since Huong became premier four months ago. From time to time Saigon newspapers have been suspended on various charges of printing material the government disliked.

Mail Service Profit Target of Task Force

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Ottawa Bureau
(See story Page 7)

OTTAWA — Postmaster General Eric Kierans said today he hopes to have the post office paying its own way and returning a small profit in two years.

Two task forces are to undertake a "complete re-examination" of post office operations, Mr. Kierans said, and will consider such possibilities as transforming the department into a crown corporation and dropping Saturday mail deliveries.

A major dent in the current deficit, will be made by reducing but not abolishing the subsidies on second-class mail, mainly newspapers and periodicals.

The loss on second class mail accounts for $47 million of the deficit for the current fiscal year. Total deficit, without the effects of the three-week postal strike in July and August, would have been $95.5 million.

The $95.5 million figure includes cost of renting post office buildings and superannuation costs formerly carried by the public works and finance departments. With these costs excluded the deficit would have been $43.5 million.

Mr. Kierans said the department was recovering only about 22 per cent of the cost of distributing newspapers and magazines as second class mail. Although the new policy of the department is to make each class of mail pay its own way or its fair share of costs, he said it would be impossible to go in one jump from recovering 22 per cent to full recovery of costs.

Tel Aviv Bus Depot Bombed

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — One person was killed and 49 others wounded in three explosions today near Tel Aviv's central bus station, police sources said.

The three blasts were heard at intervals of a few seconds shortly before noon. Normally the station would be crowded with travellers at that time.

Preliminary reports said explosive charges, believed planted by Arab terrorists, went off at different places around the station's compound.

The explosions—only two weeks after a similar chain of blasts brought chaos to Jerusalem—touched off wild crowd scenes at the terminal.

Police fanned out, rounding up Arabs who ran a gauntlet of jostling, jeering Israelis. At least one Arab was bloodied after an apparent beating.

As the Arabs were hurried from the police station to special buses a mob of more than 300 surged against a thin cordon of police and troops.

Israel's biggest city has not experienced an attack of such intensity in at least 10 years.

Sik Out; Hajek Next to Go

By PETER REHAK

PRAGUE (AP) — The architect of Czechoslovakia's economic reform program has resigned and the foreign minister appears to be on the way out as a result of policies that angered the Kremlin.

Deputy Premier Ota Sik, whose policies envisioned trade and aid from the West and efforts to break free from dependence on the Soviet Union, resigned Tuesday night, Prague Radio reported. It said President Ludvik Svoboda accepted the resignation.

Reuters news agency quoted free radio broadcasts heard in Prague as saying Czechoslovakia will send a delegation to Moscow soon to discuss economic matters. Topics were expected to include Czechoslovak trade policy, the country's need for big credits to pep up its economy and a request for compensation for damage done by the Warsaw pact occupying forces.

The Soviet government made plain it also expects the ouster of Foreign Minister Jiri Hajek. The government newspaper Izvestia called him an "accomplice of the dark forces of reaction and counter-revolution" and accused him of seeking foreign policy changes which Moscow opposes, including closer ties with the West.

Hajek also angered the Soviets by seeking the support of Yugoslavia and Romania—both rebels against Kremlin domination.

Izvestia also attacked Sik along with Planning Minister Frantisek Vlasak and State Control Minister Stefan Gasparik.

Vlasak and Gasparik returned to Prague from Yugoslavia Tuesday, but Sik remained in Belgrade and Hajek is in Switzerland. Sik and Hajek have been abroad since before Soviet, Bulgarian, Hungarian, Polish and East German troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 21.

Hajek came to New York for the UN Security Council debate on the invasion, but on orders from Prague asked the council to drop the matter after Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders reached an agreement in four days of negotiations in Moscow.

That agreement provided for gradual withdrawal of occupation troops as the situation "normalized," but Czechoslovak Communist party officials seem increasingly convinced that the Russians will stay for years, perhaps decades.

The invasion frayed the ideological ties that bound the Czechoslovak Army to its Warsaw pact allies and one Communist source said: "I just cannot see how they could risk leaving our country during the next 10 years."

Izvestia said occupation troops were ordered into the cities of Cheb and Karlovy Vary near the West German border because "in recent days reactionary forces have succeeded in stirring up disorder" there. It did not describe the disorders.

'Canada Leading Plot' To Renew Crisis Talks

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, today accuses George Ignatieff, Canada's United Nations ambassador, of plotting to renew discussion of the Czechoslovak crisis at the UN.

Pravda's New York correspondent, B. Orekhov, writes that discussions now taking place between the Western Allies at the headquarters of the Canadian UN mission "resemble the conduct of plotters working out another gamble."

Orekhov said Ignatieff had acted as the "marksman" for the original Western resolution brought before the Security Council after the Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

"The Canadian representative has become active once again," the Soviet correspondent writes. The British delegate, Lord Caradon, "has joined him in the ranks of the plotters."

Ignatieff, 54, is president of the 15-nation Security Council for the month of September. He is the youngest of three sons of Count Paul Ignatieff, a minister of education in Russia under the czars, who fled with his family to England and later to Canada following the Bolshevik Revolution.

IGNATIEFF
. . . target of article

The Canadian- and Oxford-educated ambassador has been in the Canadian diplomatic service since 1940.

Orekhov also criticizes what he calls the "inexplicable activity" of the chief Chilean delegate, Jose Pinera, who has been sounding out opinion on a possible discussion of Czechoslovakia in the UN General Assembly.

He writes that Pinera "is following the steps of one of his predecessors who in 1948 was one of the initiators of the presentation to the United Nations of the question 'about events in Czechoslovakia.'

"Everyone remembers how the attempt at a counter-revolutionary coup in Czechoslovakia 20 ears ago ended, and in what an uncomfortable position the then Chilean delegation put himself."

Orekhov adds:

"The representatives of the imperialist powers are continuing their attempts to exploit the international body for their selfish ends. Refusing to be guided by common sense, they continue bustling in the hope of scoring some propaganda success."

FLOWER SHOW

Children's Group Gave Adults Lead

By AL BIRNIE

To the Gordon Head Garden Club, the motto "A little child shall lead them" aptly describes their own history.

For the group, holding it's 14th annual fall show Saturday, spring from a children's group started by veteran gardener E. M. Renouf in 1950.

"When the grown-ups saw what the youngsters could do, they decided to follow their example, so we called a meeting and launched our own club in 1953," said Mr. Renouf, of 4170 Tyndall.

The club has since grown from 20 to more than 125 members, one of the larger garden clubs on the Island.

The fall show, to be held in the Gordon Head Community Hall from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday, offers prizes in 98 classed of general flowers, decorative arrangement, house plants, general fruit, general vegetables, and junior section.

Five trophies, three of them open to non-members, will be awarded for high aggregate points in various sections.

Exhibitors may enter one tiem, that is owned and grown by themselves, in each class, with an entry fee of 10 cents for each item. Notice of entried must be in the hands of Mr. F. H. Graham, 1712 Jonnelly, not later than 6 p.m. Friday, and exhibits must be in position by 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. Renouf, who worked as a professional gardener for 55 years, before his retirement, continues as honorary president and life member of the club, and will naturally be on hand all day Saturday.

Admission to the fall show is 25 cents, with door prizes every hour.

Missing Girl Being Sought

City police have requested help in locating a 15-year-old missing from her home since Saturday.

Catherine Sutherland, of 532 Linden, is five feet five inches tall, and very slim, weighing 105 pounds.

Lion Foils Gladiator's Daring Act

JAKARTA (Reuters) — Resplendent in scarlet loincloth, Indonesian gladiator Bandot Lahardo strode into a soccer stadium, intent on killing a ferocious African lion barehanded before 100,000 spectators.

But the lion turned chicken and refused to fight.

Foreign Minister Adam Malik was in the crowd which booed the gladiator Sunday night while armed stadium workers tried unsuccessfully to goad the lion into action.

Perhaps the animal had heard of Lahardo's exploits in Surabaya, East Java, where he recently killed a tiger and two bulls with his bare hands. Or it may have seen a television program in which a large truck ran over the 39-year-old gladiator's body without hurting him.

But a bull, brought into the arena after the lion's exit, entered into the spirit of things and charged the gladiator, wounding him slightly in the chest before being driven into a cage.

Heart Patient Fast Improving

MONTREAL (CP) — Elie Zaor, Canada's third heart transplant patient, was transferred Tuesday to a special sterile room at the Montreal Heart Institute because of his improved condition.

Mr. Zaor, 58, a widowed father of five, previously had been in the operating room, normal procedure for heart transplant patients at the institute.

"Taking into consideration the major vascular operation which he underwent on Sunday, the patient is doing fine and his condition is progressing very satisfactorily," an institute bulletin said Tuesday.

It is said oral feeding has been discontinued because of the emergency three-hour operation Mr. Zaor underwent Sunday to clear up a blood clot which had formed in an "aneurism" of the abdominal part of the aorta.

The aneurism, a weakening of tissue in the artery causing it to bulge out over a small area, was removed during the surgery —performed about a day and a half after the Turkish-born resident of Sherbrooke, Que., received his new heart—and replaced with a Y-shaped dacron graft.

TWO CHILDREN VISIT

Mr. Zaor received visits Tuesday from two of his children, the bulletin said.

An institute report earlier in the day said "everything is fine" with the patient, who received his new heart Friday night from Aime Lamothe, 35, a welder from Sorel, Que., who died of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Less than 24 hours later, on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Zaor sat up in his bed and chatted occasionally with his doctors and nurses.

Monday, he received a first visit from his only son, Lawrence, 22, who was able to stay only 10 minutes. His father was still under the effects of the anesthesia administered during the second operation.

Gaetan Paris, 49, Canada's second heart transplant patient, was sent home to suburban Laval last Tuesday, about two months after his operation in mid-June. Albert Murphy, 59, the first such patient, died June 1, only 46 hours after he received a new heart.

Since the first heart transplant operation was performed in South Africa last December, 37 others have been done in various countries. Eighteen patients survive to date.

B.C. Announces Foreign Posts For Travel Men

B.C.'s "travel men" will do some themselves as a result of new postings announced today.

A press release by the provincial travel industry department said Harry Harrod will be shifted from B.C. House in San Francisco to London, England, where he will handle travel promotion in Britain and Europe.

Taking his place in San Francisco will be Rod Fraser, who has been in charge of the department's exhibits at various fairs and shows.

The release also said a further appointment will be made later adding a travel representative to the provincial government's Los Angeles office.

Cong Down Jet, Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled another major South Vietnamese city today, and the U.S. command reported three American helicopters and a fighter-bomber shot down in the South. But a general lull in sustained fighting continued into a fifth day.

Two of the aircraft, a $2,000,000 ir Force F-4 Phantom and an Army helicopter, were downed three miles from the Cambodian border Tuesday, but all six crew members were rescued. The Phantom was supporting infantry northwest of Tay Ninh, and the helicopter was shot down as it tried to rescue the Phantom's two-man crew. Other helicopters completed the rescue.

Ground fire brought down another chopper in the central highlands, near An Keh. OLne airman was injured and the helicopter was destroyed.

Netherlands Queen Sees B.C. Premier

THE HAGUE (CP) — Premier Bennett had a one-hour audience with Queen Juliana of The Netherlands Tuesday and a round of talks with government and business leaders.

Queen Juliana visited British Columbia in 1967 as part of Canada's Centennial celebrations.

Following a government luncheon, the premier conferred with executives of the Netherlands Council for Trade Promotion, which represents the country's major exporters and importers.

Mr. Bennett, who has just started a three-week European visit, will tour Rotterdam harbor today.

Applications For Divorce Rise Sharply

MONTREAL (CP) — Almost 1,000 divorce petitions have been filed here during the two months since the new liberalized federal Divorce Act became law.

The figure for the months of July and August surpasses by almost 300 the number of divorce cases handled in Ottawa for the whole of Quebec province last year.

The province's divorce courts, the fidst in its history, were swamped with 407 petitions in July and 556 during August. Another 15 couples took advantage of the first elegible day in September to file petitions.

Court officials announced the first of the cases are to be heard next Tuesday with a total of 125 scheduled to be processed during September. All are uncontested.

An additional 400 cases will be heard in October in the Divorce Court, a newly-created division of Quebec Superior Court.

Court registrar Jacques Perron said the majority of petitioners are citing as grounds the fact that they have been separated from their spouses for more than three years.

This is one of the grounds which comes under the general heading of marriage breakdown and also includes mental and physical cruelty.

Surf Runs High

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite 12-foot waves battering Southern California beaches, lifeguards couldn't keep swimmers out of deep water. More than 36 were rescued at Zuma Beach alone as 340,000 flocked to Southern California coast beaches.

Doctor Helps End Basement Siege

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A man who shot and wounded two persons and then barricaded himself in a basement laundry room with his 22-months-old daughter as hostage was talked into surrendering early today by his family physician.

The child, Sabrina Crider, was unhurt as Winston Mitchell, 27, a former convict, walked trembling from the windowless room where he had held police at bay for eight hours with his threat to kill the girl.

The breakthrough came when Dr. Jesse Pone, 43, heard about the incident on his car radio while driving home from a Massachusetts vacation and raced here to help.

"I've had pretty good rapport with him in the past and thought I could help," said Pone, who arrived about 2 a.m. He said he had treated Mitchell several times during the last five years.

Heart Patient Fast Improving

MONTREAL (CP) — Elie Zaor, Canada's third heart transplant patient, was transferred Tuesday to a special sterile room at the Montreal Heart Institute because of his improved condition.

Mr. Zaor, 58, a widowed father of five, previously had been in the operating room, normal procedure for heart transplant patients at the institute.

"Taking into consideration the major vascular operation which he underwent on Sunday, the patient is doing fine and his condition is progressing very satisfactorily," an institute bulletin said Tuesday.

It is said oral feeding has been discontinued because of the emergency three-hour operation Mr. Zaor underwent Sunday to clear up a blood clot which had formed in an "aneurism" of the abdominal part of the aorta.

The aneurism, a weakening of tissue in the artery causing it to bulge out over a small area, was removed during the surgery —performed about a day and a half after the Turkish-born resident of Sherbrooke, Que., received his new heart—and replaced with a Y-shaped dacron graft.

TWO CHILDREN VISIT

Mr. Zaor received visits Tuesday from two of his children, the bulletin said.

An institute report earlier in the day said "everything is fine" with the patient, who received his new heart Friday night from Aime Lamothe, 35, a welder from Sorel, Que., who died of a massive cerebral hemorrhage.

Less than 24 hours later, on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Zaor sat up in his bed and chatted occasionally with his doctors and nurses.

Monday, he received a first visit from his only son, Lawrence, 22, who was able to stay only 10 minutes. His father was still under the effects of the anesthesia administered during the second operation.

Gaetan Paris, 49, Canada's second heart transplant patient, was sent home to suburban Laval last Tuesday, about two months after his operation in mid-June. Albert Murphy, 59, the first such patient, died June 1, only 46 hours after he received a new heart.

Since the first heart transplant operation was performed in South Africa last December, 37 others have been done in various countries. Eighteen patients survive to date.

B.C. Announces Foreign Posts For Travel Men

B.C.'s "travel men" will do some themselves as a result of new postings announced today.

A press release by the provincial travel industry department said Harry Harrod will be shifted from B.C. House in San Francisco to London, England, where he will handle travel promotion in Britain and Europe.

Taking his place in San Francisco will be Rod Fraser, who has been in charge of the department's exhibits at various fairs and shows.

The release also said a further appointment will be made later adding a travel representative to the provincial government's Los Angeles office.

Applications For Divorce Rise Sharply

MONTREAL (CP) — Almost 1,000 divorce petitions have been filed here during the two months since the new liberalized federal Divorce Act became law.

The figure for the months of July and August surpasses by almost 300 the number of divorce cases handled in Ottawa for the whole of Quebec province last year.

The province's divorce courts, the first in its history, were swamped with 407 petitions in July and 556 during August. Another 15 couples took advantage of the first elegible day in September to file petitions.

Court officials announced the first of the cases are to be heard next Tuesday with a total of 125 scheduled to be processed during September. All are uncontested.

An additional 400 cases will be heard in October in the Divorce Court, a newly-created division of Quebec Superior Court.

Court registrar Jacques Perron said the majority of petitioners are citing as grounds the fact that they have been separated from their spouses for more than three years.

This is one of the grounds which comes under the general heading of marriage breakdown and also includes mental and physical cruelty.

Surf Runs High

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite 12-foot waves battering Southern California beaches, lifeguards couldn't keep swimmers out of deep water. More than 36 were rescued at Zuma Beach alone as 340,000 flocked to Southern California coast beaches.

Cong Down Jet, Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong gunners shelled another major South Vietnamese city today, and the U.S. command reported three American helicopters and a fighter-bomber shot down in the South. But a general lull in sustained fighting continued into a fifth day.

Two of the aircraft, a $2,000,000 ir Force F-4 Phantom and an Army helicopter, were downed three miles from the Cambodian border Tuesday, but all six crew members were rescued. The Phantom was supporting infantry northwest of Tay Ninh, and the helicopter was shot down as it tried to rescue the Phantom's two-man crew. Other helicopters completed the rescue.

Ground fire brought down another chopper in the central highlands, near An Keh, OLne airman was injured and the helicopter was destroyed.

Netherlands Queen Sees B.C. Premier

THE HAGUE (CP) — Premier Bennett had a one-hour audience with Queen Juliana of The Netherlands Tuesday and a round of talks with government and business leaders.

Queen Juliana visited British Columbia in 1967 as part of Canada's Centennial celebrations.

Following a government luncheon, the premier conferred with executives of the Netherlands Council for Trade Promotion, which represents the country's major exporters and importers.

Mr. Bennett, who has just started a three-week European visit, will tour Rotterdam harbor today.

Doctor Helps End Basement Siege

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A man who shot and wounded two persons and then barricaded himself in a basement laundry room with his 22-months-old daughter as hostage was talked into surrendering early today by his family physician.

The child, Sabrina Crider, was unhurt as Winston Mitchell, 27, a former convict, walked trembling from the windowless room where he had held police at bay for eight hours with his threat to kill the girl.

The breakthrough came when Dr. Jesse Pone, 43, heard about the incident on his car radio while driving home from a Massachusetts vacation and raced here to help.

"I've had pretty good rapport with him in the past and thought I could help," said Pone, who arrived about 2 a.m. He said he had treated Mitchell several times during the last five years.

Cost Is Key To Building Unique Pool

By JIM HUME

Revolutionary design proposals for a swimming pool to replace the Crystal Garden have received cautious approval from Mayor Hugh Stephen and Ald. Percy Frampton.

The key to whether we go with this proposal or something more modest lies in the cost," Ald Frampton, chairman of the city's recreation committee, said Tusday. "As yet we have no cost figure although the amount being talked about is close to $1 million.

"If we can find that kind of money I'm all for it. I don't see how anyone could be against the proposal if the money is there. It is completely revolutionary and would more than put Victoria on the map."

The design recommendations submitted by J. Austin Smith, a United States swimming pool design expert, will be presented to the city's recreation committee in the near future, possibly a soon as next week.

Stephen

Four major recommendations are contained in a detailed brief prepared by Mr. Smith. They are:

● An eight-lane 25-meter racing area running across the width of the pool rather than length.

● A flaring out of the pool from the mid-length point to one end with the closing of the flared end at a two-inch water depth to provide a beach effect.

● Mechanically created ocean waves breaking into white caps at mid-pool and subsiding into gentle breakers at the "beach" end of the pool.

● Provision for a 10-meter diving board at the deep, 16-feet, end.

"Some of the suggestions are tremendous," said Ald. Frampton, "I particularly like the idea of the shallow end for the youngsters and the beach effect surrounding it.

"But we have to face facts. It's a pretty ambitious and extensive undertaking which, eventually, will come down to money."

Mayor Stephen advocated a new look in swimming pools several months ago when city council reluctantly decided the Crystal had moved beyond the point of no return and must fall to the wrecker's hammer.

He is still an enthusiast for the wave-making concept which would give Victoria a first of its kind in Canada and possibly North America.

At that time the mayor appealed for a break from what he termed the traditional swimming hole concept of swimming pools "which are nothing more than a hole in the ground filled with water."

Asked for his thoughts on the new proposals he said he was still "most enthusiastic to see a swimming pool built which will give Victorians a recreation area rather than just a place to swim."

In his brief to the city Mr. Smith suggests that the swimming pool geared to all aquatic activities should be approximately 82 feet in width at the deep end widening out to 132 feet at the semi-circular beach end.

The pool, to fulfill all the requirements in the brief, would be roughly 179 feet in total length with 82 feet of that area reserved for the recreational swimmer, 82 feet occupied by swimming lanes and the balance by the wave making machinery.

When the swimming lanes are not in use for racing the entire pool would be used for recreational swimming.

Mr. Smith notes that European pools using the wave-making machinery work on a 10-minute activated period followed by 20 minutes of calm water.

Frampton

"The popularity of this new method of variable activation may be measured by the substantial number of persons who leave the swimpool during the quiet water period but quickly return when activation is resumed," the brief states.

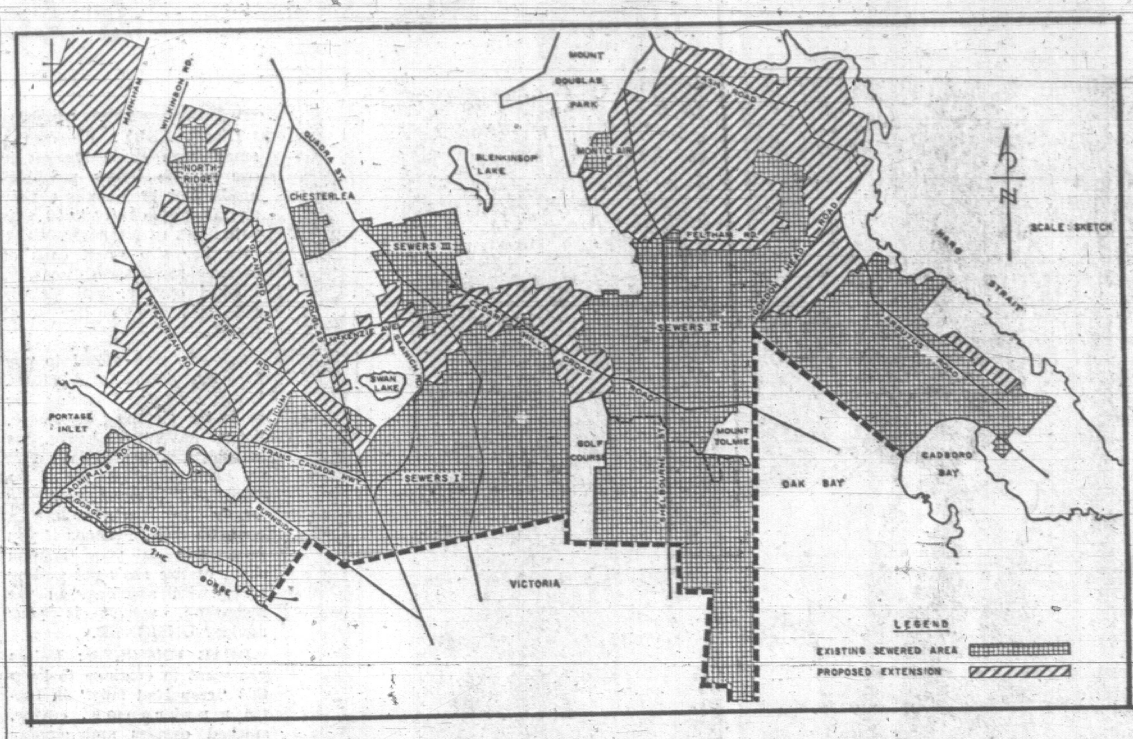
Mr. Smith made his observations following a recent trip to Geemany where wave-making machinery is in common use in swimming pools.

At the conclusion of his brief Mr. Smith suggests that if the city decided to go for the revolutionary concept it go one stage further and make small sections of the underwater walls of glass.

He states that small trainer observation rooms looking into the pool from below the surface, would be of great value to swimming and diving coaches.

"You may want to give consideration to the advisability of having a small trainers' observation room adjoining the diving and racing area where trainers can observe, through windows in the swimming pool wall, the action of the divers and the swimming trainees — a feature which has proven of inestimable value in other countries."

Ald. Frampton said he does not expect an early decision on the proposals. "But they will be discussed at our next reaction committee meeting, probably next week," he said.



SEWER ENTERPRISE in Saanich will cover the shaded areas if approved by property owners in Sept. 28 referendum. Existing sewer system, comprising six areas and 45 different rates, encompasses just over half the population. Vote is on collection of sewage, not disposal, where provincial authorities have final word. Existing sewered area, and adjacent unsewered land marked in the drawing, will be combined into the one enterprise with a common charge of $22.14 for debt and $7 for maintenance per year. Existing charges range from a low of $27 a year (debt plus maintenance) to a high of $137 a year. Everyone would pay common charge, except those outside the sewered and the to-be-sewered areas, who will pay nothing. Residents in the to-be-sewered area will pay $22.14 a year immediately and receive sewers gradually under a five-year construction program. Residents in sewered areas will receive an $8.70 annual rebate for as long as their area has been paying for sewers. In the case of Sewer Area 1, which serves 7,007 properties, this will last for 16 years. As an example of how the common charge of $22.14 will increase as new work is undertaken and money borrowed, $500,000 will increase the charge by $3 a year.

Split Seen Widening On Sewers

Campbell Backs Council In Opposing Loffmark

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A sharp split within the provincial cabinet over the Sept. 28 Saanich sewerage consolidation referendum became more apparent Tuesday night.

A letter from the minister of municipal affairs, Dan Campbell, was read to council in which he all but voiced complete support for the vote.

Earlier, on two occasions, Health Minister Ralph Loffmark made comments in interviews that the vote is illegal, misleading and "might lead to an appearance of subterfuge."

Mr. Campbell's letter on the referendum, however, expressed a number of views which coincide with public statements from Saanich council and officials.

Mr. Campbell said while it is unusual for the department to "enter the question of influencing a vote," it is a fact that because of legislative requirements the department has been involved in the preparation of the bylaw and "the necessary legislation upon which it rests."

(Saanich authority to submit the bylaw to ratepayers is contained in two pieces of enabling legislation, one passed by the legislature in 1967 and the other in 1968).

CONFUSION EXISTS

Mr. Campbell said there is confusion but the Saanich bylaw is merely a consolidation of sewage areas.

Sewage disposal methods, still a controversial question, are not involved, he said.

"This bylaw should be understood to be exactly what it is and that is, simply a consolidation of the existing sewerage areas for the purposes of sounder management, better administration and more understable financing," he wrote.

The minister said he trusted that his letter "will clarify the nature of the bylaw" which will be presented to ratepayers Sept. 28.

Last month, Mr. Loffmark said "it would be misleading and therefore might lead to an appearance of subterfuge on the part of the municipal council" if voters are not given the option to express an opinion on sewage treatment.

Saanich spokesman have replied that such decisions cannot be made by Saanich because the law requires approval for additional discharge — by whatever method — from the B.C. Pollution Control Board and the health department.

NO NEW WORKS

The vote itself, if carried by 60 per cent of the property owners who cast ballots, will not create any additional sewage discharge or any new works.

When expansion of sewers is undertaken, as Saanich plans to do in a five-year program, provincial approval is legally necessary for the additional discharge resulting from the expansion.

This has been made clear by Saanich officials on several occasions including two public meetings last month.

At Tuesday night's meeting, several members of council applauded the minister of municipal affairs for his comments.

"The letter clarifies the issue," said Ald. Edith Gunning.

"This vote is separate from disposal. I could wish another cabinet minister . . . would indicate that he understands the separation of the two issues."

Ald. Alan Newberry said "it is significant that this cabinet minister (Mr. Campbell) is the cabinet minister who is most familiar with what we are trying to do."

HALF TRUTHS

The council comments were in contrast to those which greeted Mr. Loffmark last week when he said the bylaw is illegal without his department's stamp of approval. Mayor Hugh Curtis called this and other comments half truths.

In other business on the Sept. 28 referendum:

● Council gave the necessary bylaw three readings (final reading will be given if the measure gains ratepayer approval);

● Appointed clerk Gordon Hayward as returning officer and chose the usual 13 polling stations used at election time;

● Named deputy returning officers also deputy clerks so they can issue certificates to owner-electors who have become qualified since the last list closed last Sept. 30;

● Agreed to set up a sewer enterprise information desk and telephone at the municipal hall so the public can get first-hand information between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Sept. 23 to Sept. 27;

● Agreed to hold a third public meeting on the issue Wednesday, Sept. 11 at a place to be decided.

MORE EARS EXPECTED

A public meeting on the Saanich sewerage enterprise referendum will be held in Cloverdale Elementary School auditorium next Wednesday at 8 p.m. and a big crowd is expected.

Arranged by Saanich council, the purpose of the meeting is to explain and discuss the Sept. 28 referendum.

Two earlier public meetings, at the municipal hall, were largely attended by persons who recived invitations. They were residents who have complained in the past about lack of sewers and filthy ditches.

Church Crisis Needs Patience Bishop States

Bishop Remi De Roo, head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island today appealed to the public not to draw "hasty conclusions" over the Roman Catholic crisis on birth control.

See Page 33

"This is a conflict of conscience," he said, "and I hope no severe measures will be handed out which would further aggravate the conflict."

Bishop De Roo was commenting on a statement from Washington that Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle has given 52 Washington-area priests until Sept. 14 to accept Pope Paul's encyclical condemning birth control, or face "church penalties."

One Priest, Rev. T. Joseph O'Donoghue, has already been suspended for reading statements of dissent on the Pope's encyclical.

Said Bishop De Roo:

"I think it is premature to draw any immediate conclusions. Much more reflection and study and prayer are required before we can solve the fundamental issues that are here in conflict.

NO PERSONAL STAND

"I have no personal opinion on the issue of birth control at present, but I am studying all dimensions of it. And I shall consult with clergy and laymen and women throughout the diocese on the subject."

Bishop De Roo, 44, has just returned from the Anglican Lambeth Conference in London, England, which he attended as a Roman Catholic observer.

He was the only Roman Catholic priest in North America to be invited to the historic world conference of Anglican bishops.

Bishop De Roo has been head of the Roman Catholic Church on Vancouver Island since 1962.

In Washington, Cardinal O'Boyle referred to a statement signed by the 52 priests as "an attack on authority."

The priests urged that, under some circumstances, married Catholics may be guided by their own conscience on using artificial contraception.

Cardinal O'Boyle said he will insist on an individual retraction by each of the priests. He did not specify what the penalties would be if they refused.

A spokesman for the priests has said they will refuse.

SEE A RUSSIAN? SMILE AND WAVE

By JOHN SLINGER

The Russians have landed.

They have landed in the Gulf Islands.

Since the weekend, long-boats full of them have been putting off a ship anchored in the lee of Thetis Island and pulling for the quiet beaches of Tent Island.

One woman witness to the landing said she saw the boats, filled with men and women and flying the red flag, pull to Tent Island then return to the ship for more men and women.

The Canadian Coast Guard this morning had not received word of the invasion. Nothing. But the RCMP had them under surveillance.

RCMP at Chemainus speculater the Russian men and women might be heading for Tent Island for a little exercise, a little sunshine, a change of scenery.

They're from the ship Meridian waiting to finish loading a cargo of pulp and newsprint at Crofton.

They're taking the cargo to Melbourne, Australia.

Russian ships carry mixed crews. Men and women. The Meridian carries 170 of them.

Islanders sailing or fishing in the area are urgently requested to indicate friendliness. Smile, Wave, Say hello.

Six More Dorms In University's College System

Tenders are expected to be called Oct. 16 for construction of six residence buildings that will become Lansdowne College at Uvic, a spokesman for architects Siddall Dennis and Associates said today.

The college is one of six planned to ring the university centre by the mid-1970s.

Architect David Warner said the six inter-connected residences will be built around two quadrangles southwest of the commons building now nearing completion.

Some 240 students — half of them men, half women — will be housed in single and double rooms in the 3½-story textured concrete buildings.

TWO CONTRACTS

Mr. Warner said two contracts will probably be let, one for construction and one for furnishings.

Beneath the residences will be lecture and seminar rooms, library facilities, study and recreation space.

Lansdowne students will share dining facilities in the central commons with students from the four residences that make up what now is called College 1.

The existing college houses about 300 men and women students. The College 1 complex was completed in 1966.

The commons block is to be finished this fall. Expected to cost between $1.5 million and $2 million, it will include two dining rooms with a total seating capacity of 550.

Completion date for the new residences is September, 1969.

The idea of creating small colleges within the university is part of Uvic's long-range plan to combat the impersonality of large universities.

Staff Unrest In Museum To Be Probed

Current unrest in the provincial museum staff has Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan worried.

Mr. Kiernan, who is minister responsible for the operation of the spanking new Centennial Museum opened last month in the $10 million Heritage Square project, said Tuesday he plans to find out what the trouble is.

He was asked for comment on an incident last week in which several employees, whose names were withheld, told a reporter there was considerable internal friction. A lack of co-ordination was alleged between the public works department responsible for the structure and the recreation department responsible for displays.

"If the civil servants are holding press conferences I think we have a little problem on our hands," said Mr. Kiernan.

"There seems to be something behind this and I intend to find out what it is."

He said he would take it up with museum director Dr. Clifford Carl.

STAFF CRITICISM

Unrest has been evident ever since construction began and the relatively small sums budgeted annually for acquiring and mounting exhibits contrasted glaringly with the millions poured into the structure.

This contrast has been criticized by staff along with vehement criticism of some of the displays, particularly the "rain curtain" and the carved wood whaling scene it frames in the main lobby.

Mass Meeting To Protest Sewage Scheme

By ED GOULD

A mass meeting of Salt Spring Islanders to protest plans for sea dumping of sewage has been called for Saturday, Sept. 14.

The meeting is the latest move by residents and summer visitors to fight a proposed sewage disposal scheme discharging into Trincomali Channel.

The residents plan a campaign to raise finances for a battle "right up to the supreme court if necessary."

Spokesman for the Salt Spring Island Anti-Pollution Society, Mrs. Robert Holloman, said today offers of money have come from residents of other Gulf Islands and from Vancouver and Burnaby.

She said Vancouver and Burnaby residents are incensed by the Pollution Control Board decision to grant a permit to allow the plan.

ALL CONCERNED

The off-islanders wish to be part of any protests that are planned.

Mrs. Ada Ryan, society president, is negotiating with a Vancouver Island biologist and other "impartial" experts to speak about the dangers of sewage to plant and animal life.

C. J. Keenan, director of pollution control, said in granting the permit last month to Maliview Estates Ltd., that opponents to the scheme to discharge 21,250 gallons per day of effluent into the channel could appeal the permit to the board or, ultimately, to the provincial government.

Mrs. Holloman said "many islanders have said if you need any money be sure to call on us. Since the scheme was passed people everywhere have become more belligerent."

She said a meeting was told last month that pollution was a fact of life and people would have to learn to live with it.

"We of Salt Spring do not intend to live with it," she said.

St. Louis Becomes Elementary School

St Louis College has been converted into a boys' and girls' elementary school at a cost of $60,000.

It is now known as St. Andrew's Elementary School and is open to Catholic and non-Catholic children, Grades 1 to 7.

Formerly a boys' Catholic school, St. Louis College closed down last June because of the failure of a drive to raise funds for renovation and expansion.

The three-story college has been fitted with a new roof and new plumbing and fire doors have been installed on all floors.

The old stone building at 1002 Pandora Avenue is now being repainted by the constractors, McInnis Construction Ltd. of Victoria.

St. Andrew's Elementary was formerly housed in a small building on North Park Street, and some of the equipment is still being transferred.

CURRICULUM

The school opened in its new location Tuesday morning with Sister Mary Theodoric of the Sisters of Saint Ann as principal.

Regular school subjects will be taught with the addition of Christian teaching and special Bible instruction.

There will also be a pre-school kindergarten.

"We believe this school will fill a need as many parents want their children to have more religious teaching than they get in the public schools," said a spokesman for the Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria.

Renovations required to keep 104-year-old St. Louis College in operation as a boy's school would have cost considerably more. A drive to raise $460,000 for this purpose within the Catholic community was unsuccessful.

Ask The Times

Q. A few years ago the provincial government made a large loan to the province of Quebec. What is the status of this loan now? Are regular interest payments being made? Is the principal being retired?—R.M.

A. The loan you are referring to was one of 100 million dollars made after the Columbia River Treaty Sept. 16, 1964. Under the agreement repayment was to take place as follows: 40 million dollars December 1, 1965; 40 million dollars December 1, 1967; and 20 million dollars Oct. 15, 1968. Interest was to be paid semi annually. To date, Quebec has been punctual with all payments on principal and interest.

Patient Progressing After Rare Operation

A Victoria man who underwent an historic spinal operation Aug. 2 is sitting up and dangling his legs over the side of his bed Royal Jubilee Hospital officials report today.

The patient, who so far has remained unidentified, had a diseased spinal column bone replaced with a metal substitute, in an operation which was a first for Canada and probably the world.

The doctor in charge, also unidentified, said the man is in good spirits and has shown no weaknesses after a complete neurological examination.

A hospital spokesman said doctors had achieved their first aim which was to prevent paralysis and were now concentrating on the second aspect—activation of the patient.

He said the doctors are "playing it by ear" with regard to controlling the actions of the patient since there is no precedent to follow.

The man is over 60, said the spokeman, and tires easily.

The patient would have been bedridden for the rest of his life if the operation had not been performed hospital officials said earlier.

SMILING CONFIDENTLY city manager Dennis Young, centre, and his assistant William Hooson, right, assured Kris Kristjanson, president of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada, that the Empress Hotel Ballroom would be clear of workmen by noon today. Mr. Kristjanson, who led close to 200 delegates to the city Tuesday for a three-day conference, appears to lack the confidence of his local hosts. But the city hall duo was right. On the stroke of midnight last night only one workman remained in the renovated ballroom, his task to polish the massive floor before the first light of dawn. The annual convention opened this morning at the University of Victoria, switching to the Empress for the afternon session. (Times Photo)

New Imperial Profit

New Imperial Mines today reported net earnings of $440,400 and revenue from concentrates of $3,273,593 in the first six months of 1968.

President Arnold Pitt said working capital on June 30 was $206,316 against $931,232 last. year. Share earnings for the six-month period were 7.2 cents.

Mr. Pitt said shipments of copper concentrates to Japan began in August, 1967, from the company's mine near Whitehorse in the Yukon, and since that time the company has moved 22,273 short wet tons with a gross value of $7,516,164.

Royal Bank

Royal Bank of Canada has reported an increase in profits for the quarter ended July 31 of $7 million, or 23.5 cents a share, compared with 6.6 million or 20.1 cents a share in 1967.

Revenues were $138 million against $103.7 million. Expenses were $109.9 million to $88 milion.

Net profits for the first nine months were $24.9 million or 75 cents a share, compared with $21.9 million or 65.9 cents a share a year earlier.

Exploration Deal

An agreement signed recently between Pacific Copper Mines Ltd., and Cominco Explorations Pty. Ltd. will result in an immediate exploration program being carried out by Cominco on one of Pacific Copper Mines Ltd. properties in Australia.

Cominco must spend $100,000 on the exploration and appraisal of Pacific's "Belara Project," before any interest is earned. Cominco has already spent $25,000 on geochemical and geophysical work and a diamond drill program is planned as the next stage of the program.

Under the new agreement, Cominco will receive a 70 per cent interest in the Belara Property when they have spent $300,000.

Businessman Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Alan Bruce Munro, 64, vice-president and managing-director of F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., died Tuesday while working at his office. He also served on the board of the parent U.S. company. Mr. Munro managed stores in Welland, Ottawa and Vancouver before he was appointed supervisor for the Maritime region in 1940. He moved to Toronto in 1942.

Mercury Congress

Reg Midgely of Mercury Marine Sales and Service Ltd. of Victoria has been named one of the 170 U.S. and Canadian dealers who will attend the annual Mercury National Dealer Congress at l'Esterel, Que. Sept. 9-12.

B.C. Packers

B.C. Packers reported Tuesday that recovery of income taxes because of losses in previous periods allowed it to show a net income of $89,958 in the first half of this year.

J. Norman Hyland, chairman and chief executive officer, said comparative figures were not given because of a change in the company's fiscal year.

The company's interim report said consolidated sales and other revenue totalled $38.6 million while cost of sales was $36.7 million and depreciation was $1 million.

The net loss before taxes was $148,042. Recovery of income taxes was $238,000.

Gold Deadlock Plan Proposed by German

By HOBART ROWEN

WASHINGTON (WP) — A proposal to assure South African producers a floor price of $35 an ounce for new gold has been made by the influential German economist Otmar Emminger, member of the board of governors of the Deutsche Bundesbank.

Emminger's suggestion for breaking the existing deadlock over South African gold supplies is being published in the September issue of "Intereconomics," a Hamburg magazine.

It comes a few weeks in advance of the annual meeting in Washington of the International Monetary Fund, which may tackle the controversy within the IMF executive board over the South African gold situation.

Emminger's plan has two key elements.

1. The IMF would guarantee to buy gold from South Africa or other producers "whenever the free market price drops (or threatens to drop) below $35 an ounce over a certain minimum period."

2. In exchange for his assurance of a floor, the producers would have to be "willing to channel newly-mined gold in an orderly way into the free market whenever the price in this market was higher than $35."

●

This is something less than the South Africans have been arguing for, ever since the leading gold pool nations last March, in effort to beat off the speculative push for higher gold prices, said that it was no longer "necessary to buy gold from the market." In effect, they were saying they had enough monetary gold in their treasuries.

They anticipated that the South Africans, who account for 75 per cent or so of Western gold production, would thus be forced to sell all of their new gold in the free market, preventing the price from skyrocketing.

But the South Africans have held most of their gold off the speculative markets, anticipating that the two-tier price system created by the March decision would not last long, and that a big jump in the official price of gold would be put into effect.

●

They have been lobbying within the IMF to establish the right to sell gold at the $35 price at their own discretion to the international agency. They have been resisted, Emminger observed, because this privilege would allow the South Africans to "decide at will what share of its newly-mined gold to sell on the free market and what share at the official price. As a monopolist, it could reap the highest possible profit." The U.S. has led the fight against the South African proposal.

Emminger's floor plan, if it undershoots what the South Africans would like, is more than the U.S. would like to give. The compromise would eliminate the prospect that gold could fall below the $35 level, and would weaken the determination of last March to freeze the supply of monetary gold levels. It would tend to give a new element of importance to gold, at a time when the forward looking view is toward de-emphasis.

The latter concern doesn't worry Emminger. He believes that recent events have "already discredited gold as the supreme measure of values," and that his compromise is a reasonable step toward the stability in the price of gold.

"After all," he said, "the interest of the central bankers is really the same as the South Africans. And that is, to prevent big fluctuations in the price of gold. It isn't so important if the free market is above $35. It could be $38 or $39 as long as it is stable."

●

In his "Intereconomics" article, Emminger points out that gold reserves cannot be easily displaced, and that gold is still the measure for the new system of special drawings rights now going through a process of international ratification.

The attitude of the South Africans remains to be seen. Their pressure for the right to sell to the IMF at the official $35 price shows a recognition of the real possibility, if not the immediate prospect, that prices could be depressed.

Emminger says that the commercial price "might very well" dip below $35 if large supplies from private hoards or from Eastern bloc countries should come on the market. Recent meetings among international bankers have heard repeated rumors of a substantial new Russian gold strike.

As to any purchases of gold by the IMF under the Emminger proposal, they would either be held to replenish the agency's own gold stocks, or be sold to acquire scarce currencies.

Okanagan 'Copters

Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., in an interim report to shareholders, said Tuesday it had a net loss of $272,300 in the first six months of 1968.

Glenn McPherson, president and managing director, said this compares with a loss of $35,000 in the same period last year.

Revenue hours flown in the six months were 9,150, resulting in sales of $2.3 million. Figures for the same period in 1967 were 11,280 revenue hours worth $1.9 million.

Mr. McPherson said that because of the seasonal aspects of the company's business, interim reports vary substantially and do not fairly show the general trend of the firm's affairs on the annual basis.

Reserves Now Exceed $2.5 Billion

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign exhange reserves increased by $74.9 million during August, making the fifth consecutive month of strength for the Canadian dollar.

Finance Minister Benson announced today that the official holdings of gold and U.S. dollars totalled $2,589,500,000 on Aug. 31.

They were $2,514,600,000 a month earlier.

Exchange reserves are the buffer used to support Canada's pegged exchange rate by absorbing imbalances in capital flows between Canada and other countries.

More than $700 million was drained from the reserves through purchases of U.S. dollars to support the Canadian dollar during its period of weakness early this year.

PWA Studying Cheap Fares For Oldsters

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines said Tuesday it is studying proposals for no-strings-attached reduced fares for persons 65 and over.

PWA vice-president Don Watson said the matter "has been under serious study for some time."

Mr. Watson said if the company does decide to apply to the federal air transport committee for reduced fares for elderly persons, it would not be on a standby basis.

"They would have the full rights and privileges of any other passengers. They would not be held up en route which can occur on a standby system."

Canadian Pacific Airlines said Friday it is applying for a special fare for senior citizens.

If its application is approved by the air transport committee, senior citizens will fly for 50 per cent of the regular fare on a standby basis.

The company said that once accepted for travel, the passenger would be confirmed through to his destination but would fly only when space not occupied by full-fare passengers becomes available.

U.S. Minicars Finally on Way

DETROIT (AP) — A high American Motors source confirmed Monday reports that AMC is about to make its long-awaited move into the minicar market.

The official said American has started preliminary work on a project which will see a new, small car introduced a year from now.

"There are problems in tooling which cannot be speeded up," he said.

American's current smallest car, the compact Rambler, has a 106-inch wheelbase and a base price of $1,946 U.S. with a six-cylinder engine. It has not been able to halt Volkswagen's success in the United States market.

Indications are that Volkswagen (priced at $1,850) will wind up calendar 1968 with about 400,000 sales, better than half the U.S. import market. American is aiming at 300,000 sales for the year.

AMC officials apparently have reversed the attitude the company held for the last five years —that costs of tooling up for a car in the minicar or subcompact field would be prohibitive.

Their decision was hurried along in part by Ford's reported program of building a subcompact, with the code name Delta.

Reports say the Delta will have a 103-inch wheelbase, five inches shorter than the Ford Falcon, and will sell in the $1,700 to $1,800 range, informed observers say. Ford never has confirmed officially the Delta project, but during its national press preview last week various Ford officials, while declining to discuss the minicar project, passed up several chances to deny its existence.

Chrysler has said it has no minicar in the works for 1970 models but it left the door open. General Motors' official line is that it has no such project on the boards.

AMC's minicar, says Dave Smith, business editor of the Detroit Free Press, is to be built on a 100-inch wheelbase, compared with 95 inches for the Volkswagen. He said it would seat four persons comfortably and would be in the $1,800 to $1,900 range.

7% GNP RISE SAYS BANK

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce predicts a 7 per cent increase in Canada's gross national product this year, including a rise in real output of 3.5 to 4 per cent.

In its July-August Commercial Letter, the bank says economic conditions at mid-1968 are reasonably favorable but that stimulation from the United States economy will moderate during the second half.

The bank says the predicted rise of 7 per cent is slightly better than last year but that unemployment is higher and the growth rate for the economy as a whole is still "considerably below potential."

Increase in GNP for the first half of 1968 is put at five per cent, two percentage points of it due to higher prices. Total exports rose 16 per cent and exports to the U.S. 25 per cent.

SPENDING UP

Consumer spending was up nine per cent and government expenditures seven. Business investment in plant and equipment was lower than first-half 1967 but higher than second-half 1967.

Consumer prices rose at about the same rate, up two per cent during first-half 1968.

Surplus in merchandise trade in first-quarter 1968 was an estimated $236 million and deficit on non-merchandise trade $461 million. This left a deficit of $225 million in total current-account transactions.

The second-quarter deficit was expected to be less than in 1967.

Seven More Banks Drop Prime Rate

TORONTO (CP) — Reflecting a growing trend toward easier interest rates, seven chartered banks announced Tuesday they have lowered their prime lending rates to 6¾ per cent from seven.

They were the Bank of British Columbia, Royal Bank of Canada, Bank of Nova Scotia, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Toronto-Dominion Bank, Banque Canadienne Nationale and Provincial Bank of Canada.

A week ago, Bank of Montreal announced a similar cut.

The prime rate is the interest charged by the chartered banks on loans made to their top-rated customers.

Opening the door for the chartered banks' move was the weekend action by the Bank of Canada is cutting its interest rate to 6 per cent from 6½.

The Bank of Canada rate is the interest it charges on loans it makes to chartered banks.

Although such loans are rarely made, its rate level is accepted as a sign of whether the central bank wants general credit made easier through lower interest rates, or whether it wants to damp down the economy by increased interest charges.

The central bank rate reached a peak March 15 of 7½ per cent, during the international currency crisis. It was cut to 7 per cent July 2 after short-term interest rates started to ease in Canada, and was dropped to 6½ per cent July 29.

Brenda Spending Totals One-Sixth Ultimate Bill

VANCOUVER (CP) — B. O. Brynelsen, president of Brenda Mines, said Tuesday in a report to shareholders that contractual obligations amounting to $9.8 million has been entered into at June 30.

The cost of bringing a huge low-grade copper — molybdenum property near Peachland, B.C., into production has been estimated at $60 million.

In addition to a $25 million bank loan, the operation is being financed $7.5 million by Nippon Mining and Mitsui Co., and $27.5 million by Noranda Mines.

John Hall, general manager, said that 1.5 million tons of waste had been stripped as of Aug. 21.

About 9 million tons must be removed before milling begins.

As of June 30 Brenda had spent $4,363,836, said Mr. Brynelsen.

THE ACCOUNTANT'S ADVICE

Start Saving Now

(This is a service provided by the Times and the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.).

By EDGAR A. DOWNEY, CA

Everyone who earns a reasonable income deserves to keep some of it, to keep it for years and let it grow to provide financial independence.

The majority of people pressed by budget problems and the rising cost of living feel they have no chance of attaining such a utopia. But that majority are wrong! They do have a chance, and most of them can do it in fact, if they want to.

"A lean purse is easier to cure than to endure" is an ancient Babylonian proverb but it remains true in any era.

There are, of course, some people who have no ability to look after themselves and who cannot climb out of the absolute poverty level. But most of what we recognize as poverty would be considered great wealth by the really poverty-stricken peoples in other parts of the world.

For most people the lack of money can be overcome by a determined decision to improve, and acceptance of very slow growth at the start.

One hundred dollars invested at 5 per cent will earn only $5.00 at the end of one year, but if its earnings are left to compound at 5 per cent a year for 30 years that original $100 will grow to over $400.

Or, put conversely, a man aged 35 who wastes $100 upon a non-essential expenditure has really wasted $400 of his retirement funds at age 65. And that is assuming a yield of only 5 per cent, and that he only ever wasted $100 once in his life.

If the yield could be 7 per cent and if he wasted $100 a year for 30 years the total waste at age 65 would be more than $10,000. How many people, even the relatively poor, do spend $100 a year on something which was not absolutely essential? And how many of those people cannot find a 7 per cent investment? The mutual fund salesmen would love to meet such people.

To bring the position more into the range of the middle income group, a man of forty can save $500 a year for 25 years at a compound yield of 7 per cent can have a capital sum of over $33,500 at age 65. And that capital sum could be used to provide a comfortable retirement annuity.

The problem is to make the decision and to maintain it. A man who works for his income should put himself on his own payroll first. A portion of all he earns is his to keep and to hold against all other claims; and to keep it earning income in a moderate yield, high security, investment.

It is easy to intend to start a savings program but much more difficult to carry that intention into practice this year. Next year always seems to be a much better time and after all 7 per cent earnings on that $500 in one year would be only $35. But this excuse is based upon a fallacy.

A delay until next year for a man of forty would mean that his savings program would have only 24 years to run to retirement at 65. It is the 25th year which is dropped, not the first year. The earnings for next year (i.e. the first year) would still be only $35 but the lost earnings for the 25th year would have been $2,212. So that the one year delay would cause a material reduction in the comfort provided by his retirement annuity.

The time to start a savings program is always now, today! It is never too early, and even the man who has delayed until next year for many past years can still enjoy some of the benefits of growth investment by using the few years he has left to earn, and to save.
